Causing Heavy Loss of Life and Damage to Property Already Has Captured Two Big Turkish Transports

A flood that overwhelmed the town of Austin, Pa., late Saturday, caused the loss of at least 150 lives and damaged property estimated to be worth $6,000,000. The flood resulted from the bursting of a big dam. Relief trains are carrying food and other relief to the stricken people.

STORY OF DISASTER
FLOOD CAME ALMOST WITHOUT ANY WARNING

AUSTIN, Pa., Oct. 2.—The towns of Austin and Costello were wiped out Saturday by a flood, when the dam of the Bayless Pulp and Paper company burst, letting loose 500,000,000 gallons of water. At least 150 people were drowned. The population of Austin was 2200, of Costello 500.

The survivors are in a frenzy. The calamity came without a moment's warning. Burgess Michael Dunn has not been located, and it is feared he, women and children are searching through the ruins for families and friends. The only light is the glare from hundreds of houses and business buildings, which caught fire from broken gas pipes. Many bodies lie in the track of the flood.

The dam was built two years ago a structure 520 feet long, spanning the little valley formed by Freeman Run, and rising to 15 feet. It was of concrete, 32 feet wide at the base, and was said to be constructed after the most approved modern plans.

Dam Between Hills

The dam was located between two hills above Austin in such a position that the rushing waters could not but sweep over practically the entire community. Some of the houses on the hillside escaped serious damage. The central part of the town, however, was wiped out.

For the first time since its construction two years ago the water was running over the top Saturday, and many persons went out from Austin to see the unusual sight.

They were horrified when a section about 20 feet wide gave way on the west side. A great volume of water poured through the hole. People ran for their lives to the hills near by, but some were caught in the flood and whirled down the valley. A moment later another break occurred, this time on the east side. It was much greater and permitted the bulk of the mass of water behind it to rush in a mighty volume toward the lowlands.

Harry Davis, a locomotive engineer, reached a telephone and notified the operator at Coudersport. She called as many persons as possible. But the time was short. The raging flood tore down the little valley, carrying death on its debris-covered crest. Hundreds of women and children—the men were away at work—were caught in their homes and drowned or crushed.

State Senator Perishes

State Senator Baldwin and his entire family were drowned.

Houses went down before the mighty onrush of water and gas pipes, bent and broken, released their dangerous fluid. Before the water had passed on its course through the town a dozen fires were burning in as many places and the cries of injured and imprisoned persons joined in the thunder of the flood.

Much of the debris lodged against the shore of the Buffalo & Susquehanna railroad, and here the fire raged furthest. Many men were caught here, and few, if any, escaped with their lives.

The course of the flood was through the business centre of the little village. A majority of the buildings were of wood, and those which were not immediately wrecked by the torrent were soon in flames.

announced that there were but two assigned cases and that it was his intention not to assign cases unless it was absolutely necessary.

The First Case

As a general rule there is never a case ready for trial on the opening day, but today was an exception and several were ready. The first one to be taken up was that of Berdos p. a. a. against the Tremont & Suffolk, an action of contract, in which the plaintiff seeks to recover $2000 damages. Despite the fact that it is a minor case in comparison with others which will be heard during the present sitting of the court, it is important inasmuch as this is the first time that the case has been brought to trial.

The case in substance is that Elias Berdos, a Greek, who had been in this country but a short time, went to work in the mine room of the Tremont & Suffolk mill; that the boy was at that time but 15 years of age which was in violation of the law relative to the employment of minors, and the plaintiff further alleges that besides the fact that the boy was illegally employed that he was not instructed as to what his duties were and while acting under the advice of a duly authorized agent of the company, it being on or about the 28th of January, 1907, he had the index finger of his left hand caught in a mule with the result that it was necessary to amputate the member.

There are three counts in the case and the answer by the defendant company is a general denial.

Trull & Wier and H. A. Varma appear for the plaintiff and Frank E. Dunbar and John Jacob Rogers for the defendant.

Mr. Fred N. Wier made an able opening argument for the plaintiff and explained in detail the three counts included in the complaint and laid special stress on the second count which alleged that the boy had been employed contrary to chapter 105, sections 23 and 33 of the revised laws of Massachusetts.

As previously stated this is the third time that this case has been brought to trial. On the first trial the court ordered a verdict for the defendant and agreed to report the case. The case was reported and in 1908 the report which was received was not satisfactory to counsel in the case and a new trial was ordered. The second trial was held in 1910 and again the judge ordered a verdict for the defense and once more the case was reported. On the second occasion the matter was brought before the supreme court.

The suit in question is brought by Nicholas Berdos, father of the injured boy. The father was the first witness and through the assistance of an interpreter, he testified that he came to this country from Greece about March 1907, and that his son came four or five months before him.

ITALIAN SQUADRON

ALREADY HAS CAPTURED TWO BIG TURKISH TRANSPORTS

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The strict Italian censorship is keeping the world in the dark in regard to the progress of events in the Mediterranean. From Italy itself the seas adjoining the Mediterranean and Turkey conflicting reports come in.

One cablegram announced definitely that Tripoli had been bombarded and occupied. Another said that no attack had been made. One thing is certain, which is that the Italians had not attacked the town up to midnight Saturday, for had they done so their guns would have been heard on the steamer Castelgarth, which left Tripoli shortly before that hour and arrived at Malta this morning.

The reports as to the situation at Prevesa are conflicting. Turkish officials here confirm a news despatch saying that the forts had been destroyed and 1600 troops landed, while Italy gives an emphatic denial of the report, saying that the Italian government had no intention to resort to acts against the territorial status of Turkey in Europe.

It is believed that what actually happened was that the Turkish vessels in the vicinity were scattered and the forts destroyed to prevent raids on the Italian coast shipping. Probably this was sufficient for the population, as one cable says that the telegraph operators left the place as soon as the bombardment was commenced.

Europe is greatly relieved at the receipt of news that Turkey has assured Greece that she has no intention of attacking her, as had been rumored.

The success of the Italian blockade of the Tripolitan coast and her securing of the seas is shown in the arrival of two captured Turkish transports at Taranto and Brindisi respectively.

The reports of the capture of Turkish torpedo boats come from several sources. Probably they all refer to those engaged off Prevesa. The impression prevails that the hostilities will be of brief duration. Then it is believed that Turkey finding herself unable to despatch troops to Tripoli will accept the mediation of Germany.

SUPERIOR CIVIL COURT

Judge King Presiding at Session That Opened in This City Today

The October sitting of the civil session of the superior court, with Justice E. Thurston, presiding, opened today at 10 o'clock in the morning in the court room of the city hall. There was the usual large attendance of lawyers and the greater portion of the morning was taken up in the opening of court with prayer, and swearing in jurors, the court instructing jurors, the reading of the docket, assignment of cases and hearing of motions.

Immediately after the opening of court the following list of jurors was read:

Fred C. Amosden, clerk, Lowell; Leonard D. Batchelder, farmer, North Reading; William Bollington, farmer, Billerica; Greenleaf C. Brock, druggist, Lowell; Harry O. Buxton, teacher, Chelmsford; John J. Cassidy, machinist, Lowell; Daniel L. Chamberlain, clerk, Cambridge; Jeremiah K. Chandler, farmer, Tewksbury; John Conley, machinist, Billerica; Frank L. Crosby, farmer, Braintree; Ernest H. Davis, painter, Westford; James H. Farver, laborer, Westford; Abraham H. Harn, grain dealer, Woburn; Walter A. Hill, shoemaker, Wilmington; Alphonse W. Holt, carpenter, Chelmsford; Harry W. Ireland, merchant, Littleton; Parker J. Kemp, farmer, Pepperell; John L. Lerby, bookkeeper, Ayer; Adam Malle, farmer, Dracut; Peter D. McMahon, provision dealer, Wilmington; Charles A. Menut, farmer, North Andover; Joseph A. Nash, lawyer, Framingham; Albert S. Nickles, teacher, Cambridge; John L. Pincery, farmer, Littleton; Luther G. Robbins, paper finisher, Pepperell; George R. Robeson, clerk, Tyngsborough; David Rousseau, clerk, Lowell; Arthur W. Sanders, shuttle manufacturer, Lowell; Walter W. Sprague, billing clerk, Ayer; Warren

P. Sweetser, farmer, Westford; Charles E. Thurston, transfer, Lowell; Charles E. Tulley, farmer, Dunstable; Harry R. Worley, stone cutter, Tyngsborough; Frank L. Weaver, gravel roofer, Lowell; Frederick E. Welch, furniture repairer, Lowell; Joseph S. Williams, farmer, Framingham; Edward G. Winn, milk dealer, Burlington; Geo. E. Winters, brickmaker, Tewksbury; and James Wood, machinist, Burlington.

Rev. N. W. Matthews of the Gosham Street Primitive Methodist church then offered prayer.

The jurors were then sworn in by Clerk Roger Hurd, and Judge King gave instructions which are customary at the opening of a session of the court. The judge spoke in part as follows:

"First, of all I am going to assume that these gentlemen of your honor have never served as jurors before. The word juror means one who is sworn to do his duty as a judge of the facts. Let it not trouble you as to your judgment, for you are supposed to determine to the best of your judgment and ability."

"You are to hear the testimony, observe witnesses and hear arguments by counsel and the charge by the judge. Then you are to hear the opinion of your fellows in the conference room and no man should assume to know it all until he has heard those different men."

"Reach conclusions if possible after you have conferred and try not to disagree."

Wanted to Be Excused

Seven jurors then asked to be excused, and the court excused Jacob A. Ham of Woburn and John L. Pincery of Littleton.

A portion of the docket was gone through, after which several motions were heard and later the court an-

SWINDLING SCHEME

Man Arrested on Charge Was Held in $50 Until Thursday

A rather interesting story of a woman, Roy, who was a very interesting listener, spoke up and said that he had been criminally for 15 too, and by the same man whom he was escorting to the depot.

Tangway then offered to reimburse the stolen money, but Mrs. Pinard refused to accept anything from him, and she telephoned to the station. Inspector Charles Lachance and Sgt. McClellan were detailed on the job and they soon had Tangway in their custody. The latter was sent to headquarters and there it was discovered that Mrs. Pinard's money had been stolen from her house and that Tangway had slept at her house and was fed for a couple of days at her expense.

When Judge Hadley heard the facts in this case this morning he ordered the case continued till Thursday in order that the police might get more evidence against the defendant, if possible, as it is believed that a number of Lowell people were swindled by this man.

In regard to this man, Inspector Lachance has in his possession a photograph which was sent to him ten years ago of a man who was wanted in Lowell, although it did not say on what charge. The name of the photograph is L. J. Pinard, alias, Boissoneault, and it was accompanied by a complete description of the man. Tangway was measured at the police station, and the measurements taken correspond exactly to those on the photograph, even to the scar on his chin. He was 32 years old at the time, and was 5 feet 5 inches in height, complexion dark.

A similar game was worked a few years ago on a South Lowell family and by a man answering the description of Tangway. The swindler first tried his luck with a family in Wigganville. There he introduced himself as a cousin of the resident of the house and he was so well versed on the family that he even related events of 25 years past.

He knew the names of all children, which goes to show that whoever he was, he was a clever man, but in this case he was baffled. The father of the family had a sister who had just returned from Montreal where the supposed cousin was from, and she was sent for. When she arrived she immediately denounced the man as an impostor, and he, caught in his game, left the house and went to South Lowell, where he successfully worked his game on a family named Lecombe.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt is confined to her bed today by injuries received last Saturday afternoon when she was thrown from her saddle horse. The absence of the entire Roosevelt family from church yesterday caused inquiry which today brought the first news of the accident outside the family circle.

The mishap occurred on the road between this village and Sagamore Hill. Mrs. Roosevelt was riding with Col. Roosevelt and their son Archie. Something startled Mrs. Roosevelt's mount,

BIG DAM BURST

CLEARING RUINS

FEW OF THE DEAD HAVE BEEN IDENTIFIED

AUSTIN, Fla., Oct. 2.—With the arrival of a carload of coffins here this morning the grimness of the tragedy which has practically obliterated this town was impressed on the survivors and a considerable number of workers who today began anew their efforts to mine deeply in the hard hills of debris. Twenty victims, including two at Castello, had been placed in a temporary morgue at Odd Fellows hall, one of the few buildings standing in the ruined district. The identified dead are 12, as follows:

J. E. BALDWIN, father of State Senator Baldwin.
MRS. MARION KINNACUT.
MISS IDA MILLER.
MRS. WILLIAM NELSON.
MRS. DR. MANSURY.
MISS ANNIE JACKSON.
MRS. CHARLES SCHWELF.
MRS. MORTON SCHWELF.
MRS. GEORGE RICHARDS.
MISS LOUISA MILLER.
MISS LENA RICHIE.
RALPH DONAFIRO.

The most essential matter in hand here today, aside from the work of clearing away the ruins, is the completion of a census of the living Austin citizens. Two such censuses are being worked upon. The results, however, have as yet been supplied insufficient data for the formation of any reliable opinion as to the total death list in Austin. If the death list aggregates anything like the enormous number have estimated the state board of health officials realize that conditions demanding prompt attention will arise within a few days in the ruins.

Number of Dead
The best informed investigators, however, are unprepared to learn that more than two hundred have perished. There is, indeed, a possibility that 150 will be the total. There is little hope that any of the bodies remaining in the wreckage will be found intact. The general aspect of the debris indicates that hundreds of thousands of jello-like splinters and shreds of buildings were shot through and through the first accumulations of ruins by the debris subsequently hurled downward by the continuing flood.

The polling conditions today are purely perfect. A 12 hour downpour of rain served to reduce the number of sightseers and to this extent the police were relieved. Major Flinn and Captain Schell and Jark of the National Guard have arrived from Harrisburg. The state constabulary, state sanitary engineers and chief officials of the state health department are co-operating in the measures for protection and relief.

Homes Shattered
Austin, Costello and the valley beyond look like dead towns. The valley side hills in which they lie are still littered by the shattered homes of the people and the remnants of prosperous places of business. No reliable estimate of the property loss has or can be made and it is safe to say that it will not be less than $5,000,000. The paper and lumber industries are utterly destroyed.

The supply of timber, however, was rapidly nearing exhaustion and at the best it was thought five years from now the industry would be practically at an end. In fact, about 200 families fled from Austin this fall. Five hundred more would have gone within the next year or two unless some industrial development came in to hold them.

"This disaster has merely hurried the end," said a prominent Austin business man today.
Questioned as to the cause of the sudden failure of the Bayless Pulp and Paper Co.'s dam, citizens and business men recall the storm a year ago last January when a considerable leak was discovered in the immense cement structure. Although two feet along the rim of the dam were removed to relieve the pressure and a 14 foot patch was placed where needed the alignment of the upper edge of the dam gradually became a slight arc instead of a straight line. This, it is believed, caused the water to rise and led to a somewhat recent inspection.

PROPERTY LOSS
IS ESTIMATED TO AMOUNT TO $6,000,000

AUSTIN, Pa., Oct. 2.—Shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday morning the first relief train over the Pennsylvania railroad arrived. Four carloads of food and medical supplies were the first to arrive. This was ordered by Gov. John Tener and the train left Harrisburg at 4:10 yesterday morning in charge of Major Finney of the 5th regiment, N. G.

Hello Girl is Heroine
It was shown yesterday morning that there was need of a strong hand to guard the town. Pillagers had been at work during the night following a rumor that the vaults of the Austin bank and the safes of several stores had been wrecked.

The rumor was not true, and the citizens and volunteers did effective work in keeping off would-be plunderers. In several cases the guardians had hand-to-hand conflicts with the marauders in which the latter were worsted.

The survivors of the flood had not recovered from the horror of the scene yesterday morning and for many hours had not seen strangers visited the ruins. As the day progressed small knots of survivors met and visited the sights of the ruined town.

Saw Water Rush Upon Town
The engineer fled his whistle down and the town was awaked continuously.
Miss Buckley then rushed to the street screaming the warning cry, "The dam has broken!" as she fled for her life toward the steep hillside at the north end of Main street.

Turning toward the valley, she saw the great wall of water rushing upon the town.
"From where I stood," she said yesterday, "the wall of water seemed 100 feet high. Above it rose a great cloud spray in which houses seemed to toss, burning one another, spinning and turning as they fell to pieces or were swept out of my sight. The noise was appalling.

"When I fled from Main street there were scores of people behind me, many of them children. They did not seem to appreciate their danger. Some turned into streets as if to make a retail purchase. While I was looking down upon them, utterly helpless to give further warning, the cloud of mist that seemed to precede the flood hid them from view and a moment later the green water buried them from my sight."

Mr. Morin said yesterday that in his opinion not more than 150 lives were lost.
"It is possible that this figure will cover the loss," he said, "and it is possible that there will be not more than 100 dead."

Property Loss $6,000,000
The Burgess and Rev. P. W. O'Brien, who had been pastor of St. Augustine's Catholic church at Austin many years and who are familiar with business conditions and values, estimate the property damage at about $6,000,000.

The Bayless company, which owned the dam, will lose $1,500,000, according to Fr. O'Brien. The Goodyear Lumber company $1,000,000, the Buffalo & Sagadahoc railroad $500,000, and the 200 houses destroyed with their contents, it is said, will total $1,000,000 more.

One of the striking and pathetic features of the day, according to Dr. Thomas H. A. Styles, chief of the state dispensaries, was the practical absence of children among the survivors. It is thought that when the wreckage had been cleared away and the bodies of the victims recovered—although many have been entirely destroyed—it would be found that a large proportion were those of children.

Lockhard Barely Escaped
Roy Lockhard, a young business man, had a narrow escape. Mr. Lockhard said that when he heard the alarm given he thought someone was playing a practical joke and he went in the street to watch the people. He happened to look in the direction of the dam and saw the on-rushing flood (Three blocks away).

Lockhard fled to a wall of wood, 25 feet high," he said. "At first glance I did not see the water at all because the wood at the pulp mill was carried before it and became a sort of battering ram that tore away the buildings of the town.

"I ran toward the hill and by the greatest effort got above the level of the water while it was surging within 10 feet of me. The ground began to give way under me, but I managed to dig my feet further up and caught hold of a tree, to which I clung."

Castello Warned in Time
Thousands of people came to the town yesterday from all points in the Sinnemauchung valley below Austin which had learned the extent of the disaster to seek friends and relatives.

The rush of the water had carried away every means of wire communication and impeded travel of every kind. J. C. Burchard, who lived within half a mile of Castello, said yesterday that when the crest of the flood swept past his home there were no signs of human beings or their houses in the debris.
"The entire surface of the flood was covered with newly saved timber and pieces of lumber," he said. "It was not until a lapse of five or six minutes that pieces of house-tops, broken furniture and other evidences of the destruction of the town began to appear."

Man in Sharp Turn
The annihilation of Austin occurred on a beautiful autumn afternoon. The fine weather had attracted many of the younger element to a ball game in a nearby town and thus they escaped the fate of many of their friends and relatives.

Women were about the streets, for their Saturday afternoon shopping and those and the merchants who were selling their goods were caught by the rushing of water almost before they had time to think of escape.

There were small crowds also at moving picture theatres which were swept away by the water. Women rocking their babies at home and teachers preparing their Sunday lessons were hurled into eternity before their startled senses could even grasp their overwhelming doom.

The greatest loss of life by fire occurred at a sharp turn of the river just below Main street, where the debris was caught up and compressed with terrific power by the circling sweep of the flood.

Flames Under Control
The wreckage of the busiest portion of the town was carried to that point and it caught fire from upset stoves and lamps. It is believed that scores of persons were buried under from 10 to 20 feet of wreckage, and the task of recovering the bodies will necessarily be a difficult one.

In a drizzling rain, which changed into a heavy storm, hundreds of volunteers carried on the work of rescue yesterday, while many others, hysterical from the fate that had overcome friends and relatives, viewed the muddy corpses fearful to know if any among them were loved ones.

Fires were still burning briskly in some portions of the wreckage yesterday afternoon, although they had been under control several hours.

Outside Firemen Arrive
The Buffalo & Sagadahoc railroad brought a way into Austin over the rails yesterday by connecting with the Keating-Summit spur, a branch track which followed the hill. By this route it landed several fire companies from Olean, Galeton, Renova and Smithport.

Not a manufacturing industry is left standing and not a business place in the town except a few cheaply constructed wooden houses occupied by foreigners and situated on the hillside remain of the residence portion.

A fortunate exception is the little hospital on one of the hillsides. The school building also escaped destruction.
Chief of Police Baker and Ernest Hamilton and a number of constables from nearby towns maintained as good order as could be expected throughout the night and until the arrival of a company of the state constabulary at 11 o'clock yesterday morning.

There were 80 mounted men in the state squad, but on account of the wreckage in the valley it was found impracticable to picket the ruins on horseback.

Little Pillage as Yet
Lives were established and only workers and scavengers were allowed to pass them. There was but little pillage. During the forenoon Chief Baker discovered a watch from a dead man's pocket, but to attempt an arrest was useless and the body got away after some rough handling by the crowd.

In the wreckage of three stores he found that the cash registers had been broken open and the contents had been stolen. One man who was found with three watches was locked up in a night car.

A primary election was in progress in the town hall at the time the flood broke. A hatless man dashing by yelled to the crowd about the booth something about "the dam bursting" and the election inspectors and voters rushed to the hills. Some escaped, but many were hurled into the debris which formed a dam of itself just below Main street.

KNIVES WERE USED
THREE MEN WERE INJURED AT WORCESTER
WORCESTER, Oct. 2.—A puzzling case was brought to the attention of the police last night through the story of Adolph Kalki, 30 years old, who lives at 10 Earle terrace. He was taken to headquarters in the ambulance with an ugly rash on his back and insists that no one was near him when he received the injury. He declared that a knife had been thrown at him.

While the ambulance was out for Kalki, Angelo Farlee of 2 Plum street walked into the station with a knife, which he had taken from a Salter's beach were footprints where a man had walked back and forth and apparently been drinking the water. Some of the searchers believe, Sweater said, that he was eating supper and that when he went out to investigate was attacked by two men, while several others looked on. Kalki told of being injured at the corner of Shrewsbury and Plum streets.

Officers on the beat were told to investigate and in a few minutes brought in Patsy Condit of 29 Plum street with a slash across his shoulder. He admitted, the police say, that there was a row, during which someone ran into a store under Farlee's home and that a barrel was thrown through a window. It appeared that when Farlee went out to see what had happened he was taken for a man who had sought refuge in the building.

Kalki lives at another part of the city, however, and persists in the story that he saw no one around when suddenly he felt the slash of a knife and went into the nearest drug store, where an ambulance was called.

BANK CLERK GONE

Police Think Missing Man Is Dead
BOSTON, Oct. 2.—Metropolitan police, after dragging the waters of Middle reservoir, Middlesex Falls, all day yesterday for the body of Herbert B. Sweetser, a bookkeeper at the National Shrivart Bank in Boston, and a resident of Winchester, who disappeared Saturday night, will return to the task again today, and will be aided by the moth section employees of the park department and by volunteers from Winchester.

Sweetser, 42 years old, married, with three daughters, aged 3, 16 and 19 years, respectively, has his home at 19 Myrtle terrace, Winchester, on the border of the Middlesex Falls reservoir. He had been complaining of severe pains in his side and head of late, and told fellow workers at the bank Friday and Saturday that he felt as if he would go crazy from the agony.

Saturday he left work at 4 p. m., saying he intended to consult a physician. Later he was seen on a Salter's Square-Stonham car, which he left at Causeway road, a carriage drive running from Stonham across the parkway to his home.

His wife and children became alarmed when he did not appear at home and late Saturday night notified the Winchester police, who called on the Metropolitan police to aid them in the search. No trace of him was found Saturday night.
Sergeant Edward Brawley and a squad of park police conducted the search yesterday. Near Causeway road, close by Middle reservoir, Principal Joseph S. Hooper of the Wadleigh school, Winchester, a neighbor of Sweetser, found the missing man's hat, on the sandy beach were footprints where a man had walked back and forth and apparently been drinking the water. The closing exercises of the men's retreat were held at St. Peter's church, town, yesterday afternoon and evening with splendid attendance. The great office to the doors. During the two weeks of the mission it is estimated that over 17,000 communications were given, over 17,000 women taking part in the mission services and about 17,000 men. In all making the retreat one of the most successful ever conducted in the parish. The results are gratifying to the missionaries and the pastor and his assistants, and they have commended the parishioners and again for their faithfulness and loyalty in following out the rules of the mission.

The exercises for the unmarried men of the parish took place at 3 o'clock and long before that time the church was filled. Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan opened the exercises by reading the rosary. The sermon was an eloquent effort and was delivered by Rev. Fr. O'Donnell, D. S. A., who had made a deep impression during the week by his instructions on the commandments at the 5 o'clock mass. Fr. O'Donnell took for his text the following: "He that shall persevere to the end shall be saved." The reverend gentleman referred to the exercises of the mission in which the men participated and said that the good accruing therefrom would be lost if the men did not persevere. He urged the men to remember what has been told them during the retreat, to avoid the association of bad company, to hold fast to the teachings of the church, to indulge in prayer as often as possible and to frequent the sacraments.

Fr. O'Donnell spoke of the temptations to sin that confronted the men, and he exhorted them to pray fervently. He referred to the Holy Name society as being enlisted in a great movement for honoring the holy name of Jesus, and wanted all men to associate themselves with it, and to participate in their quarterly communion. Fr. O'Donnell closed with an eloquent appeal to the men to persevere, and if they did he was sure God in His infinite mercy would reward them on the last day.

Following the sermon, Rev. Fr. Whelan, O. S. A., mounted the pulpit and spoke in reference to baptism and the vows made in baptism of renouncing the devil and all his works and temptations for all present to renew the vows. Accordingly he asked the men to hold the candles while he blessed them.

A Magnificent Scene
Fr. Whelan then requested the men to light the candles and the scene at this particular moment was particularly inspiring. All the incandescent lights in the church were turned off, and as the men held their candles aloft, Fr. Whelan read aloud the promises he wanted kept and the men responded in a loud voice "I do." It was a magnificent scene impossible of description viewed from the choir gallery, for the great church filled to overflowing was one blaze of light. After the renewal of the baptismal vows came benediction of the blessed sacrament. Rev. Fr. O'Donnell officiating. Just before benediction, Mr. James E. Donnelly rendered a beautiful "Ave Maria" and later an "O Salutaris" was sung by Mr. Lawrence Delaney. Mrs. J. W. McKennedy presided at the organ. The eulogistic benediction to which a plenary indulgence is attached for all those who received communion, was bestowed by Rev. Fr. Whelan, assisted by Rev. Fr. Heffernan. The services closed with the singing of the hymn of praise by the choir and congregation.

The Married Men's Exercises
The final exercises for the married men of the parish took place in a very inspiring and the order of exercises was substantially the same as during the afternoon. A very large number of men was in attendance in spite of the inclement weather, and the services were quite impressive.

Sermon on Holy Rosary
Rev. John T. O'Brien was the celebrant of his mass yesterday, and Rev. Fr. Whelan, O. S. A., gave a thoughtful sermon on the Holy Rosary, the day being Rosary Sunday in the church calendar. He took his text from the angelic salutation "Hail Mary, full of grace, etc." He dwelt on the origin of the rosary, and he said it has been recited in some form or another since the dawn of Christianity. He recounted its efficacy in times of war, or when nations as well as individuals were in distress. Fr. Whelan said that in the great city of New York, Catholic men prominent in business and professional life, have been known to go into the nearest Catholic church at the close of their daily labors and recite the rosary. This practice is a commendable one and should be revived in every Catholic parish in the land by all Catholics, said the reverend gentleman.

After the renewal of the baptismal vows came benediction of the blessed sacrament. Rev. Fr. O'Donnell officiating. Just before benediction, Mr. James E. Donnelly rendered a beautiful "Ave Maria" and later an "O Salutaris" was sung by Mr. Lawrence Delaney. Mrs. J. W. McKennedy presided at the organ. The eulogistic benediction to which a plenary indulgence is attached for all those who received communion, was bestowed by Rev. Fr. Whelan, assisted by Rev. Fr. Heffernan. The services closed with the singing of the hymn of praise by the choir and congregation.

The Married Men's Exercises
The final exercises for the married men of the parish took place in a very inspiring and the order of exercises was substantially the same as during the afternoon. A very large number of men was in attendance in spite of the inclement weather, and the services were quite impressive.

Sermon on Holy Rosary
Rev. John T. O'Brien was the celebrant of his mass yesterday, and Rev. Fr. Whelan, O. S. A., gave a thoughtful sermon on the Holy Rosary, the day being Rosary Sunday in the church calendar. He took his text from the angelic salutation "Hail Mary, full of grace, etc." He dwelt on the origin of the rosary, and he said it has been recited in some form or another since the dawn of Christianity. He recounted its efficacy in times of war, or when nations as well as individuals were in distress. Fr. Whelan said that in the great city of New York, Catholic men prominent in business and professional life, have been known to go into the nearest Catholic church at the close of their daily labors and recite the rosary. This practice is a commendable one and should be revived in every Catholic parish in the land by all Catholics, said the reverend gentleman.

The closing exercises of the men's retreat were held at St. Peter's church, town, yesterday afternoon and evening with splendid attendance. The great office to the doors. During the two weeks of the mission it is estimated that over 17,000 communications were given, over 17,000 women taking part in the mission services and about 17,000 men. In all making the retreat one of the most successful ever conducted in the parish. The results are gratifying to the missionaries and the pastor and his assistants, and they have commended the parishioners and again for their faithfulness and loyalty in following out the rules of the mission.

The exercises for the unmarried men of the parish took place at 3 o'clock and long before that time the church was filled. Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan opened the exercises by reading the rosary. The sermon was an eloquent effort and was delivered by Rev. Fr. O'Donnell, D. S. A., who had made a deep impression during the week by his instructions on the commandments at the 5 o'clock mass. Fr. O'Donnell took for his text the following: "He that shall persevere to the end shall be saved." The reverend gentleman referred to the exercises of the mission in which the men participated and said that the good accruing therefrom would be lost if the men did not persevere. He urged the men to remember what has been told them during the retreat, to avoid the association of bad company, to hold fast to the teachings of the church, to indulge in prayer as often as possible and to frequent the sacraments.

Fr. O'Donnell spoke of the temptations to sin that confronted the men, and he exhorted them to pray fervently. He referred to the Holy Name society as being enlisted in a great movement for honoring the holy name of Jesus, and wanted all men to associate themselves with it, and to participate in their quarterly communion. Fr. O'Donnell closed with an eloquent appeal to the men to persevere, and if they did he was sure God in His infinite mercy would reward them on the last day.

Following the sermon, Rev. Fr. Whelan, O. S. A., mounted the pulpit and spoke in reference to baptism and the vows made in baptism of renouncing the devil and all his works and temptations for all present to renew the vows. Accordingly he asked the men to hold the candles while he blessed them.

A Magnificent Scene
Fr. Whelan then requested the men to light the candles and the scene at this particular moment was particularly inspiring. All the incandescent lights in the church were turned off, and as the men held their candles aloft, Fr. Whelan read aloud the promises he wanted kept and the men responded in a loud voice "I do." It was a magnificent scene impossible of description viewed from the choir gallery, for the great church filled to overflowing was one blaze of light. After the renewal of the baptismal vows came benediction of the blessed sacrament. Rev. Fr. O'Donnell officiating. Just before benediction, Mr. James E. Donnelly rendered a beautiful "Ave Maria" and later an "O Salutaris" was sung by Mr. Lawrence Delaney. Mrs. J. W. McKennedy presided at the organ. ## CONSIDER THE CHARTER ON ITS MERITS

It appears that a movement is on foot to defeat the charter, regardless of its merits. This appears to be the fact if we are to judge from the statements of those whose only reason for opposing the charter is, that if adopted it would throw certain men out of office. That is not a valid reason for opposing the new charter. The issue is whether the new charter would not bring about a vast improvement in the method of transacting the city's business. This charter should not be opposed in any such blind or unprincipled manner. Be the opposing influences what they may, the voters will oppose their own best interests if they defeat this charter. It is the old story of cajoling the voters into voting to perpetuate their own subjection to political schemers. It is not the charter of the board of trade, the newspapers or of any clique or class, but the charter of and for the entire people without any distinction whatsoever. Up in Canada the other day the voters were bluffed into voting against their own interests. In many elections in our own country the people were similarly bluffed into voting to prolong the domination and robbery of the trusts, and at our next state election great pressure will be used to have the people vote against the best city charter yet devised for the government of municipalities.

Jack Johnson has been "persuaded" not to fight in London despite the fact that he "went broke." No doubt he is greatly disappointed as he anticipated a big haul, win or lose. The British aristocracy is not so badly off for a fight as formerly. They have had more fighting than they cared for of late.

Governor Dix is in favor of repealing the boxing law under which pugilists are permitted to turn the prize ring into something resembling a shamble. It is safe to assume that every law of the kind will be abused, and the boxing law of New York is no exception. The Massachusetts law seems to give the sport sufficient lee way and at the same time prevent anything approaching brutality.

THE VACANT JUDGESHIPS

The resignation of Judge Sherman of the superior court will leave another vacancy to be filled by Governor Foss. It was reported that the governor had selected a Boston lawyer for one of the vacancies, but the report is not confirmed. With three vacancies to fill it would seem that Governor Foss would slight Lowell very seriously if he did not select Lawyer Nathan D. Pratt, the local lawyer, recommended by the bar association and other prominent citizens as eminently worthy and deserving of being elevated to the bench. It should be mentioned in this connection that Judge Sherman has long been recognized as one of the ablest judges on the superior court bench.

HOW THE MAINE WAS DESTROYED

The contractors who are raising the old battleship Maine in Havana harbor have bared the keel of mud and silt only to find unmistakable proof that it was raised from beneath by the force of a powerful explosion. That is conclusive proof that the battleship was blown up by a mine. Whether the mine was placed there for the purpose of anti-American fanatics of course is a matter of conjecture, but there is no reason to believe that the Spanish authorities would do anything so utterly stupid. Rightly or otherwise Spain was held responsible for the crime and eventually paid the penalty; for it is reasonably certain that but for the destruction of the vessel the Spanish-American war would never have taken place. The independence of Cuba might have been secured in some other way.

DISASTER FROM BAD ENGINEERING

Again it is the state of Pennsylvania that furnishes a shocking example of bad engineering. Twenty years ago the breaking of a dam caused the Johnstown flood that swept the Conemaugh valley, spreading death and destruction all along its path. In the present case the little town of Austin, Pa., has been the chief sufferer, and it is impossible as yet to count the victims or tell the exact amount of the damage, but it is certain that there are at least several hundred dead, while the property loss will be over $5,000,000. About a year ago it was known that the dam was in danger of giving way as the concrete wall sank eight or ten inches under the pressure from the high water of a freshet.

The dam was constructed during a drought by the Rayless Pulp and Paper company for the purpose of impounding as large a quantity of water as possible in the bed of the Sinnemaughey creek. That the dam proved defective and dangerous under pressure of high water was amply shown when it sagged as already stated. It might be supposed that the state authorities would at once take steps to prevent the possibility of a break that would spread disaster in the valley below, but even the severe lesson of the Johnstown flood was not sufficient to move them to do their duty. At that time the government should have ordered the dam reconstructed and strengthened so as to be solid enough to withstand the highest pressure that could come against it. A concrete dam 32 feet thick at the bottom and tapering to a height of 50 feet with a width of 530 feet was a poor barrier to resist the pressure of 300,000,000 gallons of water walled up to the top of the dam.

The pulp and paper company by which the dam was constructed evidently did a cheap job, and it is, therefore, directly blameable for the disaster; but had the state officials done their duty the company would not have been permitted to imperil life and property by any such defective engineering. The Pennsylvania officials as a rule are too busy playing politics to give such important matters the necessary attention. Unfortunately others suffer for their neglect.

TWO WAYS OF REMOVING HIM

SEEN AND HEARD

The Lowell Choral society is looking out for a leader and they do say that the society has its eye on E. G. Hood of Nashua, N. H. Mr. Hood is director of the Nashua oratorio and has made a great success of it.

N. C. Goodwin, comedian, condemned at a dinner in Los Angeles an elderly millionaire's marriage with a girl of 18.

"Such a marriage isn't fair for the girl," he said. "Crabbed age and youth, you know, cannot live together."

"I once knew an old chap of 72 who thought seriously of wedding his young stepdaughter. I advised him not to take such a foolish step."

"You are too well on," I hinted. "But his withered cheek flushed angrily and he replied:

"A man, Net, is as young as he feels, and I feel as fresh as a 2-year-old."

"I suppose you mean," said I, "a 2-year-old egg?"

Among the clerical humorists of Ireland, Father James Healy stands out prominently. On one occasion when a pretty child was proudly shown him by her mother he remarked:

"My dear child, you'll have a blue look-out as long as you live!"

The mother's face at first clouded, but immediately after brightened up when she saw the smile on Father Healy's face for the child had blue eyes.

Once Father Healy was asked how he would describe a Scotsman, and in answer, assuming as he spoke the Scot's accent, said:

"A Scot is a man who keeps the Sabbath and everything else that he can get."

Miss Eleonora Sears, at a dinner in Newport in honor of her engagement to Harold Vanderbilt, showed a spirit of patriotism that is perhaps too rare among American heiresses.

Miss Sears, the story goes, was twitted upon the fact that many of her girl friends had married exalted titles, while she was doomed to be a plain "Mrs." Tossing her head, she rejoined:

"Our American families are just as good as foreign ones. Indeed, our aristocratic stock is in many cases purer than the aristocratic stock of England. I was once talking at a tea in New York with a southern girl when a young English viscount sauntered past in tight clothes."

"How far on the viscount's ancestry he traced," the southern girl asked in awed tone.

"I laughed and answered: 'Well, the viscount's grandfather, the one who stole the army funds, was traced as far as China, but I believe he got away.'"

Two fishermen named Jeffs, living near each other, had met with misfortune, the one having lost his wife and the other his boat. A lady visitor called on the one who had lost his boat, thinking it was the one who had lost his wife, and the following conversation ensued:

"Good morning, Mr. Jeffs. I am sorry to hear of your sad loss."

"O, it ain't much consequence, mum; she wasn't up to much."

"Dear me, you don't say so!"

"Ay she was a rickety old crock. When I went out with her I was always in danger of my life."

"Indeed?"

"I offered her to my mate only last week, but he wouldn't have her; but I have had my eye on another for some time now and—"

But the lady could stand no more of the old man's innocent denunciation of the weaker sex and hurriedly took her departure.

Henry Cleave, at a dinner in Newport, said of American traveling:

"It is delightful to travel in America, but I think that American porters handle our luggage a little too roughly."

"Once, at a certain station, I was amazed and pleased to hear a uniformed officer shout to a burly porter:

"Hi, what are you knockin' them trunks about like that?"

"The porter had been lifting great trunks above his head and hurling them down onto the floor furiously, but now he stood stock still in astonishment."

"What's that, boss?" he said. "What do you mean by knockin' trunks about like that?" repeated the official. Look at the floor, man. Look at the dents you're makin' in the concrete. Don't you know you'll lose your job if you damage the company's property?"

MY PRAYER
Let me be true to meet each honest eye.

Yet if a friend whose sorrowed heart has been undone.

Asks me for comfort where in truth there can be none.

Then let me grasp his groping hand—and kindly lie.

And if my neighbor does those things I think are ill.

Let me not judge! Who knows what tangled tangle skein

Fate may have woven to have meshed his heart in pain—

Would I have snatched the evil knot with half his skill?

Since I must play the game of life, this is my prayer.

Though I may lose, let me preserve a smiling face.

Let me not scorn the weak who fall—let me be merciful—let me play fair.

—Caroline Reynolds in Los Angeles Graphic.

THE RIVER OF LIFE
The more we live more brief appear our life's succeeding stages:

A day to childhood seems a year, And years like passing ages.

The glassy current of our youth, E'er passing yet disorders, Stalls lingering like a river smooth Along its grassy borders.

But as the careworn cheek grows wan And sorrow's shafts fly thicker, Ye stars, that measure life to man, Why seem your courses quicker?

When joys have lost their bloom and breath, And life is vain, Why, as we reach the Falls of Death, Feel we its tide more rapid?

It may be strange—yet who would change These courses to slower speeding. When, one by one, our friends have gone, And left our bosoms bleeding?

Heaven, gives our years of facing anguish, Identifying sadness: And those of youth a swelling length, Proportioned to their sadness.

—Thomas Campbell.

REV. B. R. HARRIS

Preached on Citizenship at Paige St. Church

Some 20 members of the G. A. R. post 120, and several representatives of the Woman's Relief Corps attended the Paige Street Baptist church yesterday and heard Rev. B. R. Harris preach on the subject, "The American Citizen." In part he said:

"Love for our country. It sounds simple enough and yet it should be made more emphatic; it should be inculcated in the younger generation and impressed upon them."

"There was a citizen of Lowell, and you all know to whom I refer, who was against the emancipation of the slaves. He preached against it; he wrote against it, and he argued against it, but when the first gun was fired upon Fort Sumter, he realized that the nation as a whole was endangered by the slaves, and he was one of the first to plead for the war; to plead for a chance to lead men in war and help free the slaves. Why did he do this? Why did General Butler give up his former ideas and fight against the cause which he had so vigorously upheld? Because he loved his country; because he realized that if slavery was going to interfere with the government of a country he loved, slavery must be abolished at any cost. He was a man of character; and it is men of character upon whom the success of a nation depends. What we need is to teach more of that love of country and nation and develop men of character. A great and celebrated speaker once said that education, wealth, fame, honor, and even health, are not necessary to make a man what he should be; but character is necessary. The strength of a country does not depend upon the amount of its revenue, the number of its large buildings, and the size of its population; but it does depend upon the character of its citizens. These are the words of Theodore Roosevelt, ex-president of the United States, and are well worth the attention of any man.

"Have we citizens of the character of former years? Are the laws of the nation being supported in the same manner that they were in early years? There are more educated for the American citizen than most of us realize. I had to live for 21 years in this country before I was allowed to have a voice in the making of the laws, but foreigners, coming to this country are allowed to vote a few years after their landing. How many of them realize what they are doing when they take a ballot in their hands? It is the duty of every American citizen to make them realize what they are doing. It is the duty of every American citizen to make them realize that they are a part of the government of a great nation."

"Nowadays we hear much talk about taking the 15th or 16th Sunday Statute. What does it mean? It means just this. Next after a theatre is allowed to run a performance on Sunday, while the clothing stores must be closed, Sunday papers can be sold, but to sell a spool of thread is against the law. The American citizen is approaching anarchy, because men do not dare stand back of the law. The man with the largest wad of money is the man of today. In fact, and I am ashamed to say it, the government, instead of being a government of the people, for the people, and by the people, is becoming a government by the few, when every one of us who ought to be a ruler is not even a loyal citizen because we have not backbone enough to support the law. Those who love their country should demand that the laws of this nation be enforced."

"And lastly, those of you who love your country should be Christians and to be a Christian it takes all that there is in a man. All the good in a man will shine if he is trying to be a follower of God. Most of the great men of the world were Christians. James A. Garfield, once accompanied by several young men, climbed Mt. Holyoke. Having gained the highest point of the peak they decided to spend the night there, and before retiring for the night, Garfield drew out a New Testament and after reading a few passages knelt in prayer. Abraham Lincoln, during the terrible ordeal of the Civil war, spent many nights in solid prayer. As long as a man is true to his God and his flag he will win out in the end. Let us all help to make our country better and His blessing will be upon us."

Frank E. Dunbar's Touring Car Destroyed

The big Peerless touring car belonging to Lawyer Frank E. Dunbar of this city was practically destroyed by fire while on its way to South Lawrence Saturday afternoon. The machine was in charge of Mr. Dunbar's chauffeur and he was just on the outskirts of Lawrence when the fire broke out. The origin of the fire is not known but as soon as the chauffeur discovered it he attempted to extinguish the blaze and finding it impossible to do so rushed to a nearby house for assistance but when the assistance arrived the machine was practically destroyed, nothing but the chassis being left. The machine was valued at over $3,000. Fred C. Church carried the insurance.

Greeks In United States Ready to Fight Turkey

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—What was probably the first step in the mobilization of the Greeks of the United States for war against Turkey took place last night when over 1100 Greeks met and enrolled themselves as members of the Boston branch of the Greek Military Circle—the Ethelontics Lochos—in America and Temple hall, 724 Washington street.

As it was next to impossible for all the Greeks present to "sign up" in the time allowed them for the use of the hall, a meeting will be held to night at a place yet to be designated, when others who did not even know that the meeting was to be held will also have an opportunity to join.

The Greeks last night signified both by writing, speech and enthusiasm that they were ready to drop business at a moment's notice and go back to fight the Turk.

It was not known until 5 o'clock last evening that the meeting was to be held, but through the efforts of Organizers C. H. Damascus, New England correspondent for the Atlantic National daily of New York, and J. M. Petros of Arnold and Petros, Back Bay florists, the word was circulated, and inside of an hour and a half 1100 Greeks were assembled in the hall at 724 Washington street.

Damascus and Petros explained that Turkey was now massing her troops on the border of Thessaly, in the north of Greece. They declared that inside of the lines, in Grecian territory, over 30,000 armed and well drilled soldiers of their country, who had been working as farmers for the last seven years, were just waiting the word to strike.

It was stated that representatives of 10 Greek societies of Boston and New England, including the Bawara society of Boston, were present and ready to contribute funds for equipping and arming the men willing to go back to fight. It is understood that the Bawara society of Boston has already proffered $2,000 and that over $50,000 can be raised at a moment's notice.

There were present, besides the organizers and representatives of the 10 societies mentioned, members of the Greek community, including clergymen of the Greek church, which is established at Kneeland and Tyler streets. Mr. Damascus speaks tonight in Lowell at the Greek church, where there are about 8000 Greek residents. He said that there were about 1,000 Greeks today in Boston and about 30,000 in New England.

BROKE MOORINGS

Steamer Went Aground in Boulogne Harbor

BOULOGNE, Oct. 2.—The Hamburg-American steamer Koenig Friedrich Augustus, which broke her moorings and went aground in the harbor here yesterday, was towed in this morning, apparently none the worse for her experience. She immediately anchored in the roadstead while an examination was made as to whether the grounding had left any ill effects on the hull. The passengers, bound for South American ports, remained on board all night. The Holland-American liner Rotterdam, which has been waiting easier weather to embark 405 passengers for New York, came into port today, the gale having subsided.

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—With a federal indictment charging the raising of a postal money order, and a police court prison sentence for shoplifting luncheon over her head, Miss Hope Rosemont Slavel of Worcester, formerly of Hartford, Conn., will Thursday afternoon become the wife of Frank A. Sawyer, a Boston civil engineer, who supplied her with bail on the two recent occasions of her arrest. To both charges the young woman, who is only 24 years old and decidedly good looking, pleaded guilty, but not without having first been assured of the protection of the young engineer and his bail.

Miss Slavel made her debut into local criminal annals when, Aug. 17, she was arrested in Worcester by United States marshals, who charged her with having changed the figures on a postal money order, so as to increase its value from $9 to $90. The alteration was clumsily made, it is said, and the detection of the perpetrator was a matter of comparative ease.

At the time of her arrest she sent several messengers scurrying about to find Sawyer, and after much difficulty located him at the home of Mrs. C. R. Thompson, at 257 Pleasant street, Worcester, where she, with her grandmother, Mrs. M. C. Rusk of Hartford, are now boarding. At that time, however, the girl had rooms at Hotel Kenmore.

Sawyer accompanied her to the court of United States Commissioner Frank P. Dresser, where she pleaded guilty and supplied $300 bail for the grand jury. Two weeks ago she was indicted in Boston and her plea of guilty to the true bill was followed by the indefinite filing of the case against her.

The day after her release by the federal grand jury she was taken by the Worcester police and arraigned in the city court, charged with larceny, the specific accusation being that she had stolen a hat valued at $15 from one department store and a dress worth $74 from another. It is said the police located this plunder in the girl's room at the Kenmore.

Much to the surprise of many spectators in the court, and it is said to the chagrin of Sawyer, who again came forward with his aid she pleaded guilty to the two charges of theft and was summarily sentenced to a term in Sherborn reformatory by Judge Samuel Upton.

After a brief consultation between the young prisoner and Sawyer, in which it was generally believed they were bidding one another farewell, the court clerk was surprised to learn that the woman had decided to appeal the sentence. Until the grand jury acts in the case Sawyer will again remain on her bond, this time for $400.

BROKE THROUGH ROOF

Burglars Entered and Robbed a Saloon in Middlesex Street

Unable to remove the cleats from windows they had smashed, determined burglars cut a hole through the roof of the saloon of Fred Timmons in Middlesex street Friday night, and got away with three or four cases of liquor, several boxes of cigars and about $30 in money.

The burglary was discovered by Patrolman Rice on his first round on the early morning shift. The broken windows attracted his attention but it required the light of day to disclose the madcap operation of the burglars.

The officers' searchlights revealed fresh tracks in the cellar but how the burglars got there was the question. An examination of the windows disclosed the fact that they had been forced in their attempts to enter there yet there was every evidence that they had entered. The cash registers had been rifled, the cellar was littered with bottles and the cigar case was almost a wreck.

It looked like a big case for "Sherlock the Monk" or some other detective of worldwide reputation, but the break of day told the story which was prefaced by a cute little ray of light that found its way to the cellar. In the depths of the dark and lonesome cellar the officers of the law had been working their way matter over time in an earnest endeavor to discover how and where the marauders had entered, when suddenly the little ray of light beamed through and, in its innocence, told the whole story.

The roof to the building at the section in question is one story high and not as staunch or as solid as some other roofs. When the burglars had called at the windows and knowing the premises very well, as was evidently the case, they turned their attention to the backhatch roof. They used a chair, hammer and crowbar, and where they procured these instruments of destruction is not known. They succeeded, however, in making a hole in the roof large enough to admit their feet and they dropped through the hole to the cellar floor. After rifling the cash registers and supplying themselves with liquors and cigars, they made their exit through the hole by which they entered. The hole, by means of barrels and shelves, was comparatively easy of access from the inside and the burglars succeeded in getting away with the plunder unobserved.

It is stated that suspicion rests upon certain ones, and the police are very busy on the case. They are satisfied that the burglars are well acquainted with the premises. Mr. Timmons has suffered several losses by burglaries in this kind, and this time, he says, he will forget them out if he has to employ and pay special detectives to do it. He is confident, however, that the local police will locate the guilty parties.

RECORD FIGURE

FOR STOCK ON HAND OF NEWS PRINT PAPER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The record figure for stocks of news print paper on hand was announced today in a report to the commissioner of corporations by the American Paper & Pulp Association showing 54,586,000 tons at the end of August, an increase of 6789 tons for the month.

At the close of August, 1910, stocks were 42,418 tons. The high point in stocks on hand is usually reached in August.

The production of news print paper in August, 1911, was 98,322 tons, a month's increase of 6832 tons, due to inclusion of two more working days in August than in July, August's daily output being slightly less than in July at 3612 tons.

August shipments were 31,635 tons, an increase of 1207 tons.

All other grades showed marked increases in both output and shipments, particularly board, book and wrapping paper. The stocks on hand for these other grades showed only unimportant changes.

THE MILLS ARE BUSY

New England Textile Centers Report Further Activity Today

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—Further activity was reported today by New England textile centers. The woolen mills, which curtailed during the summer even more extensively than the cotton mills, are busier than for months although considerable machinery is still idle. The American Woolen company, which operates 30 plants in the six New England states and New York, have increased the number of active looms by nearly 10 per cent since Sept. 1. Many of the independent woolen mills are also busier.

The Atlantic woolen mills at Providence have come on practically a full time basis and is in operation practically day and night. The Dudley woolen mills at Webster have adopted a day and night schedule and a section of the Woonsocket mills controlled by the Slater interests is running overtime three nights weekly.

In Woonsocket, R. I., the yarn mills of Green & Daniels which have been closed for a short time because of a slack market, resumed operations this week. The curtailment of print cloth in Fall River continues heavy but next Monday the seven mills of the Fall River Iron Works company—controlled by M. C. D. Borden of New York will resume operations after a complete shutdown of nine weeks and twelve weeks of partial running.

The Flint, Stafford-Tecumseh, Acona, Hargreaves, Laurel Lake, Parker and Richard Borden mills in Fall River curtailed extensively last week out as the iron works mills resume next Monday many of the other plants will be compelled to run closer to full time, it is said, in order to prevent a loss of help to Mr. Borden's mills, a large number of whose 5000 operatives have gone away or found employment elsewhere.

Tonic That Overcame Trouble In Europe to be Tried Here

MANY PEOPLE BENEFITED

Dr. James Spoyer, of London, England, says he will be surprised if United States has escaped dreaded ill-health caused by debility.

A celebrated Austrian physician, Dr. J. J. Schott, was the first to announce that a high state of civilization has debilitated modern nations. His claim that half the population is suffering from nervous debility, produced by the strain under which we live, has finally been admitted by physicians throughout the world.

In recent years a tonic has been introduced which has enabled thousands of run-down, nervous, debilitated people produced by modern life and the results have been remarkable.

Today, in chief cities of Europe, thousands have renewed their health through the use of this tonic. The action of the medicine is very rapid, good effects being obtained from it in only a few moments time.

A company has been formed to put a similar medicine upon the American market. The preparation is called "Tona Vita" in the United States and in the cities where it is being introduced, it is proving tremendously successful. Specialists have been stationed here to demonstrate the action of the medicine and have been meeting many thousands of people and explaining the nature of the preparation to them.

The general symptoms of debility are irregular appetite, poor digestion, headache, backache, constipation, poor memory, nervousness, physical and mental depression and a general low state of health. The common expression of this condition is "all run-down." In such cases the tonic acts with remarkable rapidity.

European physicians are well acquainted with the results accomplished by this tonic and are aware of its introduction in this country. Dr. James Spoyer of London, England, says in this connection: "If the United States has escaped having a large percentage of its population in poor physical condition owing to debility, I will be greatly surprised. It seems certain the same methods of living that have produced this condition to such a great extent in England and the continent, have had a like effect in the United States.

There is an attendant remedy known as Lee's Rhubarb Laxative which is most valuable to those suffering with chronic constipation. It is pleasant to the taste, does not gripe and acts promptly.

The specialists introducing this remarkable new tonic, "Tona Vita," are located at Hall & Lyons Drug Store, where they will meet all callers from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. and explain the merits of their preparation. A free trial will be given the first five hundred callers provided their symptoms show them to be sufferers from nervous debility.

TO CLOSE SALOONS

C. T. A. Union Wants Them Closed Tight on Good Friday

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—The semi-annual convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of Boston, which was held in St. Augustine's hall, 86, Boston, was attended by 65 delegates representing 25 societies, together with five honorary delegates.

John T. Shea presided, with Mr. Charles acting as secretary pro tem. The committee on credentials included Patrick D. Walsh, Michael J. O'Connor and Mrs. E. J. O'Connor.

The reading of the minutes of the last convention, also the officers' reports, resulted by unanimous vote.

A committee headed by Dr. Sullivan of Roxbury was named to submit a list of nominees for the various union officers to be voted for at the annual session to be held in April next.

John J. Fitzgerald of St. Joseph's society, West End, was unanimously elected secretary of the union to fill the vacancy vacated by the resignation of Maurice Duggan.

John McConlogue, Miss Dwyer and Mr. Ziegler were appointed an auditing committee. The chairman-general, Dr. Maurice J. O'Connor, spoke on the work of the organization, and in the course of his remarks said that the peculiar method of the union was moral suasion, but it did not disdain other means.

"The keynote from now on," he said, "must be publicity, and unless the members take advantage of the means at their command to advance the movement, they would be derelict in their duty. We need the power of the old Massachusetts union, way back in 1872."

It was voted that the advisory council be divided up into county committees for the purpose of spreading the cause in sections of the diocese which at present are not covered by the membership of the organization.

It was also voted to support any movement having for its purpose the closing of saloons on Good Friday, which will be considered by the Catholic Federation of Societies.

On motion it was voted that a committee of four, including the president, the chairman-general, Mrs. Tilton, and William H. Gaddy, be a committee to be known as the legislative committee. Any movement which will prevent the serving of liquor by women or to June, had never appeared in better spirits and health, according to his mother, than when he, about 2 o'clock yesterday, sat down to dinner.

The boy after dinner went into the room occupied by his father and, while looking through an old trunk in the closet of the room, found the revolver and a small box containing three cartridges which, according to his father, had been in the trunk for 15 years.

While his mother was cleaning up the kitchen after dinner she was startled by hearing the report of a shot.

Rushing into the room, the mother was horrified to see her boy lying on the floor in a pool of blood, shot through the right temple.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Burrage Observe Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Burrage of 522 Gorham street are today observing the 50th anniversary of their marriage. The celebration takes place at their home, where a large number of friends and relatives of the venerable couple assembled to offer them their congratulations on this beautiful occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Burrage have lived in this city practically all of their lives. Since 1856 Mr. Burrage has been employed at the Lowell Bleachery, of which he is now the manager. The couple were married on Oct. 2, 1861, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. J. Twist, at that time pastor of the First Universalist church. Present at the observance today were five of the children of the union, as follows: Catherine Burrage, Lowell; Mrs. Mabel Hanson of Freeport, Maine; Commander Guy Hamilton Burrage, USN; Herbert Dana Burrage, Lowell; and Alvin Lowell Burrage, Reading. The absence will be John Otis Burrage of San Francisco, Cal.

DROWNED HER BABY

Brockton Woman Then Attempted to End Her Own Life

BROCKTON, Oct. 2.—After drowning her baby daughter, Helen, aged 2 years, in the bath tub, Mrs. Florence Bridgwood was discovered by neighbors yesterday as she was trying to end her own life at her home, 261 Prospect street.

Mrs. Bridgwood is the wife of Fred Bridgwood, who was absent from home yesterday attending to his duties as organist at Trinity Episcopal church in Stoughton. She is 34 years old.

Ties Self in Chair When Mr. and Mrs. Edgar C. Hill, who occupy an apartment under that of the Bridgwoods, noticed strange noises, they investigated and found Mrs. Bridgwood seated in a chair in her bathroom with a rubber tube in her mouth, connected with an opened gas fixture. The lifeless body of the little girl, Helen, lay in the bath tub beside the woman.

Mrs. Bridgwood had tied herself in a chair with a clothes line. She was unconscious but was given medical attention and revived. At the police station to which she was taken, she was examined by physicians and declared insane. She will be removed to the Faneuil Hall hospital today.

In a note, which was found in the apartment, she spoke of domestic quarrels, but both her husband and her friends say that there had been no quarrels.

Bridgwood is employed at the factory of a breeding machine company. It was shortly before noon, immediately before the woman expected the return of her husband from church, at Stoughton. Dinner had already been partly prepared when Mrs. Bridgwood carried the baby to the bath room, where she filled the tub, tied an apron around the child's head and plunged it to the bottom. When she became satisfied that the child was dead, she too, tried to kill herself the same way, but she was only partly immersed when she changed her course of action and tied herself to a chair and inhaled the gas from a rubber tube attached to an open gas.

The sound of her groans were heard a short time later by Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hill, who occupy the floor below. Mr. Hill refused to investigate, and when the noises became louder, Mrs. Hill went to the Bridgwood flat.

With the aid of a chair she battered down the door, and her screams, a second and later, brought her husband to her aid. The two released the dying woman and then took the drowned child out of the tub with the apron, that had first stifled it, still tied about its head.

A search of the house revealed that the woman had written and left two letters, but to whom they were addressed, and what they contained, the medical examiner declined to divulge.

About the time Mrs. Bridgwood was taken from her home to the police station, her husband arrived. Mrs. Bridgwood is the niece of C. R. Barrett, a school committeeman and popular business man. She graduated from the class of 1907, of the Brockton High school.

MEXICAN OFFICIALS

Think That the National Treasury Has Been Defrauded

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 2.—Tax officials of Mexico are inclined to think that the national treasury has been defrauded of a considerable amount of money, but just how there appears no means whatever of knowing, for scores of little flies have consumed the evidence. Acting upon telegraphic instructions, government dispensers of revenue stamps in all parts of the republic destroyed to the last little lithograph all their old stock, only to discover that the order was a forgery.

It is the custom of the tax department to call in every two years what remains of an old issue, sending new stamps in return for those turned in. In the present instance the reports of the officials of their compliance with the order was the first intimation received at the capital of what had been done. An investigation was hastily made and developed the fact that a telegraphic circular, bearing what appeared to be the proper official seal, had been submitted to the telegraph company for transmission. Now the government's secret service agents are evolving theories and seeking clues as to the identity of the criminal or joker.

The popular theory is that one or possibly a number of stamp distributors created and carried out the deception, in order to cover a shortage, the police pointing out that a man might easily report that he had burned up on instruction $1,000 worth of stamps and receive credit for that amount, when in reality he had consigned not more than $100 worth to the flames.

Big Racing Plant Under American management, the capital's big racing plant, inaugurated last year and scene of the first Mexican Derby, will be operated this winter along American lines. The plant has been leased from the Jockey club, Mexico's most fashionable and exclusive organization, by Max J. Winn, an American, and his associates. The local track, widely known as the Condesa track, was the realization of a dream of many years on the part of the Jockey club, although members of that organization are for the most part not racing men, despite the name of their club. To that fact is attributed their failure to make racing a success. Under the new arrangement the club will get an advisory interest in the track, but the active management will lie with the Americans. It is proposed to open the track during the latter part of October, racing on three days a week, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday.

The Consular Service Mexico men will be represented in the consular service by none but Mexicans.

Face Peeling At Home (From Ladies' Favorite Magazine)

Any woman nowadays may quickly regenerate her complexion at home by a safe and painless process of gentle absorption. The days of expensive and dangerous "operations" are past and each woman can be her own beautician. It has been discovered that ordinary mercerized wax, applied like cold cream at night, will cause the skin to peel off in invisible, flake-like particles, revealing the fresh, vigorous and beautiful young skin underneath. The wax absorbs only the unhealthy and unsightly outer film and does not affect the healthy tissue at all.

The process defies detection and involves a light and beautiful complexion, which is, of course, a perfectly natural one. For this purpose thousands of women are now using mercerized wax, which may be obtained at any drug store. Naturally the process also removes all such surface blemishes as freckles, blotches, pimples, tan, liver spots, etc. It makes the face look years younger and prettier and renders the use of face creams unnecessary.

C. Y. M. L. MEMBERS RECEIVED COMMUNION IN A BODY AT ST. PATRICK'S

The regular quarterly communion Sunday of the Catholic Young Men's League was observed yesterday, and a large number of members received holy communion at the seven o'clock mass at St. Patrick's church, which was celebrated by Rev. William O'Brien. Rev. Joseph Carlin assisted in giving communion.

Following the service the members repaired to their hall in Suffolk street, where a breakfast was served and later the regular meeting of the league was held. President John J. McCarthy presided at the meeting and considerable business of importance was transacted in the morning. The various committee reports submitted showed the organization in good condition and with the outlook for the future very encouraging. The athletic committee reported that the regular weekly gymnasium classes would be started in a short time and that the society would in all probability be represented by a good basketball team the coming winter. It was planned to conduct a pool and card tournament in the immediate future.

An invitation from Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, asking the members to participate in the parade on Columbus day was read and a committee of 10 chosen to make arrangements for the turning out of the members on that day.

The entertainment committee announced arrangements for a concert and dance to be held at Associate hall on November 9, and on a vote, Albert Lavo was elected floor director. A ladies' night to be held on October 10 was voted, and a committee named to make the necessary arrangements.

ACCEPTS $75,000
Report That Chanler Pays Cavalieri That Sum

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Lina Cavalieri has accepted a cash sum of all claims upon Robert Winthrop Chanler, his income and his property, real or personal. The exact amount of the settlement is not definitely known, but it is more than $75,000, and probably something less than $100,000.

That the beautiful diva had finally consented to follow the advice of her lawyers and accept a cash settlement, was told to a reporter yesterday, thereby renouncing all claims in the now famous ante-nuptial settlement, by one of the counsel involved. The informant further said:

"I understood that Sidney Harris, counsel for Mr. Chanler, went abroad for the purpose of closing the negotiations and settling the case. In this he has been successful. When the French court opens this month the necessary papers will be filed and then either Chanler or Cavalieri, or both, will get a divorce."

"It may be that the court which grants the decree will forbid the marriage of one or both during the other's lifetime, but what difference will that make? That either Cavalieri or Chanler would have to do if they wished to marry again would be to leave out of the jurisdiction of the court granting the decree. That has been exemplified recently in the Astor-Lane wedding."

"The full details of the settlement I cannot give. I understand, however, that Cavalieri flatly refused to accept the first offer made by Mr. Harris, which was generally understood to have been $75,000. How much it was raised I do not know, but I do not believe the final settlement calls for as much as $100,000."

Sidney Harris, "Sheriff" Harris' lawyer, sailed on Aug. 12 last. He returned early last week as quietly as he left. He was out of town yesterday when a reporter called to see him. At his office it was said that he would make an statement in regard to the result of his negotiations with the diva.

It was noted, however, that he had seen her several times. But

WALKED TO DEATH

Man's Body Found in Canal in Lawrence

LAWRENCE, Oct. 2.—Friends of Cornelius Keating, 24, whose body was found in the North Canal yesterday, believe that he walked to his death in his sleep early last Wednesday morning.

Matthew O'Donnell, a brother-in-law of the drowned man, is firm in his position that Keating walked through the streets of the city while asleep and plunged into the dark waters of the canal without knowledge, until too late of his action.

Both Keating and O'Donnell attended the primaries Tuesday night, returning to their home, 1 Tremont street, late at night. About 2 o'clock in the morning Keating was heard to leave the house. That was the last known of his whereabouts until the discovery of his body in the canal yesterday.

HIS JUBILEE SERMON

CARDINAL GIBBONS

Cardinal Gibbons Opposed to Direct Election of U. S. Senators

BALTIMORE, Oct. 2.—In the course of his jubilee sermon delivered at the cathedral here yesterday Cardinal Gibbons expressed unqualified disapproval of three important propositions which have commanded a large share of public attention: namely the election of United States senators by the direct vote of the people; the referendum proposal which has come up in several western states, providing for the submission of legislative enactments to the voters for ratification; and the recall of the judiciary.

While it is the cardinal's custom to preach on the first Sunday of the month, his discourse yesterday was in the nature of a prelude to the religious celebration of his golden jubilee as a priest of the Catholic church and the silver anniversary of his cardinalate, which begins on Sunday, the 16th inst., and continues until the 19th.

He defined the duties of his brethren of the laity he exhorted them to be faithful in the practice of their religion and urged them as citizens of the United States to take a patriotic part in every measure that contributes to the progress of the commonwealth.

"No man should be a drone in the social beehive," said his Eminence. "No citizen should be an indifferent spectator of the political, moral, and economic questions that are agitated around him.

"At the present moment there are three political problems which are engaging the serious attention of our public men.

Sensors by Popular Vote
"It is proposed that United States senators should be elected by popular vote instead of being chosen by the legislature, as is prescribed by the constitution.

"It is proposed to recall or remove an unpopular judge before the expiration of his term of office.

"No one questions the ability, the sincerity, and patriotism of the advocates of these changes in our organic laws. But I hope I may not be presumptuous in saying that, in my opinion, the wisdom of the proposed amendments must be seriously questioned.

Endangers Bulwark
"The election of senators by the votes of the people involves the destruction of a strong bulwark against dangerous popular encroachments. The reason given for the contemplated change is that many of our state legislatures are charged with being venal, and that it is easier to corrupt the legislature than the whole people. In reply I would say: If you cannot trust the members of the legislature, how can you trust their constituents, from whom they spring? If you cannot confide in our legislatures you cannot confide in human government, nor in human nature itself. If a few of our legislators have been found guilty of bribery, it is most unjust to involve all the others in their condemnation. I have sufficient confidence in the moral integrity of our legislatures to be convinced that the great majority of them have never bent the knee to Mammon.

Substitutes Mob Law
"To give to the masses the right of annulling the acts of the legislature is to substitute mob law for established law.

"To recall a judge because his decisions do not meet with popular approval is an insult to the dignity, the independence and the self-respect of our judiciary. For less monarchical the commonwealth is an occasional corrupt or incompetent judge, than one who would be the habitual slave of a capricious multitude, who has always his ear to the ground trying to find out the verdict of the people.

"The constitution of the United States is the palladium of our liberties and our landmark in our march of progress. That instrument has been framed by the anxious cares and enlightened zeal of the fathers of the republic. Its wisdom has been tested and successfully proved after a trial of a century and a quarter. It has weathered the storms of the century which is passed, and it should be trusted for the centuries to come. What has been good enough for our fathers ought to be good enough for us. Every change, either in the political or religious world, is not a reformation.

"Better to bear the ills we know than fly to those we know not of. Every man who runs about waving a new panacea for social evils is not to be worshipped as a political and moral reformer. We all remember the story of Aladdin and the wonderful lamp. Better to trust to the old lamp of the fathers which has guided the steps of the American people for four generations than to confide in every ignis fatuus that may lead us into dangerous pitfalls. Do not disturb the political landmarks of the republic."

STATUE TO PARNELL

JOHN E. REDMOND

Unveiled By John E. Redmond Amidst Scenes of Enthusiasm

DUBLIN, Oct. 2.—The bronze statue of Parnell, one of the great achievements of the great sculptor, Augustus St. Gaudens, which has been erected largely through subscriptions by American admirers, was unveiled yesterday by John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Parliamentary party. The scenes of enthusiasm were only paralleled by those which attended the unveiling of the O'Connell statue at the opposite end of Sackville street, 30 years ago.

Richard Croker, who lent his support to the project, accompanied Mr. Redmond throughout the day's proceedings and the two men received a stirring ovation, which brought smiles to their faces. A monster parade of patriotic societies made its way slowly through the mass of people at the north end of Sackville street, where the statue was erected. Some of those in the procession were in uniform, and others in plain clothes, but all displayed some badge of loyalty.

Tribute to Parnell
Mr. Redmond and Mr. Croker brought up the rear of the procession. As they neared the statue they had to make their way on foot, so closely was the crowd packed. Mr. Redmond was the first speaker. He paid a glowing tribute to Parnell. Twenty years, he said, seemed a long time to wait to erect a monument to Parnell, but it was not the inevitable hour? "A chosen band guides us in the sequence of events. What moment more fitting than that when we are back to the point to which Parnell led Ireland before the cause was submerged.

Remember Chief
Mr. Redmond said that there would

HOW WRINKLES ARE CAUSED—AND REMOVED
(From American Home.)
"Why did no one think of this before?" writes a clear-thinking reader. "Wrinkles are caused by the skin becoming loose. Obviously the remedy is to tighten the skin. Equally it is obvious that the only thing which will tighten the skin is a powerful astringent."

Now, it is well known that the only powerful astringent which is absolutely harmless and beneficial as well as pure powdered sassafras, obtainable from any druggist. Dissolve one ounce in a half-pint of witch hazel. Bathe the face in it daily and—behold! The result is almost magical. The skin becomes firm and smooth, the face feels snug, comfortable and solid. Instead of loose and flabby. Simple, isn't it? As I asked—why did no one think of it before?

One should be careful, however, to use no other astringent than pure sassafras, as the former do no good and are really injurious more often than not.

DINNER HOUR AT BON MARCHE
On Saturday last Mr. Gilmore, the manager of the Bon Marche, announced to the employees that they would be allowed one hour and a half for dinner throughout the winter. The employees have been allowed two hours for dinner all summer. This, with their Thursday afternoons off, makes the working time 45 hours per week in the summer and with the new long dinner hour for winter the winter schedule will be 56 hours per week. It is hardly necessary to say that the employees hailed this news with delight. The management of this store believes that by treating the employees liberally, they in turn will treat their customers as they should, thus making it mutually beneficial.

SAFE BLOWN OPEN
Robbers Got Away With Cash and Stamps

BRUNSWICK, Me., Oct. 2.—The safe in the post-office at Pejepscot was blown early today by burglars, who escaped without attracting attention and stamps to the value of $412 were taken. No one heard the explosion as far as known and the first knowledge of it was obtained when the building was opened.

Pejepscot is a village on the Lewiston-Brunswick branch of the Maine Central railroad between here and Lewiston and the post office is located in the railroad station. The force of the explosion was so great that the building was badly damaged. The doors were damaged and it was necessary to force them open.

The work, which was cleverly done, it was said, is credited to professionals. The break was effected sometime between 11 p. m. and 7 a. m.

panied by the bands, pipes, bands and lutes, sang the hymn, "The Memory of the Dead," and "God Save Ireland." Not a single British flag flew in Dublin yesterday. The flag of Britain was everywhere, with a patriotic interpretation of American flags, many of which were carried in the procession.

Smartest Fall Fashions In Children's Clothes

FOR some unknown reason pretty little wool frocks are more in evidence this fall than for a number of years. The return to favor of lightweight woolen materials has helped to simplify the problem, and almost all of these fabrics are available for the frock of the small schoolgirl. Cashmere, albatross, velvets and the fine soft serges are greatly in favor, and all make soft childish dresses more youthful and dainty than those fashioned from heavier materials.

In series the soft fine weaves are chosen soft enough for the tucking and pleating and for graceful folds, yet firm enough and stout enough to be as serviceable as the most serviceable of lightweight wools.

Albatross is pretty and inexpensive, and the plain challies are included at the belt or in the collar and cuffs are always attractive. Red this season is much used for piping the shop-herd's plaid costumes.

Exquisite little dresses for girls from five to twelve years are made of fine striped flannel in delicate shades, such as blue, gray and white, pastel blue and white or peach blossom and white. The dress is of the simplest construction, with a plain hem or joined pieces at the bottom. It is usually made in empire style with kimono sleeves. A stitched band of plain white silk is the trimming employed. The blouse or vest at the front is surplice fashioned after the manner of a grownup's. The white silk bands border the blouse extending down one-third of the length of the skirt. At the side of the band trimming on the skirt and on the shaped turned back cuffs are rows of small silver buttons.

The Paris models for children this fall show decidedly high waisted effects with rather scant, straight skirts. These are not becoming unless the figure is perfectly straight and slender. Older girls who are wearing corsets may safely adopt them, but the fuller

Voile and marquisette are having a vogue this autumn for school frocks, but they are materials more suitable for best and party gowns. Black and white shepherd's plaid frocks enlivened by a touch of color in pipings or styles are more becoming to the very small girl.

The illustration shows two smart coats and a stunning hat suitable to be included in the winter wardrobe of the wee woman. The coat of champagne tinted broadcloth is very good style. This chic garment closes blindly under a single revers of seal brown silk plush matching the military collar, broad cuffs and huge buttons decorating the belt and the quaint little bonnet that is trimmed with champagne tinted satin meteor ribbon.

Like her mother and debutante sister, the tot of three or four years possesses a polo coat. Only the white shades—pearl, oyster and ivory—are smart in polo cloth this season, and all of these garments are strictly tailored, loosely belted and fastened with pearl buttons. The stringless bonnet of white satin is trimmed with bands of ermine and frilled about the face with plaited valenciennes lace.

The hat pictured is just the thing for the four-year-old girl. A silk elastic passing under the chin prevents this chapeau from blowing off the head of its pretty owner. The sharply pointed crown, covered smoothly with brown velvet, supports a long looped brown satin ribbon bow, and the brim of shirred velvet is partially covered with a fluffy band of brown and white marabou.

The Little Man's Brownie Suit

ALL READY FOR JACK FROST.

HERE is a fine winter play suit for the little man modeled after the brownie order and developed in heavily ribbed knitted gray brown or white woaded. To make washing these garments an easier matter the wee trousers and coat skirt are made separately and buttoned together at the waist line. The close fitting cap has a band of a contrasting tone in ribbed woaded.

The School Allowance

WHEN the child goes to school near home and is absent but a short time during the day the only allowance needed, of course, is for sweets, school supplies and sundry small affairs.

Many mothers have learned that the wisest plan is to give the child a small weekly allowance—a regular sum, given at a regular time and to last a stated period. Its spending will be left entirely to the child. If he has such a sum and such an arrangement is made he is much more apt to be less reckless than when small sums are given to him frequently and indiscriminately. Teach him quite early to keep an account for himself; let him see that the sum is his alone to do with as he likes.

As he grows older the sum may be increased according to his needs. In this way he is more likely to develop businesslike habits and learn to take care of money than in any other way.

A BAD HABIT.

Grown people and children alike are inclined to fall in the very bad habit of sliding down into a chair and sitting for hours with the spine bent almost in a half circle. That this is injurious thousands of people who indulge in it never so much as dream, but that it is the cause of many serious ills those who have investigated the subject are well aware. The continued strain upon one side of the spinal column with the corresponding compressions on the other gives rise to nervous difficulties and affections of the brain. Dizziness, nausea and blind spells are not infrequently the result of this practice.

A CHILD'S DRESS.

If your little daughter has reached that age when her dresses, which were made early in the season, have become too short because she is "ruffling up like a weed" you will find it necessary to let out the hems in the skirts.

Do this when the dress is ready for the tub and not after it has been freshly laundered.

A good way to do is to lower the hem half its width, stitching the hem in again where the creases of the former lower edge is marked. Then when it is washed and ironed there will be no unsightly dark mark on the hem, for the present stitching will quite conceal this.

A Dainty Party Frock

A PRETTY child and a quaint, simple little frock of dainty materials and the picture of beauty and simplicity is complete. As in woman's clothes, the simpler styles in children's modes are far better and in every instance the most attractive.

This little jumper dress is of Persian printed challie and shows a pretty arrangement of lace on the jumper waist worn over a gumpie of fine net.

A fluffy hair bow of Persian ribbon harmonizing with the dress coloring completes the costume.

TRY THIS AMUSING GAME

THE next time the children have a party try amusing the youngsters by playing the lifeboat game. Get a big cotton sheet and on it roughly paint a huge lifeboat manned by six or seven tarsaulins, wielding oars with vigor. The boat may be bright green with red lines and the oars red. Make big waves of green and use pale yellow for foam breakers.

It does not take an artist for such work. Be as crude as you like so you get the shape of a boat and a man.

From stiff white paper or heavy water color paper draw all sorts of queer figures—men, women, children and animals, household goods and trunks. Paint with water colors and when dry cut out each figure with sharp scissors.

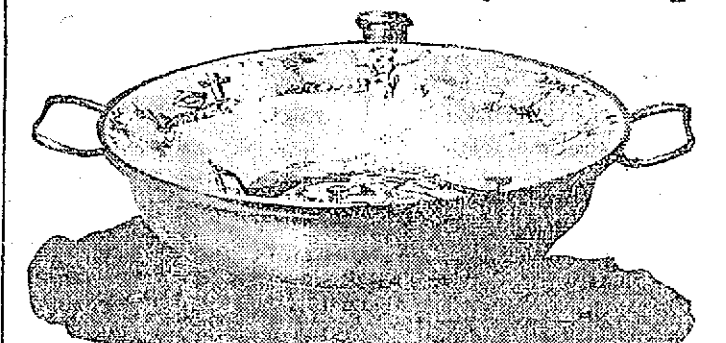

Over the side of the lifeboats have a bending figure with hands outstretched as if to lift in passengers. Between the hands draw a red cross as the point of safety.

Pin sheet to the wall and put all the figures in a big tub covered with this paper painted to represent water. Have each guest in turn fish from this tub some object, using a rod and hook such as are used in Jackstraws, only a bit longer.

The figures are numbered, and fishermen are obliged to write the number drawn opposite their names. This is written on a big card held by a child dressed as a coast guard, with red cap and bathing suit.

The players are then blindfolded in turn and after being whirled around several times try to pin the figure rescued from the briny deep (the tub) as near the safety red cross on the lifeboat as possible. The figure must be pinned to the spot first touched. Use large steel pins with white heads rather than ordinary pins. Prizes are given to the three players nearest the safety point.

Luxurious Dish For Baby's Porridge

PORRIDGE BOWL OF UNBREAKABLE ENAMEL WARE.

NO matter how baby dawdles over his breakfast, it will be kept appetizingly warm in this new porridge bowl of unbreakable enamel ware, which is attached to a nickel pan into which hot water is poured through an opening at one side. Baby cannot break the attractive dish decorated with nursery rhyme pictures, nor can he spill the water even if his oatmeal bowl is shoved over the edge of the table on to the floor.

WHEN CHILDREN TRAVEL

MOTHERS who take their children on long journeys find it a trying task and are always thoroughly tired before they reach their destination.

Much as they love it, children are often greatly upset by railroad travel. The noise, the rapid movement before their eyes, the strain on the attention, the confinement in a small space, all combine to tire them out completely.

The night after the journey they are wakeful and often for several days suffer from the effects of the trip.

Much of this ill effect can be prevented by rational precautions. Children should not be compelled to remain sitting all the time, but should be allowed to stand and move about as much as possible. Let them lie down with a folded shawl or soft pillow under their heads if they show signs of sleepiness. Do not allow them to look out of the window for long stretches of time; their little brains cannot stand the strain and are sure to ache badly, making very cross children.

Pull down the curtain when passing through a tunnel. Small children often become terribly frightened if the engine whistles and should be guarded against sudden frights.

Bad air is another source of mischief.

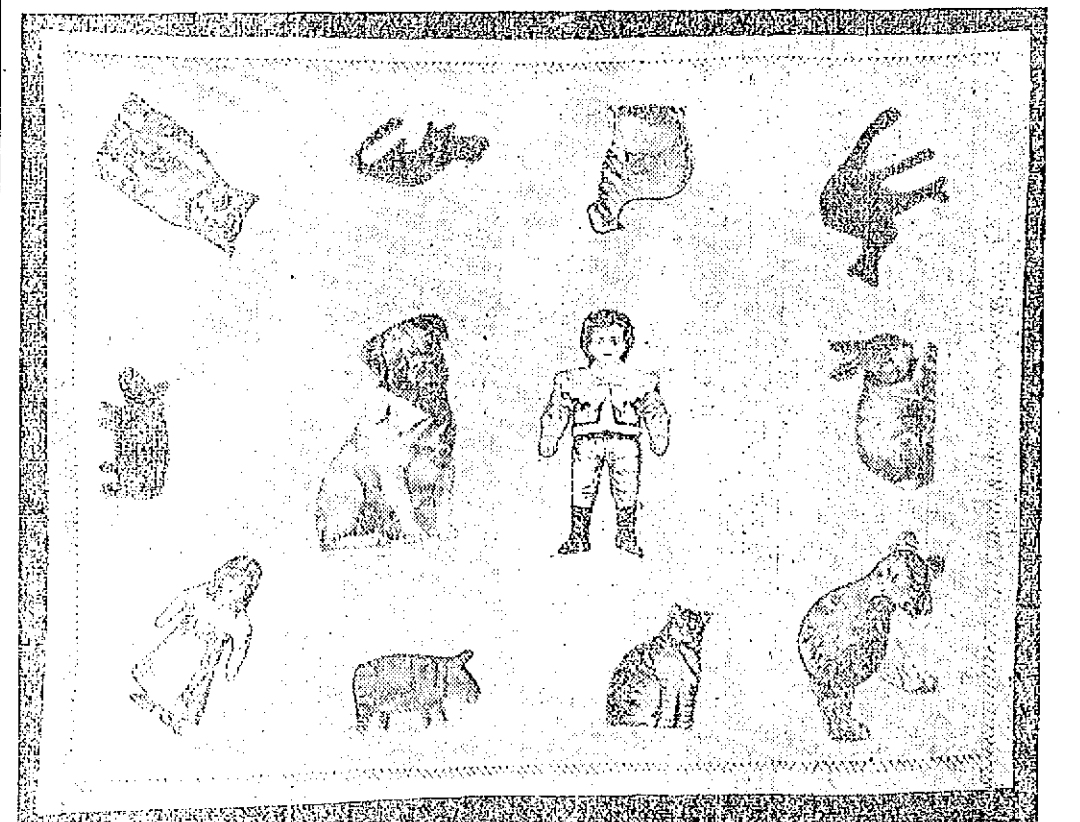

It is better to keep the windows open a little way at night than to suffer the lassitude caused by stale air.

Sweets and cakes are great provokers of thirst. Keep them from your children on a long trip. Give them instead plenty of fresh fruit, especially the juicy variety, which quenches thirst almost as well as water and is very much more healthful.

Unsweetened biscuit, bread and butter, eggs and fresh salad leaves are greatly relished. If the journey is long and the weather hot it is better to depend on condensed milk for infants than to risk fresh milk turning sour and the baby made violently ill.

Any healthy child can take condensed milk for a time without feeling any ill effects from the irregular feeding. Keep the children dressed comfortably, faces and hands clean and give them plenty of substantial food and you will have little trouble with them when traveling.

INDESTRUCTIBLE TOYS FOR THE TODDLERS

THE FLOOR PICTURE BLANKET.

NOTHING affords the baby old enough to creep and crawl about the floor more amusement than a picture blanket. This blanket may be purchased all ready made in the shops, but it may be easily put together by any adoring aunt or cousin. A small sized blanket should be selected for the purpose of a serviceable gray shade, and on it are pasted large cut out figures of animals and different toys, which in turn are buttonhole and a mouse. In lieu of really truly playmates she has also a rag doll and a rag boy chum, and these, like the farmyard denizens, cannot be easily torn nor badly marred.

With such an indestructible toy baby becomes familiar with the appearance of most domestic animals before she can enunciate distinctly. In skillfully colored fabrics she may own an amiable looking Boston terrier, a plump pussy, a peppy pig, a bunny, a lamb and a mouse. In lieu of really truly playmates she has also a rag girl and a rag boy chum, and these, like the farmyard denizens, cannot be easily torn nor badly marred.

Combination Suits For Boys

THE father who originated the very practical and simple combination suit for boys must have had small sons of his own to dress.

This suit is nothing more than an ordinary suit of clothes, usually made in the Norfolk style, which is so universally becoming to boys, with one coat and two pairs of trousers.

Now, as every mother of a growing boy knows and appreciates, a pair of trousers will wear out very much more quickly than a coat. Sliding down cullar doors, climbing fences and trees, getting down on one's knees to play marbles and other juvenile pursuits—all these have a shortening effect on the life of the ordinary pair of trousers.

Too frequently the small boy's coat is only half worn out when the trousers are "all gone." With the combination suit the boy may have a fresh pair of trousers when the first ones go or he may wear the trousers alternately and thus save a little wear on each pair at the same time.

CHILDREN'S HEADWEAR

There is a great variety in children's headwear this autumn. There are hats of all descriptions to be found in the new models—beaver, velvet, plush and satin—in many smart shapes. These hats are usually trimmed with a wing or a good looking bow of ribbon. Fancy bonnets of satin, velvet, soft beaver, and other materials in a number of new shapes are also in evidence. Hats and coats must match to be modish, which simplifies the selection of both articles of apparel.

The new telephone directory is out. Over 500 of them have been distributed in Lowell. Mr. Leathers says a copy should be in the hands of every subscriber, and he is desirous of being informed if any one has been overlooked in this distribution. A good many changes in numbers have had to be made, and in order that good service be assured, it is necessary that the number should be listed correctly, that subscribers should consult the book before making a call, and of course that they should have the very latest book. Subscribers who have not received the latest book, therefore, should call him and give him information of the omission.

A barn filled with hay was burned in Chelmsford last night. The barn was in Juniper street near the Westlands and was owned by E. L. Gray of this city. The fire was discovered by Mrs. Linwood Norton and the fire department was called by telephone, but the fire had gained such headway that the barn and its contents were reduced to ashes before the firemen had time to get ready for the fight. The absence of wind and the rain that was falling kept the fire from spreading and surrounding buildings were not at any time in danger. The cause of the fire is unknown. The property was insured through the F. C. Church agency.

SEWERAGE PLANS

DIAGRAM SHOWING ALTERNATIVE PLANS OF DRAINING WIGGINSVILLE

The dotted line shows the course of sewer in first plan. In plan 1 the distance from A to B equals 700 feet, cost $15,000. The distance from B to C equals 3300 feet, cost $20,000. The distance from C to D equals 500 feet, cost $15,000. Total cost, $50,000. Plan 2, shown by the black line on Lawrence street, contemplates a new sewer from E to D, distance 1500 feet, cost $11,000. The distance from A to E equals 1000 feet, cost $25,000. Total cost, $36,000.

One Means Waste of $35,000, the Other a Public Necessity

The committee on sewers is considering a plan for the construction of a sewer that would drain the American Hide & Leather company's plant, and at the same time offer an outlet for the sewerage of a portion of Wigginsville.

It will be remembered that at a public hearing the American Hide & Leather company promised to build a sewer from its plant across the Concord river to connect with the intercepting sewer on Lawrence street. It would appear that the company at the present time favors a different method of solving the problem. It is proposed to have the city build the sewer and assume all responsibility, while the company would contribute $1850 in lieu of the accommodation of such sewer. In case the city fails to build the sewer, the company promises to build a sewer on its own account to connect the sewage across the river in a trench sewer above the water. A great many people think that this would not carry out the original idea of building a sewer across the Concord river from the Lawrence street sewer.

Two plans have been proposed for the solution of this problem and the draining of Wigginsville. One is to build a sewer across the Concord river from the Lawrence street at Watson's plant; Hide & Leather's plant; the other is to build a sewer from the Concord river to a point at the center of Lawrence street near the country gate.

From the American Hide & Leather company's plant to the country gate there are no buildings on either side to enter this proposed sewer. About 3500 feet of this sewer would be on private land and might be subject to rental.

The Alternative Plan

It is a different plan the same point at the country gate, and the same level may be reached by building a new sewer from that point to Moore street, and then lowering and enlarging the sewer already laid in Lawrence street from Moore street to South Whipple street. This sewer must be enlarged in any case to accommodate the demands of the district, and it would serve the same purpose as the sewer on the east bank of the Concord for draining Wigginsville. Then the American Hide & Leather company could build its own connecting sewer across the Concord as proposed.

Plan 2 was favored by City Engineer Powers when in office as in a letter dated October 14, 1908, he wrote the state board of health recommending it as a means of improving the sewerage of Lawrence street and also draining Wigginsville. In that letter he said:

"Raising the grade of the streets will make possible another way of passing of the sewage in Wigginsville. That is, by building a sewer in the center of the street, 26 inches in diameter for the present pipe sewer in Lawrence street, but at a lower grade, from the end of the brick sewer, opposite South Whipple street, to Moore street; then southerly to Concord river; then under Concord river by a siphon, using 24 inch iron pipe, then changing to 24 inch clay pipe to Billerica street. The estimated cost of this work is $24,000, of which amount $20,000 would be used in improving the present system, as the pipe sewer in Lawrence street is too small and has already given us much trouble."

In reply to this proposition the state board of health said:

"Having considered the plans and estimates of cost now presented, the board is of the opinion that it is not practicable for the city of Lowell to pass up the sewerage of Wigginsville and South Lowell will be to discharge it into the main sewerage system of the city of Lowell at the corner of Lawrence and South Whipple streets."

The expense of lowering and enlarging the sewer from South Whipple street to Moore street, a distance of 1500 feet, would be $11,000, and the cost of a new sewer from Moore street to the country gate, a distance of 1500 feet, would be $11,000. If this plan were adopted it would serve all the purposes of the other and more expensive plan, and at the same time replace the old sewer in Lawrence street which is not adequate to meet the present needs and which must be replaced in the near future anyway. Thus it appears that, commonly sense and a regard for the interests in the matter of sewerage would dictate the adoption of this plan and the rejection of the other.

The American Hide & Leather company would then build a sewer across the Concord to connect with the trunk sewer at the junction of Lawrence and Watson streets and thus the whole problem would be solved without building a sewer on the property of the Boston & Maine and other private ground where land damages would undoubtedly be demanded.

Alderman Daly Favors Sewer

Alderman Daly, who from the start has been strongly in favor of the Wigginsville sewer, was seen by a representative of The Sun today, and said: "I want to say to begin with that I am in favor of a sewer to drain Wigginsville and more than that I am in favor of having it started as soon as it is possible. I am likewise in favor of having the sewer take the most logical and beneficial course, namely, along Lawrence street in the path of the present sewer. My reason for wishing a sewer along Lawrence street is on account of its easy access and the opportunity to care for the present business and tenement property on both sides of the street and only for present needs but also for whatever improvement which would have to be reckoned with in the future. Furthermore, it would not be a very sound business policy to have the sewer which at present drains that section remain in use and build another sewer along a section of which I dare say no living property can be found who is so comfortable in his present location as to see a sewer brought to his door for any purpose of it ever being used for any purpose only the benefit which would be derived by the corporation or corporations on the north of South Lowell."

"I am, mind you, deeply concerned in that great local industry, the American Hide & Leather Co., and I feel if any act of mine was necessary to show my appreciation of the taxpayers I would gladly do so in any manner, but this has to be faced in a business manner, where the greatest good to the greatest number figures."

City Engineer Kearney has made a thorough examination of both propositions and is ready to carry out the orders of the city council but he believes with Engineer Powers that plan 2 offers the better and less expensive solution of the problem.

20,000 ARE ON STRIKE

The Number is Expected to be Increased Today

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—The test of the strike of the shopmen which was inaugurated on the Hamilton line Saturday was expected today. Saturday was a half holiday in most of the shops and it was not possible to determine to what extent the strike order was obeyed. John Kruttschnitt, vice president and general manager of the Union and Southern Pacific lines, expressed the opinion that less than 25 per cent of the shopmen had gone out.

W. L. Park, vice president and general manager of the Illinois Central, claimed that less than one-half of the men on his line had obeyed the order.

DRUNKEN OFFENDERS

Occupied Court's Attention Today

Saturday and yesterday were two very busy days for the members of the police department, and 21 unfortunate ones fell in the clutches of the law. Of this number, nine were released yesterday morning and this morning by the probation officer, who is always willing to tender a helping hand to one who is stricken by misfortune. Four others of the first offense class were released with the minimum fine of $2.

Edgar O. Van Valkenburg, who last Saturday was sentenced to four months to the common jail after being found guilty of larceny, and who appeared, was in again this morning, but this time to withdraw his appeal. This was granted and the sentence was affirmed.

John McDonald, alias John A. Smith, alias Fraser, a parole man from the state farm, will be returned to the same institution, where he will devote his time to the study of sobriety.

Phoebe Houle, according to the testimony offered by Patrolman Sheridan, was arrested in a room at 32 Elliot street late Saturday night and was sentenced to the reformatory for women, after she had pleaded guilty to a complaint charging her with drunkenness. Phoebe did not like the nature of the sentence and she appealed. She was held in the sum of $200 to make her appearance before the superior court.

John Hattler pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness, but sentence in this case was deferred till tomorrow, as John is the party who was arrested, and the place where Phoebe was arrested, and a complaint charging him with conducting a disorderly house will probably be sworn out against him.

Leonard B. Morse, also for drunkenness, will spend the coming three months in the common jail, while James Hildan will serve four months at the same institution. Michael Griffin was sentenced to three months in jail and Lillian A. Berard to five months.

John A. McKenna pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness, but his case was continued for a day. Michael J. Burke, William B. Carver and Eugene Dunham, three second offenders, were fined $5 each, while Peter Olsen, a Sunday drunk, was fined $5.

Frank Horne, found guilty of grand larceny, was fined $10, while Herbert Cummings for the same offense had his case continued for one day.

John Hulstrom was found guilty of neglect of his wife and he was ordered to pay $10 a week for the support of his better half.

THE LOCAL HEBREWS

Observed the Day of Atonement Today

Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, the day of the long fast, the most sacred and most generally observed of all Jewish holidays, was ushered in on Sunday evening and ends with the appearance of the stars tonight.

The Day of Atonement is the tenth of the penitential days which began with the Hebrew New Year. On this day there is a total abstinence from food and drink. The devout spend the entire day in their houses of worship in prayer and fast. In the synagogues, some of which are opened for the entire day, the services began Sunday at 2 o'clock. Those that closed were again opened at daylight today and from that time until sunset prayers were read continually.

The Day of Atonement services are begun with the Kol Nidre. This stirring melody is one of the oldest known and in some of the reformed temples is set for organs and even orchestras. This part of the service and the memorial service are two of the most solemn features in the ritual of the day. It is on Yom Kippur that the oldest members of the orthodox congregations say their prayers in their shrines.

Locally the Day of Atonement does not differ from the celebration elsewhere, but one recognizes that fact that something of great importance is going on, for on the streets where the Jewish business men hold forth everything is hushed and business is at a standstill. The temples of the reformed and synagogues of the orthodox are alike crowded by immense congregations largely augmented over those generally seen there.

MAN KICKED TO DEATH

WREYMOUTH, Oct. 2.—The bruise-covered body of Nicholas Cassett, an Italian, was found by the police today in his home on Barrows street and almost immediately the authorities began a search for his brother, Peter, aged 30, who is charged by the police with murder. Nicholas Cassett was 28 years old. Yesterday, it is alleged, the brothers had a violent fight and the police claim that Nicholas was beaten and kicked to death by Peter.

According to the police, the Cassett brothers have borne bad reputations, and a paper found in Nicholas' pocket indicated that he had been released on probation recently from the state farm at Bridgewater. Both men were employed in a local shoe factory.

A flood that overwhelmed the town of Austin, Pa., late Saturday, caused the loss of at least 150 lives and damaged property estimated to be worth $6,000,000. The flood resulted from the bursting of a big dam. Relief trains are carrying food and other relief to the stricken people.

STORY OF DISASTER
FLOOD CAME ALMOST WITHOUT ANY WARNING

AUSTIN, Pa., Oct. 2.—The towns of Austin and Costello were wiped out Saturday by a flood, when the dam of the Bayless Pulp and Paper company burst, letting loose 500,000,000 gallons of water. At least 150 people were drowned. The population of Austin was 2200, of Costello 500.

The survivors are in a frenzy. The calamity came without a moment's warning. Burgess Michael Burn has not been located, and it is feared he has been drowned. Hundreds of men, women and children are searching through the ruins for families and friends. The only light is the glare from hundreds of houses and business buildings, which caught fire from broken gas pipes. Many bodies lie in the track of the flood.

DAM BETWEEN HILLS

The dam was located between two hills above Austin in such a position that the rushing waters could not but sweep over practically the entire community. Some of the houses on the hillside escaped serious damage. The central part of the town, however, was wiped out.

For the first time since its construction two years ago the water was running over the top Saturday, and many persons went out from Austin to see the unusual sight.

They were horrified when a section about 20 feet wide gave way on the west side. A great volume of water poured through the hole. People ran for their lives to the hills near by, but some were caught in the flood and whirled down the valley. A moment later another break occurred, this time on the east side. It was much greater and permitted the bulk of the mass of water behind it to rush in a mighty volume toward the lowlands.

Harry Davis, a locomotive engineer, reached a telephone and notified the operator at Coudersport. She called as many persons as possible. But the time was short. The raging flood tore down the little valley, carrying death on its debris-covered crest. Hundreds of women and children—the men were away at work—were caught in their homes and on the ground or crushed.

State Senator Perishes
State Senator Baldwin and his entire family were drowned.

Houses went down before the mighty crush of water and gas pipes, bent and broken, released their dangerous fluid. Before the water had passed on its course through the town a dozen fires were burning in as many places, and the cries of injured and imprisoned persons joined in the thunder of the flood.

Much of the debris lodged against the shops of the Buffalo &amp; Susquehanna railroad, and here the fire raged furthest. Many men were caught here, and few, if any, escaped with their lives.

The course of the flood was through the business centre of the little village. A majority of the buildings were of wood, and those which were not immediately wrecked by the torrent were soon in flames.

A DANGEROUS BLAZE

Broke Out in the Pilling Shoe
Shop Today

A lively fire broke out in PHILLIPS shoe shop in Senator street this morning, and for a while threatened to cause considerable damage to the building and stock. Shortly after nine o'clock, a portion of the fire department was called to the shop by telephone, and when the firemen arrived on the scene the fire could not be located, although the smoke was intense. Finally a blaze was discovered in the dust chute which runs in every department of the building. The fire fighters headed by Chief Homer worked hard to extinguish the flames, and it was not until after 12 o'clock at noon, and after the chute had been cut in pieces that the blaze was extinguished. There was no damage to the building, but the chute itself was destroyed and it will have to be replaced by a new one.

ROOM TENEMENT TO LET AT 506 East Merrimack st. Inquire at 505 East Merrimack st.

The outstanding feature of the Turco-Italian war news today is the attempted mediation of Germany, the success of which appears more probable in the light of the statement made at the German foreign office today than a report that the German ambassador at Constantinople had presented Italian proposals for peace was premature, indicating that such proposals for peace were expected.

Cable communication with Tripoli remains cut off but the city had not been bombarded up to Saturday midnight, according to refugees arriving at Malta this morning. This appears to confirm the report from Italy that the bombardment was delayed pending peace proposals. On the other hand a despatch from Constantinople says that Fethi Pasha, formerly Turkish minister to Serbia, had been named commander of the troops mobilizing to defend the coast of the Adriatic. A despatch from the island of Corfu, off the Albanian coast, says that two Turkish torpedo boats were sunk and a third captured off Gumenitza by the Italian patrolling fleet. A semi-official statement from Athens says that Greece has been notified by Constantinople that the Turkish military movements on the frontier are not directed against Greece. It is reported from Malta that a British cruiser received a wireless despatch saying that Tripoli had been occupied by the Italians.

TURKISH TRANSPORTS CAPTURED

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The strict Italian censorship is keeping the world in the dark in regard to the progress of events in the Mediterranean. From Italy itself the seas adjoining the Mediterranean and Turkey conflicting reports come in.

One cablegram announced definitely that Tripoli had been bombarded and occupied. Another said that no attack had been made. One thing is certain, which is that the Italians had not attacked the town up to midnight Saturday, for had they done so their guns would have been heard on the steamer Castolgarth, which left Tripoli shortly before that hour and arrived at Malta this morning.

The reports as to the situation at Prevesa are conflicting. Turkish officials here confirm a news despatch saying that the forts had been destroyed and 1600 troops landed, while Italy gives an emphatic denial of the report, saying that the Italian government had no intention to resort to acts against the territorial status of Turkey in Europe.

It is believed that what actually happened was that the Turkish vessels in the vicinity were scattered and the forts destroyed to prevent raids on the Italian coast shipping. Probably this was sufficient for the population, as one cable says that the telegraph operators left the place as soon as the bombardment was commenced.

Europe is greatly relieved at the receipt of news that Turkey has assured Greece that she has no intention of attacking her, as had been rumored.

The success of the Italian blockade of the Tripolitan coast and her scouring of the seas is shown in the arrival of two captured Turkish transports at Taranto and Brindisi respectively.

The reports of the capture of Turkish torpedo boats come from several sources. Probably they all refer to those engaged off Prevesa. The impression prevails that the hostilities will be of brief duration. Then it is believed that Turkey finding herself unable to despatch troops to Tripoli will accept the mediation of Germany.

NO CONFIRMATION

TWEEN ITALIANS AND TURKS

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—The papers print columns of reports of Turco-Italian fighting but without confirmation of any of the reports except that of the encounter between the Italian squadron and the Turkish torpedo boat destroyers off Prevesa. All others are believed to be incorrect.

According to official information, the Italian landing at Tripoli had been delayed by bad weather. The German ambassador at Constantinople, Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, yesterday Projectiles fell as thick as hail and the air vibrated with the passage of shells. When the Turkish vessel was disabled the crew of the Marte cheered for Italy.

A despatch from Rome says that a Turkish transport which had been captured from Italian torpedo boats arrived today at Taranto having on board 10 Turkish officers and 180 soldiers who had been made prisoners. The despatch adds that two divisions of the Italian fleet have sailed, one for Saloniki and the other for Smyrna.

THE IMPERIAL DURBAR

Great Britain Preparing for the Great Event at Delhi

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Although it has been found necessary to curtail somewhat the military portion of the imperial durbar to be held in Delhi in December, this great assemblage will afford a spectacle probably never before equaled, even in this home of oriental display.

Delight has for centuries been the chosen place for all great Indian celebrations. Here the grand moguls once held court, and when the British government after the mutiny decided that it was impossible to continue to rule the country through "John Company," Queen Victoria was proclaimed empress of India. Her son, King Edward, was 36 years later proclaimed emperor in the same city, and now comes the turn of her grandson, King George.

He, as is well known, takes a more personal interest in Britain's colonial possessions than did his predecessors, and as a mark of this interest has decided to travel to India with his consort to be present at the ceremony which accompanies his formal assumption of the title of king-emperor. Thus, for the first time, India is to be visited by a ruling king-emperor.

The king and queen travel to India on the new liner Medina, which has been fitted up even more sumptuously than any royal yacht. The Medina will be escorted by four first class cruisers, the Cochrane, Argyll, Defence and Satara, in command of Sir Colla Ker, one of the captains of the royal yacht. This fleet will leave England about the middle of November, reaching Calcutta the first week of December. There will be an official reception at Calcutta and what promises to be a wonderful procession of military and civil services, with Indian princes, in their spectacular uniforms, along the Red road to government house. Two days will be spent here, their majesties taking train, as soon as they have rested for Delhi, where they are due to arrive on Dec. 7.

At Delhi the king and queen will be received by 150,000 people, the Viceroy and Lady Hardinge, by whom they will be accompanied through the city. The royal party will alight at a special station immediately opposite the historic King's Gate, which will be opened for the first time since 1857.

The Durbar proper, or ceremonial gathering, will be held on December 12. The day preceding that will be given over to the reception of the Indian chiefs and princes, a review of troops, and on the day following the king will lay the foundation stone of the All-India King Edward memorial. The proclamation of the king-emperor will take place in an arena surrounded by the brilliantly bedecked tents of the princes and other visitors, and in the presence of an immense assemblage of English and Indian subjects of King George. There is no crowding of the king and queen, but in some respects the ceremony will resemble that held in Westminster Abbey in June last. The king and queen will be seated in a pavilion, brilliant in hangings of red, white and blue silk or satin embroidered in gold, in front of which the ruling Indian princes and higher British officials will be seated in a semi-circle, each Indian with his own banner floating over his chair. Each in turn does homage to the king-emperor with the strictest attention to formalities, which the Indian considers so important. Homage having been paid, the proclamation of the king's coronation will be read, and his portrait displayed to the spectators. Delhi has been threatened with an epidemic and officials have been working day and night to prevent it. The other is the protection of their majesties. There are scores of secret societies in India which aim at driving England out of the country. They are very closely watched, so that any organized attempt would probably be easily frustrated. The greater danger arises from fanatics, with which India swarms. Scotland Yard has already sent out some of its best men to work in conjunction with the Indian secret service and uniformed police forces and spot all dangerous characters and keep the closest guard over their majesties.

According to the latest reports, these postal savings banks have eight million depositors, with 2,680,000,000 to their credit. The postal savings banks have been a success from the start.

THE GRACE CHURCH

Rev. C. R. Skinner Installed as Pastor

PASTORS AND LAYMEN WELCOME HIM

Installation Service Preached by Rev. Dr. Conklin—Rev. A. F. Dannels For Neighbor Church—Dr. G. Forest Martin Extends Welcome in Behalf of the Laity—Former Pastor Gave Charge to the Parish.

Yesterday was a busy day at the Grace Universalist church and many witnessed the special services of installation and recognition of Rev. Charles R. Skinner, the new pastor. Besides the installation services, morning and evening, there was a Sunday school rally at noon. The installation sermon was preached by Rev. Charles Conklin, D. D., state superintendent of Universalist churches. His text was from First Timothy fourth chapter, 6th verse:

"A Good Minister of Jesus Christ."

In part he said:

"This text covers three important things. In the first place, it is a declaration of fact; second, it is a source of encouragement; third, it is a source of admonition. When Paul said of Timothy, 'Thou art a good minister of Jesus Christ,' he was slating a salutary and encouraging fact. I am very glad to stand here this morning and make this declaration in regard to the young man whom you have chosen to be your pastor. I am certain that having made this decision, you have no reason to feel otherwise than thankful and hopeful for the future."

"I am very glad that the Christian ministry is being recruited today by young men of Christian spirit and broad mental culture. You will hear it said today that the ministry has lost its attraction for the best and strongest young men of this age—that more material pursuits are drawing the fine, vigorous, well-trained young men of this period. This may be true, but the reason given for it is by no means convincing, and that is that the emoluments of other professions are the attraction. Never in the history of the world has mankind been so altruistic as today; never has there been so much thought for and done for men as today; and whenever a service of sacrifice and self-denial is required, the calls for men there is an immediate and abundant response. When Dr. Grenfell saw the need of the people of Labrador this brilliant graduate of the greatest university in the world, this young man with every promise of life before him, turned aside and went into that service. And whoever hears Dr. Grenfell tell of that service, does not feel like pitying him, but the impulse is to arise and follow him into a service as great and as full of sacrifice."

"The great world today is calling for the service not of ordinary men and women, but men and women of extraordinary power and training for the uplift of the world. The hour has struck for the universal salvation of humanity. The time has come for the conversion of the whole world to Jesus Christ in this generation; and men of prominence and competency and power are beginning to feel the magnetism of the great appeal."

"People sometimes tell us that the church itself is losing its hold upon the sympathy, upon the interest of mankind. That may be; but there have always been prophets who have breathed forth the word of pessimism. The waves of progress have not been continuous waves. Do not be frightened because the roads are full of automobiles on Sunday and because the Sunday newspapers deluge our homes. Do not be frightened because on the lips of the volatile and the superficial are so many sneers about the church and ministers. We may be passing through a period of transition, but where the spirit of God is, there is power."

"The great things of the world are done by men in a spirit of worship. The Christian church, its ministers, its laity, are trying to give men sufficient motives, and to bring before them sufficient rewards for doing the right thing. Doing the right thing, always, in every way."

"My brother will permit you, without any shadow of displeasure, to leave the church in the middle of his sermon. If you are on your way to do the things which he asks, right then and now. But he will know, as he looks into your faces, whether you have done those things, as he measures your spiritual life from that day on."

Rev. C. E. Fisher, pastor of the First Universalist church, presided at the service of recognition and fellowship. In the evening, and Rev. A. F. Dannels, pastor of the Highland Congregational church, offered good wishes and pledged good fellowship. He said:

"We are talking a good deal about our new pastor in this city, and personally I have great faith in what he may do for our city. I am a great lover of the liquor traffic, and I am very proud of the educational work of the city. Yet I am perfectly sure that Lowell needs something more than a new pastor, more than the closing of the saloons and the opening of the splendid evening classes and the other educational advantages of our city. If we want good citizenship and integrity in business, it has got to be grounded in something deeper than these. And we are glad to have a man come into our city who is not only a social, moral and political reformer, but who is a man of God, who will lead people to the everlasting tower of strength. Lowell needs not only personal religion in the home and in the closet. It needs also a revival of the public worship of the Father of us all. She needs a worshiping, citizenship; and I welcome this brother here, for I believe he may be able to do something to open the doors that perhaps are closed on Sunday to the church.

Rev. C. E. Fisher extended a welcome in behalf of the sister church in Dutton street, and assured the new minister of his help and co-operation whenever possible.

Dr. G. Forest Martin welcomed the new minister in behalf of the laity. "There was a time," he said, "when we scarcely knew our own history, but I am sure today that we all want Mr. Skinner and nobody else. There is no limit to the good that can be done in this parish, if only all of its members work together with the common object."

Rev. Mr. Skinner responded, saying that when he contemplated the long and faithful service rendered to that parish by Dr. Greene, he was proud that he should ever enter into the hearts of the people as the former pastor has done. "In the few months that I have been in Lowell," he said, "I have been taken into the homes, into the interests, and into the hearts of the people, with a greater degree of heartiness than he ever anticipated. He declared that he should do all in his power to make Grace church a great center of the community, for the uplifting of the kingdom, but this does not mean that it will be a cross purposes with other churches. On the contrary, they will work together for one common purpose."

Rev. Charles T. Billings gave the charge to the minister. He said that all of the witnesses calling upon the minister to put his very best into the work of that church. "These nearest and dearest to him are witnesses urging him to take up the work in the spirit of Christ. Every man who feels moved by the highest and best things in Lowell demands of the minister that he give his best work. The great man of the past who so freely gave for the good of the world and Christ himself, ask him to be his true apostle in the work he has undertaken. He is asked to give intellectually, spiritually, and physically, to the best of his ability, to do. 'Do not be afraid of the new truths that will come; they will not take away anything of value in the old. No new truth can ever upset that which is eternal. Accept the new truth reverently, and see its close connection with the truths of the past. The people of Grace church want to know, not alone that you can preach good sermons, but that there is a man behind those sermons; a man fearless and courageous to speak the truth as he sees it.'"

Rev. Dr. Fansom A. Greene, the former pastor, gave the charge to the parish. He said: "We sometimes think that human hearts are pretty small; but human hearts are large—a great deal larger than we think they are. We sometimes think that they can hold only about so much, and have room for only about so many; but we find that they have room for more and remembrance for others, thank God. We sometimes think that human strength, power and influence are pretty limited. They are not. We sometimes think that we can only work in a certain place and under certain conditions. We find that we can work somewhere else and under other conditions, thank God."

"I believe," he said, "that Grace church has a right to be and ought to be, right here where it is. Whatever may be said of the surplus churches in these days, it does not for one moment apply to Grace church. I believe that there is altogether too much said about too many churches, and altogether too little said about too few people going to church."

"Grace church has never yet made an effort to make the most and the best of itself. What has kept Grace church alive during all of these years? The man in the pulpit has not done it. The choir in the gallery, excellent as it has always been, has not done it. The people in the pews, excellent as they have always been, have not done it. The three factors which have only done it to a certain degree. What is it? It is that subtle, indelible spiritual something that characterizes the Christian church as an organized religious institution, as something greater and grander than any other institution on the face of the earth."

"It is a popular thing in these days, to talk about a 'decaying' religion. Much of this talk is the purest twaddle. If such talk as this could kill the church, it would be dead long ago. Grace church, as I have said, has a work to do. There are not too many churches in the Lowell Highlands, surely; but there are altogether too many people who never or seldom go to church. Some of them ought to be over in the Highland Congregational church; some ought to be in the First Baptist church; some ought to be in the Methodist church, and some in the Unitarian House of Prayer. Our friends, the Catholics, will take care of their own; all honor to them for it. And when they have all gone to their own places, there are enough to make Grace church as strong and useful and prosperous and influential as any church in the community. Meanwhile, what are you doing personally for Grace church? If a church dies or goes out of existence, it is not for a moment an argument against its importance or against the necessity. It simply means that it has been deserted by the people who ought to support it. Be true to Grace church. Say and do what all that you can and all that you ought, to support it. Be true to the most excellent man that you have called to be your minister; and may God's blessing rest upon you."

WAS FOUND LYING IN THE STREET

Agent Charles F. Richardson, of the Humane society, had quite a job on hands late Saturday night, when he was called out of bed to solve a problem which greatly puzzled the police. It was about an abandoned horse which was lying in the street. The animal was found at 11 o'clock and its owner could not be located. Finally it was learned that the horse had been sold to a livery stable owner and after a little talk with that party and the former owner of the horse, the latter was shot by Agent Richardson and the carcass was removed to the rendering house of Prayer. Our friends, the Catholics, will take care of their own; all honor to them for it. And when they have all gone to their own places, there are enough to make Grace church as strong and useful and prosperous and influential as any church in the community. Meanwhile, what are you doing personally for Grace church? If a church dies or goes out of existence, it is not for a moment an argument against its importance or against the necessity. # MRS. ROOSEVELT HURT

Wife of Ex-President Was Thrown From Her Horse

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt is confined to the house today by injuries received last Saturday afternoon when she was thrown from her saddle horse. The absence of the entire Roosevelt family from church yesterday caused inquiry which today brought the first news of the accident outside the family circle.

The mishap occurred on the road between this village and Sagamore Hill. Mrs. Roosevelt was riding with Col. Roosevelt and their son Archie. Something startled Mrs. Roosevelt's mount, which reared and threw her. Mrs. Roosevelt struck heavily on her head and shoulders. Her foot was caught in the stirrup but she was not dragged, as her husband and her son both had the horse by the head almost before its forefeet hit the ground and quickly released Mrs. Roosevelt from her perilous position.

Mrs. Roosevelt was taken home unconscious. She was said today to be recovering rapidly but probably it will be several days before she can leave the house.

HOW TO GAIN FLESH

A reliable but sure way to increase the weight, it is asserted by several well known physicians, is to take regularly for several months, one or two 3 grain hypo-phosphate tablets after each meal. These little tablets have the distinguished merit of increasing the red and white blood corpuscles, aiding digestion and promoting assimilation and absorption of the elements in the food. They are obtainable in sealed packages from physicians and well stocked apothecary shops.

BIG DAM BURST

FEW OF THE DEAD HAVE BEEN IDENTIFIED

AUSTIN, Fla., Oct. 2.—With the arrival of a carload of coffins here this morning the grimness of the tragedy which has practically obliterated this town was impressed on the survivors and a considerable number of workers who today began anew their efforts to mine deeply in the hard hills of debris. Twenty victims, including two at Costello, had been placed in a temporary morgue at Odd Fellows hall, one of the few buildings standing in the ruined district. The identified dead are 12, as follows:

J. E. BALDWIN, father of State Senator Baldwin.
MRS. MARTHA KINNICUT.
MISS IDA MILLER.
MRS. WILLIAM NELSON.
MRS. DR. MANSURY.
MISS ANNIE JACKSON.
MRS. CHARLES SOWLED.
MRS. MARY SCHWOLD.
MRS. GEORGE RENNICKS.
MISS FLOESSIE MELZER.
MISS LENA RICHIE.
RALPH DONAFIRO.

The most essential matter in hand here today, aside from the work of clearing away the ruins, is the completion of a census of the living Austin citizens. Two such censuses are being worked upon. The results, however, have as yet been supplied insufficiently for the formation of any reliable opinion as to the total death list in Austin. If the death list aggregates anything like the enormous number have estimated the state board of health officials realize that conditions demanding prompt attention will arise within a few days in the ruins.

Number of Dead
The best informed investigators, however, are unprepared to learn that more than two hundred have perished. There is, indeed, a possibility that 150 will be the total. There is little hope that any of the bodies remaining in the wreckage will be found intact. The general aspect of the debris indicates that hundreds of thousands of javelin-like splinters and slivers of buildings were shot through and through the first accumulations of ruins by the debris subsequently buried downward by the continuing flood.

The policing conditions today are partly perfect. A 12 hour downpour of rain served materially to reduce the number of sightseers and to this extent the police were relieved. Major Phinney and Captains Schell and Jack of the National Guard have arrived from Harrisburg. The state constabulary, state sanitary engineers and chief officials of the state health department are co-operating in the measures for protection and relief.

Homes Shattered
Austin, Costello and the valley beyond look like dead towns. The valley side hills in which they lie are still littered by the shattered homes of the people and the remnants of prosperous places of business. No reliable estimate of the property loss has or can be soon made and it is said to say that it will not be less than $5,000,000. The paper and lumber industries are utterly destroyed.

The supply of lumber, however, was rapidly wearing exhaustion and at the best it was thought five years from now the industry would be practically at an end. In fact, about 200 families had moved from Austin this fall. Five hundred more would have gone within the next year or two unless some industrial development came in to hold them.

This disaster has merely hurried the end," said a prominent Austin business man today.

Questioned as to the cause of the sudden failure of the Bayless Pulp and Paper Co.'s dam, citizens and business men recall the scene a year ago last January when a considerable leak was discovered in the immense cement structure. Although two feet along the rim of the dam were removed to the pressure and a 14 foot patch was placed over the needed alignment of the upper edge of the dam gradually became a slight arc instead of a straight line. This bulge caused worry on the part of the citizens and led to a somewhat recent inspection.

PROPERTY LOSS

IS ESTIMATED TO AMOUNT TO $6,000,000

AUSTIN, Fla., Oct. 2.—Shortly after 11 o'clock yesterday morning the first relief train over the Pennsylvania railroad arrived. Four carloads of food and medical supplies loaded at the state arsenal composed the relief load. This was ordered by Gov. John Tenney and the train left Harrisburg at 4:10 yesterday morning in charge of Major Muncey of the 1st regiment, N. G. P., with eight companies. At Sunbury, 21 men of Troop C of the state constabulary, all the available men at hand, were taken aboard with troop horses.

Hello Girl is Heroine
It was shown yesterday morning that there was need of a strong hand to guard the town. Pillagers had been at work during the night following a rumor that the vaults of the Austin bank and the safes of several stores had been wrecked.

The rumor was not true, and the first volunteers did effective work in keeping off would-be plunderers. In several cases the guardians had hand-to-hand conflicts with the marauders in which the latter were worsted.

The survivors of the flood had not recovered from the horror of the scene yesterday morning and for many hours none but strangers visited the ruins. As the day progressed small knots of survivors met and visited the sights of the ruined town.

Many striking incidents of the flood and escapes were recounted. The first of the four spread of the alarm was given to Lena Blinkey, a telephone operator. Upon receiving the message from the Cliff house that the dam had broken, she pushed the alarm button connecting with the fire department and the engineer's office of the Goodyear lumber mill below the town.

Saw Water Rush Upon Town
The engineer tied his whistle down and the fire bell in the town was sounded continuously.

Miss Blinkey then rushed to the street screaming, "The dam has broken!" as she fled for her life toward the steep hillside at the north end of Main street.

"Turning toward the valley, she saw the great wall of water rushing upon the town.
"From where I stood," she said yesterday, "the wall of water seemed 100 feet high. Above it rose a great cloud spray in which houses seemed to toss, bumping one another, spinning and turning as they fell to pieces or were swept out of my sight. The noise was appalling.

"When I fled from Main street there were scores of people behind me, many of them children. They did not seem to appreciate their danger. Some turned into stores as if to make a casual purchase. While I was looking down upon them, utterly helpless to give further warning, the cloud of mist that seemed to precede the flood hid them from view and a moment later the green water buried them from my sight."

Mr. Murfin said yesterday that in his opinion not more than 150 lives were lost.

"It is possible that this figure will cover the loss," he said, "and it is possible that there will be not more than 100 dead."

The Burgess and Rev. P. W. O'Brien, who had been pastor of St. Augustine's Catholic church at Austin many years and who are familiar with business conditions and values, estimate the property damage at about $6,000,000.

The Bayless company, which owned the dam, lost $1,500,000, according to Mr. O'Brien. The Goodyear Lumber company $1,000,000, the Buffalo & Susquehanna railroad $500,000, and the 300 houses destroyed with their contents, it is said, will total $1,000,000 more.

One of the striking and pathetic features of the day, according to Dr. Thomas H. A. Stokes, chief of the state dispensaries, was the practical absence of children among the survivors. It is thought that when the wreckage had been cleared away and the bodies of the victims recovered—although many have been entirely destroyed—it would be found that a large proportion were those of children.

Lookhard Barely Escaped
Boyd Lookhard, a young business man, had a narrow escape. Mr. Lookhard said that when he heard the alarm given he thought someone was playing a practical joke and he went in the street to watch the people. He happened to look in the direction of the dam and saw the on-rushing flood three blocks away.

"It looked like a wall of wood, 25 feet high," he said. "At first glance I thought it was the water at all because the wool at the pulp mill was carried before it and became a sort of battering ram that tore away the buildings of the town.

"I ran toward the hill and by the greatest effort got above the level of the water while it was surging within 10 feet of me. The ground began to give way under me, but I managed to chamber a few feet farther up and caught hold of a tree, to which I clung."

Costello Warned in Time
"Throngs of people came to the town yesterday from all points in the Shinnecock valley below Austin which had learned the extent of the disaster to seek friends and relatives."

The rush of the water had carried away every means of wire communication and impeded travel of every kind. J. C. Costello, who lived in the hillside at Costello, said yesterday that when the crest of the flood swept past his home there were no signs of human beings or their houses in the debris.

"The entire surface of the flood was covered with newly sawed timber and pieces of lumber," he said. "It was not until a lapse of five or six minutes that pieces of houseposts, broken furniture and other evidences of the destruction of the town began to appear."

"The people of Costello," he said, "received ample warning from Austin that the dam had broken and although 40 or 50 houses were demolished, only three fatalities occurred."

Jam in Sharp Turn
The annihilation of Austin occurred on a beautiful autumn afternoon. The fine weather had attracted many of the younger element to a ball game in a nearby town and thus they escaped the fate of many of their friends and relatives.

Women were about the streets for their Saturday afternoon shopping and chase and the merchants who were selling their goods were caught by the on-rushing water almost before they had time to think of escape.

There were small crowds also at moving picture theatres which were swept away by the water. Women reaching their babies at home and preachers preparing their Sunday sermons were flung into eternity before their startled senses could even grasp their overwhelming doom.

The greatest loss of life by fire occurred at a sharp turn of the valley just below Main street, where the debris was caught up and compressed with terrific power by the chilling sweep of the flood.

Flames Under Control
The wreckage of the busiest portion of the town was carried to that point and it caught fire from upset stoves and lamps. It is believed that scores of persons are buried under from 19 to 22 feet of wreckage, and the task of recovering the bodies will necessarily be a difficult one.

In a drizzling rain, which changed into a beating storm, hundreds of volunteers carried on the work of rescue yesterday, while many others, hysterical from the fate that had overcome friends and relatives, viewed the muddy corpses fearful to know if any among them were loved ones.

Flies were still burning briskly in some portions of the wreckage yesterday afternoon, although they had been under control several hours.

day afternoon, although they had been under control several hours.

Outside Firemen Arrive
The Buffalo & Susquehanna railroad found a way into Austin over the rails yesterday by connecting with the Keating Summit spur, a branch track which followed the hill. By this route it landed several fire companies from Otis, Galeton, Renova and Smithport.

Not a manufacturing industry is left standing and not a business place intact. Only a few cheaply constructed wooden houses occupied by foreigners and situated on the hillside remain of the residential portion.

A fortunate exception is the little hospital on one of the hillsides. The school building also escaped destruction.

Chief of Police Baker and Ernest Hamilton and a number of constables nearly towns maintained as good order as could be expected throughout the night and until the arrival of a company of the state constabulary at 11 o'clock yesterday morning.

There were 80 mounted men in the state squad, but on account of the wreckage in the valley it was found impracticable to picket the ruins on horseback.

Little Pillage as Yet
Lines were established and only workers and searchers were allowed to pass them. There was but little pillage. During the forenoon Chief Baker discovered a man and a woman removing a watch from a dead man's pocket, but to attempt an arrest was useless and the pair got away after some rough handling by the crowd.

In the wreckage of three stores he found that the cash registers had been broken open and the contents had been stolen. One man who was found with three watches was locked up in a freight car.

A primary election was in progress in the town hall at the time the flood broke. A hatless man dashing by yelled to the crowd about the booth something about "the dam bursting" and the election inspectors and voters took to the hills. Some escaped, but many were whirled into the debris which formed a dam of itself just below Main street.

KNIVES WERE USED

THREE MEN WERE INJURED AT WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Oct. 2.—A puzzling case was brought to the attention of the police last night through the story of Adolph Kalski, 30 years old, who lives at 10 Earle terrace. He was brought to headquarters in the ambulance with an ugly rash on his body and insists that no one was near him when he received the injury. He declared that a knife had been thrown at him.

While the ambulance was out for Kalski, Angelo Farlow of 21 Plum street walked into the station with a knife scratched all way across his back and then almost the whole length up his back. He told the police that he heard a racket outside the house where he was eating supper and that when he went out to investigate was attacked by two men, while several others looked on. Kalski told of being injured at the corner of Shrewsbury and Plum streets.

Officers on the beat were told to investigate and in a few minutes brought in Patsy Conellie of 20 Plum street with a slash across his shoulder. He admitted, the police say, that there was a row, during which someone ran into a store under Farlow's home and that a barrel was thrown through a window. It appeared that when Farlow went out to see what had happened he was taken for a man who had sought refuge in the building.

Kalski lives in another part of the city, however, and persists in the story that he saw no one around when suddenly he felt the slash of a knife and went into the nearest drug store, where an ambulance was called.

BANK CLERK GONE

Police Think Missing Man Is Dead

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—Metropolitan park police, after dragging the waters of Middle reservoir, Middlesex Falls, all day yesterday for the body of Herbert R. Sweetser, a bookkeeper at the National Shawmut Bank in Boston, and a resident of Winchester, who disappeared Saturday night, will return to the task again today, and will be aided by the moth section employees of the park department and by volunteers from Winchester.

Sweetser, 42 years old, married, with three daughters, aged 8, 15 and 19 years, respectively, has his home at 59 Myrtle terrace, Winchester, on the border of the Middlesex Falls reservation. He had been complaining of severe pains in his side and head of late, and told fellow workers at the bank Friday and Saturday that he felt as if he would go crazy from the agony.

Saturday he left work at 1 p. m., saying he intended to consult a physician. Later he was seen on a Sullivan Square-Stonham car, which he left at Causeway road, a carriage drive running from Stonham across the Parkway to his home.

His wife and children became alarmed when he did not appear at home and late Saturday night notified the Winchester police, who called on the Metropolitan park police to aid them in the search. No trace of him was found Saturday night.

Sergeant Edward Browley and a squad of park police conducted the search yesterday. Near Causeway road, close by Middle reservoir, Principal Joseph S. Hoffer of the Wadsworth school, Winchester, a neighbor of Sweetser, found the missing man's hat. On the sandy beach were footprints where a man had walked back and forth and apparently entered the water. Some of the searchers believe Sweetser did not drown himself and that the woods will reveal him if searched thoroughly.

ST. CATHERINE'S CHURCH

Beautiful Ceremony Was Held in Graniteville Yesterday

A very pretty ceremony took place at Graniteville yesterday afternoon, when the new remodeled St. Catherine's church, Rev. Edmund T. Schofield, to officiate at the rededication of the church.

The full services at the church were as follows: Introductory remarks by the pastor, Rev. Edmund T. Schofield, sermon, "The House of God—The House of Prayer," Rt. Rev. Monsignor A. J. Teeling, D. D., of Lowell, recited the Rosary, Rev. Michael E. Doherty and the congregation; benediction of the blessed sacrament, Monsignor Teeling officiating, assisted by Fr. Schofield and Fr. Doherty. The regular choir, under the direction of Miss Mary F. Hurling, assisted at the service, during which the following program was given: Processional, "Ave Maria Stella," with solo by Miss Sadie Smith; duet, Miss Smith and Miss Christina Lowther; quartet, Miss Smith, Miss Lowther, James Byrnes, Henry Le Due and the choir; "O Salutaris Hostia," choir; "O Esena," choir; "Tantum Ergo," choir; "Divine Prayers," choir; "Ave Maria," solo by the Robert J. McCarthy, assisted by the choir; recessional, "Jerusalem, My Happy Home," solo by Miss Sadie Smith, assisted by the choir.

The singing was exceptionally good, showing results of careful training and the good attendance at rehearsals.

Monsignor Teeling took as his text, "The House of God—The House of Prayer." His sermon was principally explanatory of the sacraments of the church and his meaning was made so clear that there could possibly be no existing doubt as to the teachings of the Catholic church. He fully explained these teachings from the time of baptism until the person had closed his eyes in death and the soul had taken its flight. He dwelt at length on the sacrament of matrimony, impressing upon his hearers the fact that what God had joined together man could not put asunder.

The church with its many electric bulbs presented a pretty sight, and the floral decorations as well as the freshly painted walls and ornaments added to the beauty of the rich, cozy little temple.

Rosary devotions will be held in the church Wednesday evening.

The work on the remodeling of the church was started about six months ago, and it is one of the prettiest and costliest churches for its number of parishioners for miles around, the outside and inside having been remodeled and freshly painted. On the front of the church just above the door is a niche containing a large statue of St. Catherine. The statue is an artistic piece of work and it was donated by the Holy Name society.

The Abbott Worsted Co. has donated to the church the sum of $1000, while the Sargent Machine Co. has also

URGED TO TAKE HAND IN THE TROUBLE

CALCUTTA, Oct. 2.—A cablegram was forwarded here today in the name of the Mohammedans of India urging Great Britain to take a hand in the Italian-Turkish situation. The message was addressed to the foreign secretary at London and a duplicate was sent to the secretary at Simla. It was despatched at the behest of a mass meeting of Mohammedans held under the presidency of Mr. Arif, a prominent native, and asked England as "the greatest Mohammedan power in the world" to check Italy's career of aggression.

Another message from the same source went forward to the grand vizier at Constantinople urging that Turkey defend the honor of Islam. That the Mohammedans of India are thoroughly aroused is indicated by the mass meeting's action in forming a strong committee styled "The Indians' Red Crescent Society," which proposed to take such steps as seem advisable to prevent war.

1300 REFUGEES

ARRIVED AT MALTA IN STARVING CONDITION

MALTA, Oct. 2.—A scene of considerable confusion occurred at the quarantine station here shortly after midnight. When the British steamer Castleburgh entered the harbor in the light of a severe gale crowded with 1300 Maltese refugees from Tripoli, the 1300 passengers were huddled on the deck clamoring to get to land after three days with an insufficient supply of food and water. Although there had been no casualties practically all of the refugees were faint from hunger and thirst. The port authorities promptly ordered emergency measures, directing the vessel to dock immediately. Once ashore the passengers found relief soon forthcoming. The members of the Maltese colony in Tripoli went aboard the Castleburgh Wednesday at the suggestion of the British consul, who feared for their safety in the threatened bombardment. Their provisions were soon exhausted and the severe weather added to their discomfort. The storm continued throughout their three days on the water.

SCENE IN TRIPOLI

ON THE EVE OF ITALIAN OCCUPATION

ROME, Oct. 2.—A long special despatch from Tripoli describes picturesquely the appearance of the city "on the eve of Italian occupation." The native population, it appears, is taking the course of events with stolid indifference, although most of the foreign population has fled and the greater part of the business section of the city is closed in view of the danger of serious damage from bombardment. The despatch says: "The landscape is serene. One sees a party of big Turks looting on the ramparts half hidden by the shade of palm trees. They have hoisted a red flag which flutters over a half-battered air of defiance over the red fortifications. Close by the flag is a standard scintillating while behind the ramparts one sees a group of soldiers watching from the summit of the walls. They are not worried or nervous. Their air is one of profound indifference. For them this day is no different from any other day."

ST. PETER'S MISSION

Imposing Services Marked Close of the Men's Retreat

The closing exercises of the men's mission at St. Peter's church took place yesterday afternoon and evening with splendid attendance crowding the great edifice to the doors. During the two weeks of the mission, it is estimated that over 17000 communions were given over 1000 women taking part in the mission services and about 3200 men, in all making the retreat one of the most successful ever conducted in the parish. The results are gratifying to the missionaries and the pastor and his assistants and they have commended the parishioners' love and again for their faithfulness and loyalty in following out the rules of the mission.

The exercises for the unmarried men of the parish took place at 5 o'clock and long before that time the church was filled. Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan opened the exercises by reciting the rosary. The sermon was an eloquent effort and was delivered by Rev. Fr. O'Donnell, O. S. A., who had made a deep impression during the week by his instructions on the commandments at the 5 o'clock mass. Fr. O'Donnell took for his text the following: "He that shall persevere to the end shall be saved." The reverend gentleman referred to the exercises of the mission in which the men participated and said that the good accruing therefrom would be lost if the men did not persevere. He urged the men to remember what has been told them during the retreat, to avoid the association of bad company, in a word, to hold fast to the teachings of the church, to indulge in prayer as often as possible, and to frequent the sacraments.

Fr. O'Donnell spoke of the temptations to sin that confronted the men, and he exhorted them to pray fervently. He referred to the Holy Name society as being enlisted in a great movement for honoring the holy name of Jesus and wanted all men to participate in their quarterly communion. Fr. O'Donnell closed with an eloquent appeal to the men again to persevere, and if they did he was sure God in His infinite mercy would reward them on the last day.

Following the sermon, Rev. Fr. Whelan, O. S. A., mounted the pulpit and spoke in reference to baptism and the vows made in baptism of renouncing the devil and all his works and pomps. He felt that the time was opportune for all present to renew the vows. Accordingly he asked the men to hold the candles while he blessed them.

A magnificent scene. Fr. Whelan then requested the men to light the candles and the scene at this particular moment was particularly inspiring. All the incandescent lights in the church were turned off, and as the men held their candles aloft, Fr. Whelan read aloud the promises he wanted kept and the men responded in a loud voice "I do." It was a magnificent scene impossible of description viewed from the choir gallery, for the great church filled to overflowing, was one blaze of light. After the renewal of the baptismal vows came benediction of the blessed sacrament, Rev. Fr. O'Donnell officiating. Just before benediction, Mr. James E. Donnelly rendered a beautiful "Ave Maria" and later an "O Salutaris" was sung by Mr. Lawrence Delaney. Mrs. J. W. McKennedy presided at the organ. The papal benediction to which a plenary indulgence is attached for all those who received communion was bestowed by Rev. Fr. Whelan, assisted by Rev. Fr. Heffernan. The services closed with the singing of the hymn of praise by the choir and congregation.

The Married Men's Exercises

The final exercises for the married men of the parish took place last evening and the order of exercises was substantially the same as during the afternoon. A very large number of men was in attendance in spite of the inclement weather, and the services were quite impressive.

Sermon on Holy Rosary

Rev. John T. O'Brien was the celebrant of high mass yesterday, and Rev. Fr. Whelan, O. S. A., gave a thoughtful sermon on the Holy Rosary, the day being Rosary Sunday in the church calendar. He took his text from the Angelic salutation "Hail Mary, full of grace, etc." He dwelt on the origin of the rosary, and he said it has been recited in some form or other since the dawn of Christianity. He recounted its efficacy in times of war, or when nations as well as individuals were in distress. Fr. Whelan said that in the great city of New York, Catholic men prominent in business and professional life, have been known to go into the nearest Catholic church at the close of their daily labors and recite the rosary. This practice is a commendable one and should be followed out in every Catholic parish in the land by all Catholics, said the reverend gentleman.

The Holy Name Society

As a result of the mission it is expected that the membership of the Holy Name society will be materially increased. The cards distributed on Friday evening were collected at the closing exercises and the number was very encouraging.

At St. Patrick's

The usual observance of the feast of the Holy Rosary took place at St. Patrick's church yesterday. At the afternoon vespers service there was a procession about the church in which a large number of the congregation head.

participated. Rev. Joseph Curtin was the officiating clergyman and he was assisted by Rev. William O'Brien, P. R. At the conclusion of the vespers services the members of the different sodalities and societies of the church marched about the aisles of the church down Fenwick street, back through the church yard, and into the auditorium again where benediction of the blessed sacrament was held.

St. Anthony's Church

The feast of the Holy Rosary was observed at St. Anthony's church yesterday and large congregations were the order of the day. The observance included a solemn high mass at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon, solemn benediction of the blessed sacrament at 7 o'clock and a procession about the church.

The celebrant of the mass was Rev. Fr. Desbony, and the sermon was given by Rev. Ernest Salgado, P. O. M., of Boston. The benediction services in the evening were also given by Rev. Henry Silva. The procession was participated in by a large number of the congregation, both men and women, who recited the rosary as the line moved about the aisles of the church. During the month of October, special services commemorative of the holy rosary will be held each evening at 7 o'clock.

Open Air Mass

The grounds of the French American orphanage in Pawtucket street were again yesterday the scene of a pretty and imposing ceremony, when the first mass was celebrated at the grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes, after the Oblate Fathers had obtained permission to do so from Archbishop O'Connell of Boston. The ceremony was a most impressive one as it was held in the open air, and what made it more solemn was that the singing was rendered by the little orphans of the institution.

The attendance at this service was so large that a number of extra seats had to be placed in the rear of the already large number of seats, and although the weather was somewhat threatening many people kept coming in and when it was started it was estimated that several hundred people were kneeling.

The mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Wadell, M. I., pastor of the parish, assisted by Rev. Fr. Paquette, O. M. I., as deacon, and Rev. Fr. Graton, O. M. I., as subdeacon. The little orphans rendered Dumont's Missa Royale and their singing was most beautiful.

The sermon, a powerful one, was preached by Rev. Fr. Brullard, M. I., D. D., who took as his text, "The Holy Rosary." The reverend father spoke at length on this interesting subject, explaining the devotions to the virgin by the recitation of the rosary, and he closed his sermon by advocating piety to Our Lady of Lourdes, loving the congregation to make frequent visits to the shrine.

In the afternoon the first annual pilgrimage of the Holy Family sodality and the first of a series to be held at this place of prayer, was held with a very large attendance. Rev. Fr. Blais, O. M. I., spiritual director of the sodality, had general charge of the pilgrimage and his efforts were well repaid for the attendance was very large. The men assembled at St. Joseph's college at 2 o'clock and marched to St. Jean Baptiste church, where they were blessed by Fr. Blais. Later they marched to the shrine, where impressive services were held.

The evening ceremony had to be postponed on account of the bad weather.

Feast of Rosary

The feast of the Rosary was observed in a fitting manner at Notre-Dame de Lourdes church last night. Vespers were held at 6:30 o'clock and this was followed by a procession of young women carrying banners of the 15 mysteries. An eloquent sermon on the feast of the day was preached by Rev. Fr. Laganette, O. M. I., of Towles, N. Y. Benediction was held, Rev. Fr. Barrette, O. M. I., officiating. The choir was under the direction of Mr. H. A. Racicot, Miss Alma Alexander presiding at the organ.

EXPRESS TRAIN WRECKED

BECKET, Oct. 2.—Express train 36 on the Boston & Albany railroad, bound from Albany for Boston, was wrecked by a rockslide early today at a point one mile east of Middlefield, a small station five miles east of Becket. The locomotive and two cars were derailed but no person was injured.

The accident occurred shortly before six o'clock. The morning was dark and the engineer of the express did not observe a rock which had fallen on the eastbound passenger track. The rock was thrown by the locomotive against a ledge, from which a mass of rock weighing about 20 tons was dislodged, the slide crashing into the engine, tender and trucks of the express and combination cars. The locomotive, tender and the two cars were derailed but remained upright, stopping suddenly in the mass from the ledge. The slide blocked the westbound track also for a time. The Twentieth Century limited train, eastbound, was transferred by way of the North Adams division.

LOWELL HIGH'S GAME

Nashua Was Defeated By a Score of 9 to 0

The Lowell High school football team defeated the Nashua High school football team at Nashua by a score of 9 to 0, Saturday afternoon. It was the first game that the local eleven had played and it is a criterion of the work that can be performed by the locals the enthusiasts in this city may depend on Lowell winning the majority of games played.

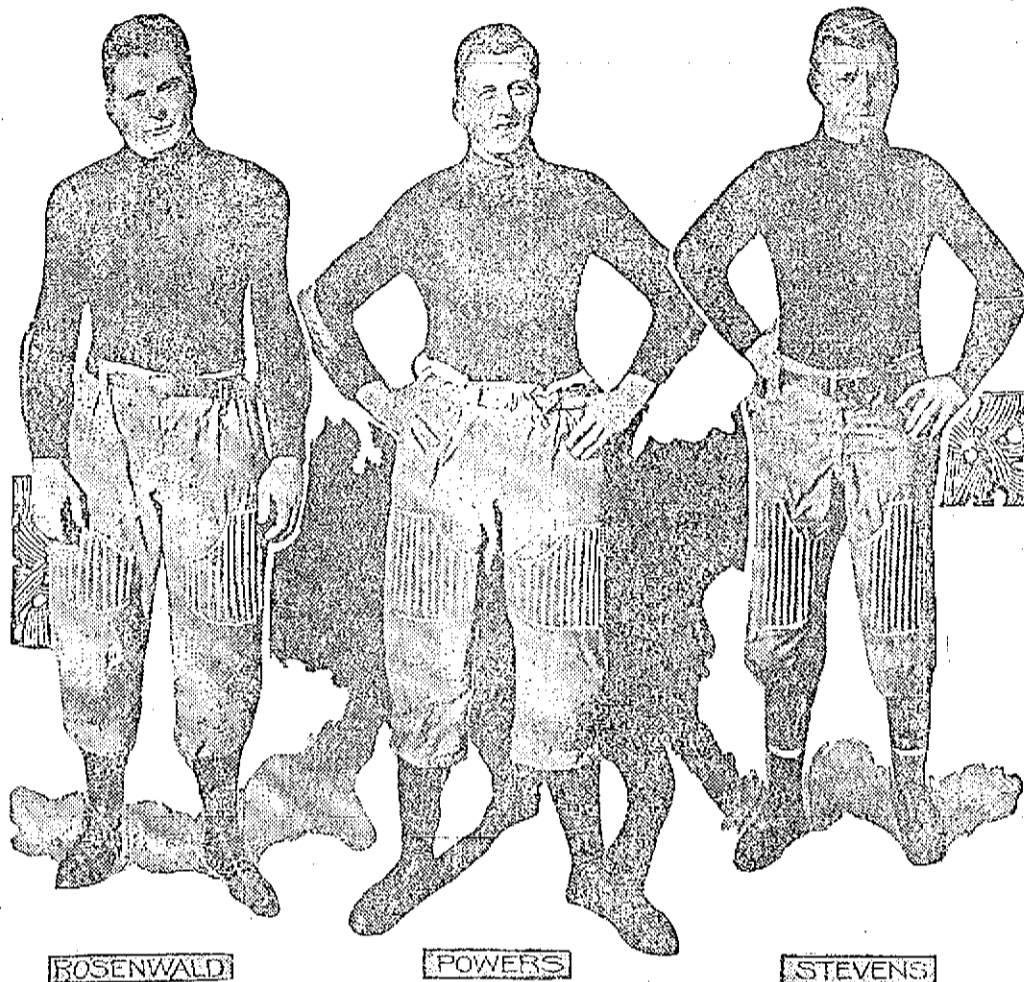

The feature of the game was the touchdown by Carter after one of the Nashua backs had fumbled the ball. Carter also kicked the ball. The other three points were made by Leggat with a pretty goal from the field in the last period. This kick was a pretty one inasmuch as it was made from a hard angle. Earlier in the game Leggat made a good attempt from the 35-yard line, but just missed making good.

While the Nashua team is not as fast as other teams that Lowell will

A line play through center brought three yards but the next play was stopped by Cawley and Nashua punted. Leggat skinned the left tackle for three yards, but the distance was lost on the next play, an attempted fake. Lowell punted. Nashua gained eight yards around right end. First period. ## THREE OF MINNESOTA'S FORCEFUL GRIDIRON WARRIORS

ST. PAUL, Oct. 2.—Minnesota will have a powerful eleven this season and if coached properly should carry off the western conference title. The Gophers have lost only three cracks since last year. The absence of McGovern at quarter, Johnson at full and Young, guard, will be keenly felt, but there is some fine material on hand from which to whip a strong eleven together. With Rosenwald, winner of many Gopher football laurels, at left half, the speedy Capron playing full, Stevens of the 1910 eleven at right half and Eggar Robinson, and Harry Powers, both tipping the scales above the 200 mark, filling the tackle positions on the line, the Gophers have the framework for a powerful machine. Rube Johnson is slated for quarter. Randall, McEwen and Heller, from Sig's team of last year, are trying for positions of the line and Shaughnessy and Art Pugh for the end positions. The Gophers should help add to western football history.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

An uproarious comedy of four acts, at the same time showing the true fruit of honest intent and the true expression of the character of a man the country needs to send to Washington, in order that there shall be no political chicanery, in the official circles of the senate, is what the drama "A Gentleman from Mississippi," which the Donald Meek Stock company will present in this theatre, twice daily, beginning with this afternoon matinee, proves. In this drama, which has been acclaimed by many critics as America's greatest comedy hit, Harrison, Rhodes and his co-workers, Thomas A. Wise, who created the role of Senator William H. Langdon, the junior senator from Mississippi, and around whom the plot of the drama is woven, have far outdone their previous works. Thrilling situations occur throughout the drama and from the rising of the curtain in the first act to its descent on the final tableau the drama holds the tense interest of the audience. The story upon which the drama is founded originates in an electoral district in Mississippi just about the time that there is to be senator chosen. The candidacy of various men is announced by the different parts of the district but not one of these seems to measure up to the standard of the interests who are interested in a naval base, which is to be selected by the senate, at its next session. They own a certain parcel of land in Atalanta, which they wish to unload on the government at a fabulous price, as a site for the base. Throughout this drama is clean in dialog and innocent in its fun. There is no overplay and the fun is not forced. Donald Meek will portray "Bud" Haines, the reporter of the New York Tribune and later private secretary to Senator Langdon, a character which stands out prominently.

SEVEN ARE RESCUED

From a Burning Launch Off Boston Light

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—An oil stove which tipped over in the cabin of the gasoline launch True II, when the boat with a party of seven men aboard was some distance outside of Boston Light just before dark yesterday afternoon, burned the craft to the water's edge. The men were rescued.

Artillerymen at Fort Warren saw the clouds of smoke rising slowly from the water and came to the conclusion that a good-sized ship was burning up. The Hull life-savers put off in a lifeboat, but when they arrived found that another launch, said to have been the Sailor Girl, whose home port is Beverly, had taken off the seven occupants of the burning launch and were towing the blazing craft toward Great Brewster, on the northeast end of which they grounded her.

Outside of the fact that the name of the burning craft was the True II, that she hailed from Chelsea, and that the seven aboard her belonged in the same city and were out for a pleasure trip, those aboard the launch refused to give the captain of the Hull life-savers any information. None of the members of the Chelsea Yacht club who were at the clubhouse last night could remember any cabin launch named True II.

The launch is a total wreck. The rescue party of the second launch and the Hull life-savers put the submerged bulk of the power boat ashore on Great Brewster.

MORPHINE FIEND

WOMAN WAS ABOUT TO JUMP OFF BRIDGE

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—Claiming that she is an incurable victim of the morphine habit and drowned by her friends and relatives, Catherine O'Leary, 35, of 22 Edson Green, Dorchester, was arrested yesterday morning on the new Charlestown bridge by Patrolman Conroy of the City square station just as she was about to throw herself into the water.

She was taken to the station, where she was booked on a charge of vagrancy. Among her effects was a box containing a mixture of snuff and pepper and part of a smoked cigar.

The woman told the police that she was operated upon about three years ago with the result that she became a slave to the habit. She said that she had been in institutions with the hope of being cured, but without result. The last place was in the Cambridge Relief hospital, where she was discharged on Sept. 25.

The woman further told the police that her relatives would have nothing to do with her and she became discouraged. She jumped off the car and caught her. On the way to the police station the woman recovered sufficiently to tell a connected story.

meet during the present season, the upriver aggregation put up a good game and inasmuch as it has good timber there is no doubt that they will improve as the season advances.

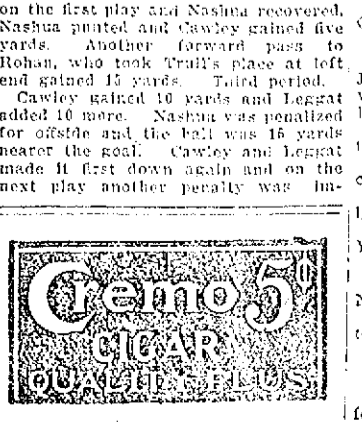

The work of Cullen and Itane, new men on the team, was very good and they will develop into good players. Cawley, Carter and Leggat, veterans, were right on deck every minute and ready to hand out the goods.

Nashua kicked off and Leggat ran the ball back for 16 yards. Cawley went through tackle for 16 yards. Lowell fumbled and Nashua recovered. An end run was prevented for no gain, but a line plunge brought four yards. Collect for Nashua gained 10 yards on a line play that did not work, but the back slipped around the end for the distance. Two line plunges brought to punt and Cawley failed to gain. Bailey lost five yards. Lowell punted. The upriver boys could not gain however, and Lowell took the ball on downs. Cawley then made 12 yards through tackle and Leggat ran the left end for five more. Nashua held fast the next down, and Cawley failed to gain. Nashua held again and took the ball on downs. A fake around the end failed. After an exchange of punts Carter recovered the ball on a fumble and scored the touchdown. The try for goal was successful. First half. Score: Lowell 6; Nashua 0.

Nashua kicked off to Lowell again and Leggat ran the ball back 20 yards. Bennett gained three yards through tackle. A forward pass was unsuccessful and one down was lost. Lowell kicked. Nashua failed to gain and kicked. Leggat took four yards around left end. Lowell punted, but the ball was called back and a penalty for holding by Nashua. Lowell punted, and recovered the ball. A forward pass by Cawley to Carter worked for 15 yards. Cawley gained 12 more. Leggat tried for a drop kick and failed by a foot. Nashua put the ball in play at the 25 yard line but could not gain and punted. Lowell fumbled on the first play and Nashua recovered. Nashua punted and Cawley gained five yards. Another forward pass to Rohan, who took Trull's place at left end gained 15 yards. Tied period.

Cawley gained 10 yards and Leggat added 10 more. Nashua was penalized for offside and the ball was 15 yards nearer the goal. Cawley and Leggat made it first down again and on the next play another penalty was im-

CONSIDER THE CHARTER ON ITS MERITS

It appears that a movement is on foot to defeat the charter, regardless of its merits. This appears to be the fact if we are to judge from the statements of those whose only reason for opposing the charter is, that if adopted it would throw certain men out of office. That is not a valid reason for opposing the new charter. The issue is whether the new charter would not bring about a vast improvement in the method of transacting the city's business. This charter should not be opposed in any such blind or unprincipled manner. Be the opposing influences what they may, the voters will oppose their own best interests if they defeat this charter. It is the old story of cajoling the voters into voting to perpetuate their own subjection to political schemers. It is not the charter of the board of trade, the newspapers or of any clique or class, but the charter of and for the entire people without any distinction whatsoever. Up in Canada the other day the voters were bluffed into voting against their own interests. In many elections in our own country the people were similarly bluffed into voting to prolong the domination and robbery of the trusts, and at our next state election great pressure will be used to have the people vote against the best city charter yet devised for the government of municipalities.

Jack Johnson has been "persuaded" not to fight in London despite the fact that he "went broke." No doubt he is greatly disappointed as he anticipated a big haul, win or lose. The British aristocracy is not so badly off for a fight as formerly. They have had more fighting than they cared for of late.

Governor Dix is in favor of repealing the boxing law under which pugilists are permitted to turn the prize ring into something resembling a shamble. It is safe to assume that every law of the kind will be abused, and the boxing law of New York is no exception. The Massachusetts law seems to give the sport sufficient lee way and at the same time prevent anything approaching brutality.

THE VACANT JUDGESHIPS

The resignation of Judge Sherman of the superior court will leave another vacancy to be filled by Governor Foss. It was reported that the governor had selected a Boston lawyer for one of the vacancies, but the report is not confirmed. With three vacancies to fill it would seem that Governor Foss would slight Lowell very seriously if he did not select Lawyer Nathan D. Pratt, the local lawyer, recommended by the bar association and other prominent citizens as eminently worthy and deserving of being elevated to the bench. It should be mentioned in this connection that Judge Sherman has long been recognized as one of the ablest judges on the superior court bench.

HOW THE MAINE WAS DESTROYED

The contractors who are raising the old battleship Maine in Havana harbor have bared the keel of mud and silt only to find unmistakable proof that it was raised from beneath by the force of a powerful explosion. That is conclusive proof that the battleship was blown up by a mine. Whether the mine was placed there for the purpose by anti-American fanatics of course is a matter of conjecture, but there is no reason to believe that the Spanish authorities would do anything so utterly stupid. Rightly or otherwise Spain was held responsible for the crime and eventually paid the penalty; for it is reasonably certain that but for the destruction of the vessel the Spanish-American war would never have taken place. The independence of Cuba might have been secured in some other way.

DISASTER FROM BAD ENGINEERING

Again it is the state of Pennsylvania that furnishes a shocking example of bad engineering. Twenty years ago the breaking of a dam caused the Johnstown flood that swept the Conemaugh valley, spreading death and destruction all along its path. In the present case the little town of Austin, Pa., has been the chief sufferer, and it is impossible as yet to count the victims or tell the exact amount of the damage, but it is certain that there are at least several hundred dead, while the property loss will be over $6,000,000. About a year ago it was known that the dam was in danger of giving way as the concrete wall sank eight or ten inches under the pressure from the high water of a freshet.

The dam was constructed during a drought by the Rayless Pulp and Paper company for the purpose of impounding as large a quantity of water as possible in the bed of the Sinnamahoning creek. That the dam proved defective and dangerous under pressure of high water was amply shown when it sagged as already stated. It might be supposed that the state authorities would at once take steps to prevent the possibility of a break that would spread disaster in the valley below, but even the severe lesson of the Johnstown flood was not sufficient to move them to do their duty. At that time the government should have ordered the dam reconstructed and strengthened so as to be solid enough to withstand the highest pressure that could come against it. A concrete dam 32 feet thick at the bottom and tapering to a height of 50 feet with a width of 330 feet was a poor barrier to resist the pressure of 500,000,000 gallons of water walled up to the top of the dam.

The pulp and paper company by which the dam was constructed evidently did a cheap job, and it is, therefore, directly blamable for the disaster; but had the state officials done their duty the company would not have been permitted to imperil life and property by any such defective engineering. The Pennsylvania officials as a rule are too busy playing politics to give such important matters the necessary attention. Unfortunately others suffer for their neglect.

SEEN AND HEARD

The Lowell Choral society is looking out for a leader and they do say that the society has its eye on E. G. Hood of Nashua, N. H. Mr. Hood is director of the Nashua oratorio and has made a great success of it.

N. C. Goodwin, comedian, condemned at a dinner in Los Angeles an elderly millionaire's marriage with a girl of 18.

"Such a marriage isn't fair for the girl," he said. "Crammed age and youth, you know, cannot live together."

"I once knew an old chap of 72 who thought seriously of wedding his young typewriter. I advised him not to take such a foolish step."

"You are too well on, I blurted. "But his withered cheek flushed angrily and he replied:

"A man Nat, is as young as he feels, and I feel as fresh as a 2-year-old."

"I suppose you mean," said I, "a 2-year-old egg?"

Among the clerical humorists of Ireland, Father James Healy stands out prominently. On one occasion when a pretty child was proudly shown him by her mother he remarked:

"My dear child, you'll have a blue look on as long as you live!"

The mother's face at first clouded, but immediately after brightened up when she saw the smile on Father Healy's face for the child had blue eyes.

Once Father Healy was asked how he would describe a Scotsman, and in answer, assuming as he spoke the Scot's accent, said:

"A Scot is a man who keeps the Sawbath and everything else that he can get."

Miss Eleonora Sears, at a dinner in Newport in honor of her engagement to Harold Vanderbilt, showed a spirit of patriotism that is perhaps too rare among American heiresses.

Miss Sears, the story goes, was twitted upon the fact that many of her girl friends had married exalted titles, while she was doomed to be a plain "Mrs." Tossing her head, she rejoined:

"Our American families are just as good as foreign ones. Indeed, our aristocratic stock is in many cases purer than the aristocratic stock of England."

I was once talking at a tea in New York with a southern girl when a young English viscount rampered past in tight clothes.

"How far can the viscount's ancestry be traced?" the southern girl asked in awed tone.

"I laughed and answered: "Well, the viscount's grandfather, the one who stole the army funds, was traced as far as China, but I believe he got away."

Two fishermen named Jeffs, living near each other, had met with misfortune, the one having lost his wife and the other his boat. A lady visitor called on the one who had lost his boat, thinking it was the one who had lost his wife, and the following conversation ensued:

"Good morning, Mr. Jeffs. I am sorry to hear of your sad loss."

"O, it ain't much consequence, mum; she wasn't up to much."

"Dear me; you can't say so!"

"Ay she was a rickety old croak. When I went out with her I was always in danger of my life."

"Indeed?"

"I offered her to my mate only last week, but he wouldn't have her; but I have had my eye on another for some time now, and—"

But the lady could stand no more of the old man's innocent denunciation of the weaker sex and hurriedly took her departure.

Henry Clegg, at a dinner in Newport, said of American traveling:

"It is delightful to travel in America, but I think that American porters handle our luggage a little too roughly."

"Once, at a certain station, I was amazed and pleased to hear a uniformed officer shout to a burly porter:

"Hi, what are you knocking them trunks about like that for?"

"The porter had been lifting great trunks above his head and hurting them down onto the floor furiously; but now he stood stock still in astonishment."

"What's that, boss?" he said.

"What do you mean by knocking trunks about like that?" repeated the official. "Look at the floor, man. Look at the dents you're makin' in the concrete. Don't you know you'll lose your job if you damage the company's property?"

MY PRAYER

Let me be true to meet each honest eye.

Yet if a friend whose sorrowed heart has been undone.

Asks me for comfort where in truth there can be none.

Then let me grasp his groping hand— and kindly lie.

And if my neighbor does those things I think are ill.

Let me not judge! Who knows what tangled taunting skein Fate may have woven to have mingled his heart in pain—

Would I have smoothed the evil knot with half his skill?

Since I must play the game of life, this is my prayer.

Though I may lose, let me preserve a smiling face.

Let me not scorn the weak who falter in the race;

Let me be merciful—let me play fair.

—Caroline Reynolds, in Los Angeles Graphic.

THE RIVER OF LIFE

The more we live more brief appear Our life's succeeding stages:

A day to childhood seems a year, And years like passing ages.

The gladness current of our youth, Ere passion yet disorders,

Steads lingering like a river smooth Along its grassy borders.

But as the careworn cheek grows wan And sorrow's shafts fly thick,

To stare, that measure life to man, Why seem your courses quicker?

When years have lost their bloom and breath And life is rapid,

Why, as we reach the Falls of Death, Feel we its tide more rapid?

It may be strange—yet who could change Time's course to slower speeding.

When, one by one, our friends have gone And left our bosoms bleeding?

Heaven, gives our years of fading strength Automating fleetness.

Life's ending like a coming length, Proportioned to their swiftness.

—Thomas Campbell.

Some 20 members of the G. A. R. post 120, and several representatives of the Woman's Relief Corps attended the Paige Street Baptist church yesterday and heard Rev. B. R. Harris speak on the subject, "The American Citizen." In part he said:

"Love for our country. It sounds simple enough and yet it should be made more emphatic; it should be preached to the younger generation and impressed upon them."

Roosevelt, ex-president of the United States, and are well worth the attention of any man.

"Have we citizens of the character of former years? Are the laws of the nation being supported in the same manner that they were in early years? There are more duties for the American citizen than most of us realize. I had to live for 21 years in this country before I was allowed to have a voice in the making of the laws, but foreigners, coming to this country are allowed to vote a few years after their landing. How many of them realize what they are doing when they take a ballot in their hands? It is the duty of every American citizen to make them realize that they are a part of the government of a great nation."

"Nowadays we hear much talk about taking the 'lid' off the Sunday statute. What does it mean? It means just this. Next door a theatre is allowed to run a performance on Sunday, while the clothing stores must be closed. Sunday papers can be sold, but to sell a spool of thread is against the law. The American citizen is approaching anarchy, because men do not dare stand back of the law. The man with the largest wad of money is the man of today. I feel and I am ashamed to say it, the government, instead of being a government of the people, for the people, and by the people, is becoming a government by the few, when every one of us who ought to be a ruler is not even a loyal citizen because we have not back-bone enough to support the law. Those who love their country should demand that the laws of this nation be enforced."

"And lastly, those of you who love your country should be Christians and to be a Christian it takes all that there is in a man. All the good in a man will shine if he is trying to be a follower of God. Most of the great men of the world were Christians. James A. Garfield, once, accompanied by several young men, climbed Mt. Holyoke. Having gained the highest point at the peak they decided to wait the night there, and before retiring for the night, Garfield drew out a New Testament and after reading a few passages knelt in prayer. Abraham Lincoln, during the terrible ordeal of the Civil war, spent many nights in solid prayer. As long as a man is true to his God and his flag he will win out in the end. Let us all help to make our country better and His blessing will be upon us."

AUTO WAS BURNED

Frank E. Dunbar's Touring Car Destroyed

The big Peerless touring car belonging to Lawyer Frank E. Dunbar of this city was practically destroyed by fire while on its way to South Lawrence Saturday afternoon. The machine was in charge of Mr. Dunbar's chauffeur and he was just on the outskirts of Lawrence when the fire broke out. The origin of the fire is not known but as soon as the chauffeur discovered it he attempted to extinguish the blaze and finding it impossible to do so rushed to nearby houses for assistance but when the assistance arrived the machine was practically destroyed, nothing but the chassis being left. The machine was valued at over $3000. Fred C. Church carried the insurance.

Greeks In United States Ready to Fight Turkey

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—What was probably the first step in the mobilization of the Greeks of the United States for war against Turkey took place last night when over 1100 Greeks met and enrolled themselves as members of the Boston branch of the Greek Military Circle—the Ethelonticos Lochos—in America and Templar hall, 724 Washington street.

As it was next to impossible for all the Greeks present to "sign up" in the time allowed them for the use of the hall, a meeting will be held to-day, when others who did not even know that the meeting was to be held will also have an opportunity to join.

The Greeks last night signified both by writing, speech and enthusiasm that they were ready to drop business at a moment's notice and go back to fight the Turk.

It was not known until 5 o'clock last evening that the meeting was to be held, but through the efforts of organizers C. H. Damascus, New England correspondent for the Atlantic, national daily of New York, and J. M. Petros of Arnold and Petros, Back Bay florists, the word was circulated, and inside of an hour and a half 1100 Greeks were assembled in the hall at 724 Washington street.

Damascus and Petros explained that Turkey was now massing her troops on the border of Thessaly, in the north of Greece. They declared that inside of the lines, in Greek territory, over 30,000 armed and well drilled soldiers of their country, who had been working as farmers for the last seven years, were just waiting the word to strike.

It was stated that representatives of 10 Greek societies of Boston and New England, including the Iwasara society of Boston, were present and ready to contribute funds for equipping and arming the men willing to go back to fight. It is understood that the Iwasara society of Boston has already proffered $2,000 and that over $50,000 can be raised at a moment's notice.

There were present, besides the organizers and representatives of the 10 societies mentioned, members of the Greek community, including clergymen of the Greek church, which is established at Kneeland and Tyler streets. Mr. Damascus speaks tonight in Lowell at the Greek church, where there are about 8000 Greek residents. He said that there were about 5000 Greeks today in Boston and about 50,000 in New England.

Boston Engineer to Wed Woman Accused of Shoplifting

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—With a federal indictment, charging the raising of a postal money order, and a police court prison sentence for shoplifting hanging over her head, Miss Hope Rosamond Slavel of Worcester, formerly of Hartford, Conn., will Thursday afternoon become the wife of Frank A. Sawyer, a Boston civil engineer, who supplied her with bail on the two recent occasions of her arrest.

To both charges the young woman, who is only 21 years old and decidedly good looking, pleaded guilty, but not without having first been assured of the protection of the young engineer and his bail.

Miss Slavel made her debut into local criminal annals when, Aug. 17, she was arrested in Worcester by United States marshals, who charged her with having changed the figures on a postal money order, so as to increase its value from $9 to $95. The alteration was clumsily made, it is said, and the detection of the perpetrator was a matter of comparative ease.

At the time of her arrest she sent several messengers scurrying about to find Sawyer, and after much difficulty located him at the home of Mrs. C. R. Thompson, at 257 Pleasant street, Worcester, where she, with her grandmother, Mrs. M. C. Buck of Hartford, are now boarding. At that time, however, the girl had rooms at Hotel Kenmore.

Sawyer accompanied her to the court of United States Commissioner Frank F. Dresser, where she pleaded guilty and supplied $3000 bail for the grand jury. Two weeks ago she was indicted in Boston and her plea of guilty to the true bill was followed by the indefinite filing of the case against her.

The day after her release by the federal grand jury she was taken by the Worcester police and arraigned in the city court, charged with larceny, the specific accusation being that she had stolen a hat valued at $15 from one department store and a dress worth $71 from another. It is said the police located this plunder in the girl's room at the Kenmore.

Much to the surprise of many spectators in the court, and it is said to the chagrin of Sawyer, who again came forward with his aid she pleaded guilty to the two charges of theft and was summarily sentenced to a term in the reformatory by Judge Samuel Under.

After a brief consultation between the young prisoner and Sawyer, in which it was generally believed they were bidding one another farewell, the court clerk was surprised to learn that the woman had decided to appeal the sentence. Until the grand jury acts in the case Sawyer will again remain on her bond, this time for $400.

Unable to remove the clients from windows they had smashed, determined burglars cut a hole through the roof of bulkhead of Fred Timmons' saloon in Middlesex street Friday night, and got away with three or four cases of liquor, several boxes of cigars and about $300 in money.

The burglary was discovered by Patrolman Riley on his first round on the early morning shift. The broken windows attracted his attention but it required the light of day to disclose the modus operandi of the burglars.

The officers' searchlights revealed fresh tracks in the cellar but how the burglars got there was the question. An examination of the windows disclosed the fact that they had been forced in their attempts to enter there, yet there was every evidence that they had entered. The cash registers had been rifled, the cellar was littered with bottles and the cigar case was almost a wreck.

It looked like a big case for "Sherlock the Monk" or some other detective of worldwide reputation, but the break of day told the story which was preceded by a cute little ray of light that found its way to the cellar. In the depths of the dark and lonesome cellar the officers of the law had been working their gray matter overtime in an earnest endeavor to discover how and where the marauders had entered, when suddenly, the little ray of light neared through and, in its innocence, told the whole story.

The roof to the bulkhead at the saloon in question is one story high and not as staunch or as solid as some other roofs. When the burglars had failed at the windows and knowing the premises very well, as was evidently the case, they turned their attention to the bulkhead roof. They used a chisel, hammer and crowbar, and where they prepared these instruments of destruction is not known. They succeeded, however, in making a hole in the roof large enough to admit the burglar.

and they dropped through the hole to the cellar floor. After rifling the cash registers, and supplying themselves with liquors and cigars, they made their exit through the hole by which they entered. The hole, by means of barrels and shelves, was comparatively easy of access from the inside and the burglars succeeded in getting away with their plunder unobserved.

It is stated that suspicion rests upon certain ones, and the police are very busy on the case. They are satisfied that the burglars are well acquainted with the premises. Mr. Timmons has suffered several losses by burglaries of this kind, and this time, he says, he will turn out if he has to employ and pay special detectives to do it. He is confident, however, that the local police will locate the guilty parties.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The record figure for stocks of news print paper on hand was announced today in a report to the commissioner of corporations by the American Paper & Pulp Association showing 51,586,000 tons at the end of August, an increase of 6759 tons for the month.

At the close of August, 1910, stocks were 42,415 tons. The high point in stocks on hand is usually reached in August.

The production of news print paper in August, 1911, was 58,322 tons, a month's increase of 6832 tons, due to inclusion of two more working days in August than in July, August's daily output being slightly less than in July at 3642 tons. August shipments were 51,515 tons, an increase of 4207 tons.

All other grades showed marked increases in both output and shipments, particularly board, book and wrapping paper. The stocks on hand for these other grades showed only unimportant changes.

THE MILLS ARE BUSY

New England Textile Centers Report Further Activity Today

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—Further activity was reported today by New England textile centers. The woolen mills, which curtailed during the summer even more extensively than the cotton mills, are busier than for months although considerable machinery is still idle. The American Woolen company, which operates 30 plants in the six New England states and New York, have increased the number of active looms by nearly 10 per cent. since Sept. 1. Many of the independent woolen mills are also busier.

The Atlantic woolen mills at Providence have gone on practically a full time basis and is in operation practically day and night. The Dudley woolen mills at Webster have adopted a day and night schedule and a section of the Wuskanet mills controlled by the Slater interests is running overtime three nights weekly.

In Woonsocket, R. I. the yarn mills of Green & Daniels which have been closed for a short time because of a slack market, resumed operations this week. The curtailment of print cloth in Fall River continues heavy but next Monday the seven mills of the Fall River Iron Works company controlled by M. C. D. Borden of New York will resume operations after a complete shutdown of nine weeks and twelve weeks of partial running.

The Flint Stafford-Tremont, Acana, Harrington, Laurel Lake, Parker and Richard Borden mills in Fall River curtailed extensively last week but as the iron works mills resume next Monday many of the other plants will be compelled to run closer to full time. It is said, in order to prevent a loss of help to Mr. Borden's mills, a large number of whose 5000 operatives have gone away or found employment elsewhere.

DEBILITY CURSE OF 20th CENTURY

Tonic That Overcame Trouble in Europe To Be Tried Here

MANY PEOPLE BENEFITED

Dr. James Spoyer, of London, England, says he will be surprised if United States has escaped dreaded ill-health caused by debility.

A celebrated Austrian physician, Dr. L. J. Schat, was the first to announce that a high state of civilization has debilitated modern nations. His claim that half the population is suffering from nervous debility, produced by the strain under which we live, has finally been admitted by physicians throughout the world.

In recent years a tonic has been introduced in leading European cities to help build up the countless numbers of run-down, nervous, debilitated people produced by modern life and the results have been remarkable.

Today, in chief cities of Europe, thousands have renewed their health through the use of this tonic. The action of the medicine is very rapid, good effects being obtained from it in only a few moments.

A company has been formed to put a similar medicine upon the American market. The preparation is called "Tona Vita" in the United States and in the cities where it is being introduced, it is proving tremendously successful. Specialists have been stationed here to demonstrate the action of the medicine and have been meeting many thousands of people and explaining the nature of the preparation to them.

The general symptoms of debility are irregular appetite, poor digestion, headache, backache, constipation, poor memory, nervousness, physical and mental depression and a general low state of health. The common expression of this condition is "all run-down." In such cases the tonic acts with remarkable rapidity.

European physicians are well acquainted with the results accomplished by this tonic and are aware of its introduction in this country. Dr. James Spoyer of London, England, says in this connection: "If the United States has escaped having a large percentage of its population in poor physical condition, owing to debility, I will be greatly surprised. It seems certain the same methods of living that have produced this condition to such a great extent in England and the continent, have had a like effect in the United States."

There is an attendant remedy known as Lee's Rheubarb Laxative which is most valuable to those suffering with chronic constipation. It is pleasant to the taste, does not gripe and acts promptly.

The specialists introducing this remarkable new tonic, "Tona Vita," are located at Hall & Lyons Drug Store, where they will meet all callers from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. and explain the merits of their preparation.

A free trial will be given the first five hundred callers provided their symptoms show them to be sufferers from nervous debility.

Burglars Entered and Robbed a Saloon in Middlesex Street

C. T. A. Union Wants Them Closed Tight on Good Friday

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—The semi-annual convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of Boston, which was held in St. Augustine's hall, St. Boston, was attended by 55 delegates representing 23 societies, together with five honorary delegates.

John T. Shea presided, with Mr. Cusick acting as secretary pro tem. The committee on credentials included Patrick D. Walsh, Michael J. O'Connor and Mrs. Flaherty.

The reading of the minutes of the last convention, also the officers' reports, omitted by unanimous vote.

A committee headed by Dr. Sullivan of Roxbury was named to submit a list of nominees for the various union officers to be voted for at the annual session to be held in April next.

John I. Fitzgerald of St. Joseph's society, West End, was unanimously elected secretary of the union to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Maurice Danneberg.

John McCauley, Miss Dwyer and Mr. Ziegler were appointed an auditing committee. The chaplain-general, Dr. Maurice J. O'Connor, spoke on the work of the organization, and in the course of his remarks said that the peculiar method of the union was moral suasion, but it did not disdain other means.

"The keynote from now on," he said, "must be publicity, and unless the members take advantage of the means at their command to advance the movement they would be derelict in their duty. He read the roster of the old Massachusetts union, way back in 1873.

It was voted that the advisory council be divided up into county committees for the purpose of spreading the cause in sections of the diocese which at present are not covered by the membership of the organization.

It was also voted to support any movement having for its purpose the closing of saloons on Good Friday, which will be considered by the Catholic Federation of Societies.

On motion it was voted that a committee of four, including the president, the chaplain-general, Mrs. Tilton, and William H. Cuddy, be a committee to be known as the legislative committee. Any movement which will prevent the serving of liquor by women or to women in saloons will be supported according to a vote passed.

A vote of thanks was unanimously voted Pat. Fitzgerald, chairman of the committee on credentials, and to him as secretary of the organization, and an expression of regret that he should relinquish the position.

In a letter received by the chaplain-general, the Rev. Dr. O'Connor, from His Grace the archbishop, the latter said among other things that he approved the holding of a series of public meetings in different sections of the archdiocese where the abuse of alcoholic liquors by our Catholic people may be a serious drawback to religion and Catholic morals. In the case of each of these meetings the reverend pastor immediately concerned is to be approached and consulted before and the project is to be outlined to him.

It would be preferable that such meetings be held in the basement of the church or the school hall to be presided over by the pastor himself. The speakers shall be the spiritual director of Union and Catholic laymen, who are qualified to speak on the subject in the approved Catholic sense, and who may also be able to speak on the subject from personal experience in matters medical, criminological and charitable among our people.

He heartily approves of the C. T. A. U. of this archdiocese affiliating itself with the Archdiocesan Federation of Catholic societies for the furtherance of all legitimate causes, and the cause of drunkenness among our Catholic women, which is fostered by the existence of certain licensed places to which these women may resort.

All legislation, the latter continues, and matters of this kind are to be furthered through the Archdiocesan Federation of Catholic societies.

BOY WAS KILLED

By Accidental Discharge of a Revolver

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—Clement Gerardi, a 12-year-old schoolboy, killed himself at his home, 1 Hart place, South Boston, late yesterday afternoon by the accidental discharge of an old 22-caliber revolver with which he was playing.

Much mystery was at first attached to the case, but after an investigation by Assistant Medical Examiner William H. Watters and the police of the City Point station, the cause of the death was given by the medical examiner as accidental shooting.

The dead boy, who was a graduate of the Lincoln grammar school last

June, had never appeared in better spirits and health, according to his mother, than when he, about 3 o'clock yesterday, sat down to dinner.

The boy after dinner went into the room occupied by his father and, while looking through an old trunk in the closet of the room, found the revolver and a small box containing three cartridges which, according to his father, had been in the trunk for 15 years.

While his mother was cleaning up the kitchen after dinner she was startled by hearing the report of a shot.

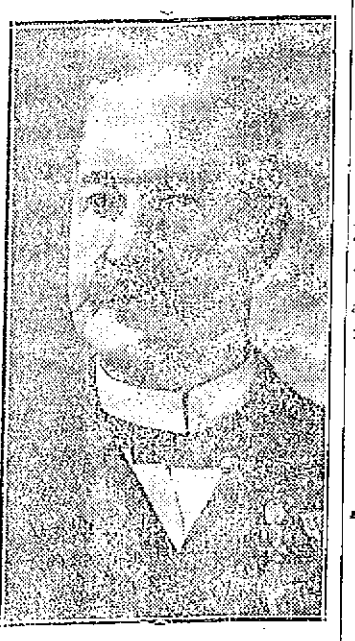

Rushing into the room, the mother was horrified to see her boy lying on the floor in a pool of blood, shot through the right temple.

DROWNED HER BABY

Brockton Woman Then Attempted to End Her Own Life

BROCKTON, Oct. 2.—After drowning her baby daughter, Helen, aged 2 years, in the bath tub, Mrs. Florence Bridgwood was discovered by neighbors yesterday as she was trying to end her own life at her home, 251 Prospect street.

Mrs. Bridgwood is the wife of Fred Bridgwood, who was absent from home yesterday attending to his duties as organist at Trinity Episcopal church in Stoughton. She is 24 years old.

Ties Self in Chair

When Mr. and Mrs. Edgar C. Hill, who occupy an apartment under that of the Bridgwoods, smelled gas strongly, they investigated and found Mrs. Bridgwood seated in a chair in her bathroom with a rubber tube in her mouth, connected with an opened gas fixture. The lifeless body of the little girl, Helen, lay in the bath tub beside the woman.

Mrs. Bridgwood had tied herself in a chair with a clothes line. She was unconscious but was given medical attention and revived. At the police station to which she was taken, she was examined by physicians and declared insane. She will be removed to the Taunton Insane hospital today.

In a note which was found in the apartment, she spoke of domestic quarrels, but both her husband and her friends say that there had been no quarrels.

Bridgwood is employed at the factory of a tanning machine company. It was shortly before noon, immediately before the woman expected the return of her husband from church, at Stoughton. Dinner had already been partly prepared when Mrs. Bridgwood carried the baby to the bath room where she filled the tub, tied an apron about the child's head and plunged it to the bottom. When she became satisfied that the child was dead, she too, tried to kill herself the same way, but she was only partly immersed when she changed her course of action and tied herself to a chair and inhaled the gas from a rubber tube attached to an open jet.

The sound of her groans were heard a short time later by Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hill, who occupy the floor below. Mr. Hill refused to investigate, and when the noises became louder, Mrs. Hill went to the Bridgwood flat. With the aid of a chair she battered down the door, and her screams, a second later, brought her husband to her aid. The two released the dying woman and then took the drowned child out of the tub with the apron, that had first stifled it, still tied about its head.

A search of the house revealed that the woman had written and left two letters, but to whom they were addressed, and what they contained, the medical examiner declined to divulge.

About the time Mrs. Bridgwood was taken from her home to the police station, her husband arrived. Mrs. Bridgwood is the niece of C. R. Barrett, a school committeeman and popular business man. She graduated from the class of 1907, of the Brockton High school.

MEXICAN OFFICIALS

Think That the National Treasury Has Been Defrauded

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 2.—Tax officials of Mexico are inclined to think that the national treasury has been defrauded of a considerable amount of money, but just now there appears no means whatever of knowing, for scores of little fires have consumed the evidence. Acting upon telegraphic instructions, government inspectors of revenue stamps in all parts of the republic destroyed to the last little lithograph all their old stock, only to discover that the order was a forgery.

It is the custom of the tax department to call in every two years what remains of an old issue, sending new stamps in return for those turned in. In the present instance the reports of the officials of their compliance with the order was the first intimation received at the capital of what had been done. An investigation was hastily made and developed the fact that a telegraphic circular, bearing what appeared to be the proper official seal, had been submitted to the telegraph company for transmission. Now the government's secret service agents are evolving theories and seeking clues as to the identity of the criminal or criminals.

The popular theory is that one or possibly a number of stamp distributors created and carried out the deception in order to cover a shortage, the police pointing out that a man might easily report that he had burned—upon instruction—$1,000 worth of stamps and receive credit for that amount, when in reality he had consumed not more than $100 worth of the stamps.

Big Racing Plant

Under American management, the capital's big racing plant, inaugurated last year and scene of the first Mexican Derby, will be operated this winter along American lines. The plant has been leased from the Jockey club, Mexico's most fashionable and exclusive organization, by Matt J. Winn, an American, and his associates. The local track, widely known as the Congress track, was the realization of a dream of many years on the part of the Jockey club, although members of that organization are for the most part not racing men, despite the name of their club. To that fact is attributed their failure to make racing a success. Under the new arrangement the club will yet have an advisory interest in the track, but the active management will lie with the Americans.

The regular quarterly communion Sunday of the Catholic Young Men's League was observed yesterday, and a large number of members received holy communion at the seven o'clock mass at St. Patrick's church, which was celebrated by Rev. William O'Brien. Rev. Joseph Curtin assisted in giving communion.

Following the service the members repaired to their hall in Suffolk street, where a breakfast was served and later the regular meeting of the league was held. President John J. McCarthy presided at the meeting and considerable business of importance was transacted in the morning. The various committee reports submitted showed the organization in good condition and with the outlook for the future very encouraging. The athletic committee reported that the regular weekly gymnasium classes would be started in a short time and that the society would in all probability be represented by a good basketball team the coming winter. It was planned to conduct a pool and card tournament in the immediate future.

An invitation from Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, asking the members to participate in the parade on Columbus day, was read and a committee of 15 chosen to make arrangements for the turning out of the members on that day.

The entertainment committee announced arrangements for a concert and dance to be held at Associate hall on November 5, and on a vote, Albert Lavo was elected floor director. A ladies' night, to be held on October 10, was voted, and a committee named to make the necessary arrangements.

Government Resources

To determine some of the resources the government has in Lower California, the Geologic Institute has named, with the consent of the department of the interior, a commission to visit the peninsula and make a minute survey. Only in rather vague way is the government familiar with this portion of the national territory. One of the principal plans of the new regime is to secure the colonization of Lower California, and the government wishes the information the commission is expected to procure, in order to place it at the disposal of prospective settlers.

Prisoners in Belem

Governors Rivas of the federal district has sent a message to the department of justice, requesting that all habeas corpus be used in the proceedings relative to prisoners in Belem, the big local jail, who are now under sentence of death. He explains that the jail is too crowded and that the cells there are needed for others. Plans have been made and accepted for a new jail, but realizing that it will be a long time before the historic and notorious prison Belem can be abandoned, the governor has urged that it be enlarged and remodeled in order to be made more sanitary. Possible to afford more room. The average number of prisoners confined there is about 3500.

Face Peeling

At Home

(From Ladies' Favorite Magazine)

Any woman nowadays may quickly rejuvenate her complexion at home by a safe and painless process of gentle absorption. The days of expensive and dangerous "operations" are past and each woman can be her own beauty doctor. It has been discovered that ordinary mercurized wax, applied like cold cream at night, causes the thin veil of scales, yellow or blotchy, which so gently flake off in invisible, flour-like particles, revealing the fresh, vigorous and beautiful young skin underneath. The wax absorbs into the pores and unsightly outer film and does not affect the healthy tissue at all.

The process defies detection and unveils a lasting and beautiful complexion which is, of course, perfectly permanent. For this purpose thousands of women are now using mercurized wax, which may be obtained at any drug store. Naturally the process also removes all such surface blemishes as freckles, blotches, pimples, tan, liver spots, etc. It makes the face look years younger and prettier and renders the use of face creams unnecessary.

ACCEPTS $75,000
Report That Chanler Pays Cavalieri That Sum

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Lina Cavalieri has accepted a cash sum of all claims upon Robert Wintrop Chanler, his income and his property, real or personal. The exact amount of the settlement is not definitely known, but it is more than $75,000, and probably something less than $100,000.

That the beautiful diva had finally consented to follow the advice of her lawyers and accept a cash settlement, was told to a reporter yesterday, thereby renouncing all claims in the now famous ante-nuptial settlement, by one of the couple involved. The informant further said:

"I understand that Sidney Harris, counsel for Mr. Chanler, went abroad for the purpose of closing the negotiations and settling the case. In this he has been successful. When the French court opens this month the necessary papers will be filed and then either Chanler or Cavalieri, or both, will get a divorce.

"It may be that the court which grants the decree will forbid the marriage of one or both during the other's lifetime, but what difference will that make? All that either Cavalieri or Chanler would have to do if they wished to marry again would be to move out of the jurisdiction of the court granting the decree. That has been accomplished recently in the Astor-Force wedding.

"The full details of the settlement I cannot give. I understand, however, that Cavalieri flatly refused to accept the first offer made by Mr. Harris, which is generally understood to have been $75,000. How much it was raised I do not know, but I do not believe the final settlement calls for as much as $100,000.

Sidney Harris, "Sheriff Bob's" lawyer, sailed on Aug. 12 last. He returned early last week as quietly as he left. He was out of town yesterday when a reporter called to see him. At his office it was said that he would make no statement in regard to the result of his negotiations with the diva. It was not denied, however, that he had seen her several times. But one of Mr. Harris' employees said that his negotiations had been successful.

WALKED TO DEATH
Man's Body Found in Canal in Lawrence

LAWRENCE, Oct. 2.—Friends of Cornelius Keating, 25, whose body was found in the North Canal yesterday, believe that he walked to his death in his sleep early last Wednesday morning.

Matthew Canillan, a brother-in-law of the drowned man, is firm in his position that Keating walked through the streets of the city while asleep and plunged into the dark waters of the canal without knowledge, until too late, of his action.

Both Keating and Canillan attended the primaries Tuesday night, returning to their home, 1 Tremont street, late at night. About 2 o'clock in the morning Keating was heard to leave the house. That was the last known of his whereabouts until the discovery of his body in the canal yesterday.

HIS JUBILEE SERMON

Cardinal Gibbons Opposed to Direct Election of U. S. Senators

BALTIMORE, Oct. 2.—In the course of his jubilee sermon delivered at the cathedral here yesterday Cardinal Gibbons expressed unqualified disapproval of three important political propositions which have commanded a large share of public attention; namely the election of United States senators by the direct vote of the people; the referendum proposal which has come up in several western states, providing for the submission of legislative enactments to the voters for ratification, and the recall of the judiciary.

While it is the cardinal's custom to preach on the first Sunday of the month, his discourse yesterday was in the nature of a prelude to the religious economic questions that are agitating around him.

"At the present moment there are three political problems which are engaging the serious attention of our public men.

Sensors by Popular Vote

"It is proposed that United States senators should be elected by popular vote instead of being chosen by the legislature, as is prescribed by the constitution.

"It is proposed that the acts of our legislature, before they have the force of law, should be submitted to the suffrage of the people who would have the right to vote.

"It is proposed to recall or remove an unpopular judge before the expiration of his term of office.

"No one questions the ability, the sincerity, and patriotism of the advocates of these changes in our organic laws. But I hope I may not be presumptuous in saying that, in my opinion, the wisdom of the proposed amendments must be seriously questioned.

Endangers Bulwark

"The election of senators by the votes of the people involves the destruction of a strong bulwark against dangerous popular encroachments. The reason given for the contemplated change is that many of our state legislatures are charged with being venal, and that it is easier to corrupt the legislature than the whole people. In reply I would say: If you cannot trust the members of the legislature, how can you trust their constituents? From whom they spring? If you cannot confide in our legislatures you cannot confide in human government, nor in human nature itself. If a few of our legislators have been found guilty of bribery, it is most unjust to involve all the others in their condemnation. I have sufficient confidence in the moral integrity of our legislatures to be convinced that the great majority of them have never bent the knee to Mammon.

Substitutes Mob Law

"To give to the masses the right of annulling the acts of the legislature is to substitute mob law for established law.

"To recall a judge because his decisions do not meet with popular approval is an insult to the dignity, the independence and the self-respect of our judiciary. Far less menacing to the commonwealth is an occasional corrupt or incompetent judge, than one who would be the habitual slave of a capricious multitude, who has always his ear to the ground trying to find out the verdict of the people.

"The constitution of the United States is the palladium of our liberties and our landmark in our march of progress. That instrument has been framed by the anxious cares and enlightened zeal of the fathers of the republic. Its wisdom has been tested and successfully proved after a trial of a century and a quarter. It has weathered the storms of the century which is passed, and it should be trusted for the centuries to come. What has been good enough for our fathers ought to be good enough for us. Every change, either in the political or religious world, is not a reformation.

"Better to bear the ills we know than fly to those we know not of. Every man who runs about waving a new panacea for social evils is not to be worshipped as a political and moral reformer. We all remember the story of Aladdin and the wonderful lamp. Better to trust to the old lamp of the fathers which has guided the steps of the American people for four generations than to confide in every ignis fatuus that may lead into dangerous pitfalls. Do not disturb the political landmarks of the republic."

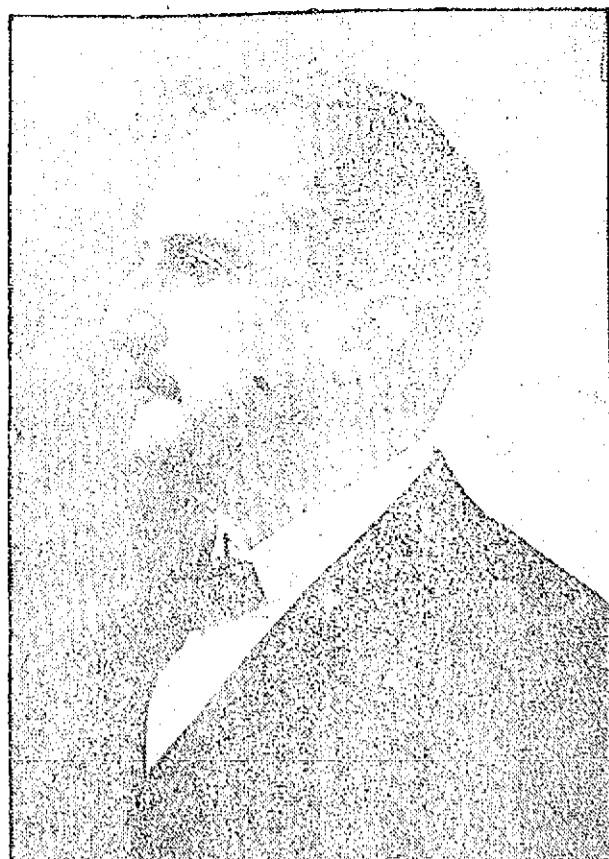

celebration of his golden jubilee as a priest of the Catholic church and the silver anniversary of his cardinalate, which begins on Sunday, the 15th inst., and continues until the 19th.

Have No Drones

Declining the duties of his brethren in the latter he exhorted them to be faithful in the practice of their religion and urged them as citizens of the United States to take a patriotic part in every measure that contributes to the progress of the commonwealth.

"No man should be a drone in the social beehive," said his Eminence. "No citizen should be an indifferent spectator of the political, moral, and

STATUE TO PARNELL

Unveiled By John E. Redmond Amidst Scenes of Enthusiasm

DUBLIN, Oct. 2.—The bronze statue of Parnell, one of the finest achievements of the great sculptor, Augustus St. Gaudens, which has been erected by American admirers, was unveiled yesterday by John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Parliamentary party. The scenes of enthusiasm were only paralleled by those which attended the unveiling of the O'Connell statue at the opposite end of Sackville street, 30 years ago.

Richard Croker, who lent his support to the project, accompanied Mr. Redmond throughout the day's proceedings and the two men received a swirling ovation, which brought smiles to their faces. A monster parade of patriotic societies made its way slowly through the mass of people at the north end of Sackville street, where the statue was erected. Some of those in the procession wore in uniform, and others in plain clothes, but all displayed some badge of loyalty.

Tribute to Parnell

Mr. Redmond and Mr. Croker brought up the rear of the procession. As they neared the statue they had to make their way on foot, so closely was the crowd packed. Mr. Redmond was the only speaker. He paid a glowing tribute to Parnell. Twenty years, he said, seemed a long time to wait to erect a monument to Parnell. But was it not the inevitable hour? "A chosen land guides us in the sequence of events. What moment more fitting than that when we are bade to the point to which Parnell led Ireland before the cause was submerged."

Remember Chief

Mr. Redmond said that there would

HOW WRINKLES ARE CAUSED—AND REMOVED

(From American Home.)

"Why did no one think of this before," writes a clear-thinking reader. "Wrinkles are caused by the skin becoming loose. Obviously the remedy is to tighten the skin. Equally it is obvious that the only thing which will tighten the skin is a powerful astringent."

"Now, it is well known that the only powerful astringent which is absolutely harmless and beneficial as well, is pure powdered saxolite, obtainable from any druggist. Dissolve one ounce in a half-pint of witch hazel. Bathe the face in it daily and—behold! The result is almost magical. The skin becomes firm and smooth, the face feels snug, comfortable and solid. Instead of looking old and flabby. Simple, isn't it? As I asked—why did no one think of it before?"

"One should be careful, however, to use no other astringent than pure saxolite, as the former do no good and are really injurious more often than not."

THE COUNTY BOARD Of Ladies Auxiliary, A. O. H., Held Meeting

The Middlesex Co. Board of the Ladies' Auxiliary, A. O. H. held its quarterly meeting in Hibernian hall, this city, yesterday afternoon, which was attended by a large number of delegates. The meeting was opened by the county president, Mrs. Gavin, whose report, together with that of the county secretary and treasurer, showed the auxiliaries to be in a flourishing condition throughout the county. Considerable business was attended to after which the delegates listened to a very instructive, though brief address by the spiritual director of the local division, Rev. Dr. Kelleher of St. Peter's church. He congratulated the delegates on the large attendance and wished them success for the future. The state secretary, Mrs. McNamee, was present and addressed the members. She was followed by Miss Donna A. Conway of this city, the state sentinel, who welcomed the visitors to Lowell. Refreshments were then served after which a social hour was enjoyed. Sisters Rayball and Handley of this city, entertained with vocal and piano solos. The next meeting will be held in Wakefield.

DINNER HOUR AT BON MARCHE.

On Saturday last Mr. Gilmore, the manager of the Bon Marche, announced to the employees that they would be allowed one hour and a half for dinner throughout the winter. The employees have been allowed two hours for dinner all summer. This, with their Thursday afternoons off, makes the working time 45 hours per week in the summer and with the now long dinner hour for winter the winter schedule will be 56 hours per week. It is hardly necessary to say that the employees hailed this news with delight. The management of this store believes that by treating the employees liberally, they in turn will treat their customers as they should, thus making it mutually beneficial.

SAFE BLOWN OPEN Robbers Got Away With Cash and Stamps

BRUNSWICK, Me., Oct. 2.—The safe in the postoffice at Pejepscot was blown open today by burglars, who escaped without attracting attention and stamps to the value of $512 were taken. No one heard the explosion as far as known and the first knowledge of it was obtained when the building was opened.

Pejepscot is a village on the Lewiston-Brunswick branch of the Maine Central railroad between here and Auburn and the post office is located in the railroad station. The force of the explosion was so great that the building was badly damaged. The doors were damaged and it was necessary to force them open.

The work, which was cleverly done, it was said, is credited to professionalists. The break was effected sometime between 11 p. m. and 7 a. m.

War dance, Kickapoo, Asso., Thurs.

be an Irish parliament within 24 months and he advised his hearers to remember the chief's words: "We cannot spare a single Irishman."

He made a plea also for a conciliatory attitude toward Ulster.

As the statue was unveiled, a great cheer was raised. The crowds accompanied by the bands, pipes, harps and fife, sang the hymn, "The Memory of the Dead," and "God Save Ireland."

Not a single British flag flew in Dublin yesterday. The flag of Erin was everywhere, with a generous intermingling of American flags, many of which were carried in the procession.

SWINDLING SCHEME TODAY'S STOCK MARKET SENATOR STEPHENSON

Man Arrested on Charge Was Held in $500 Until Thursday

A rather interesting story of a swindling scheme was related in police court this morning, when Francis Xavier Tanguay, who claims to be Thomas de Montigny, Que., as his home was arrested before Judge Bradley on a complaint charging him with larceny in three counts, namely, On Oct. 27, 1906, on Oct. 1, 1911, $5 from Mrs. Philomena Marchand, and on the same date, $5 from Achille Roy. The defendant entered a plea of guilty and his case was continued till Thursday, he being held in the sum of $500 to make sure his appearance on that date.

The game as worked by Tanguay is an old one, but proved effective, it is alleged, in these three cases; it is about on the same plan as the Spanish swindle, which came very near making a number of victims in this city. Tanguay would call at a house and after considerable talk with the woman, who he would successfully "bump" as to the relatives of the family, would introduce himself as a cousin and then explain that the purpose of his visit was for the settlement of some estate left by a certain relative, and he would ask five dollars to cover the expenses of legal proceedings. Once he got the money, he would go and never return.

Five years ago Tanguay presented himself at the home of Mrs. Pinard in Gorham street, it is said, and he so successfully worked his game, that the woman gave him five dollars. That was the last seen of him until yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Pinard, who was with her husband, recognized the defendant coming across the North street common with a man, who proved later to be Achille Roy, another victim of Tanguay's scheme. Mrs. Pinard accosted her "cousin" and confronted him with his lies of five years ago. In the course of the conversation between Tanguay and the woman, Roy, who was a very interested listener, spoke up and said that he had been trimmed for $5 too, and by the same man whom he was escorting to the depot.

Tanguay then offered to reimburse

DIRECTORIES DISTRIBUTED

The new telephone directory is out. Over 500 of them have been distributed in Lowell. Kenneth Leathers says a copy should be in the hands of every subscriber, and he is desirous of being informed if any one has been overlooked in this distribution. A good many changes in numbers have had to be made, and, in order that good service be assured, it is necessary that the number should be listed correctly, that subscribers should consult the book before making a call, and of course that they should have the very latest book. Subscribers who have not received the latest book, therefore, should call him and give him information of the omission.

Barn in Chelmsford Burned Last Night

A barn filled with hay was burned in Chelmsford last night. The barn was in Juniper street near the Westlands and was owned by E. L. Gray of this city. The fire was discovered by Mrs. Edmond Norton and the fire department was called by telephone, but the fire had gained such headway that the barn and its contents were reduced to ashes before the firemen had time to get ready for the fight. The absence of wind and the rain that was falling kept the fire from spreading and surrounding buildings were not at any time in danger. The cause of the fire is unknown. The property was insured through the P. C. Church agency.

SEWERAGE PLANS

DIAGRAM SHOWING ALTERNATIVE PLANS OF DRAINING WIGGVILLE

The dotted line shows the course of sewer in first plan.

In plan 1 the distance from A to B equals 700 feet, cost $15,000. The distance from B to C equals 3500 feet, cost $20,000. The distance from A to C equals 4500 feet, cost $35,000.

Plan 2, shown by the black line on Lawrence street, contemplates a new sewer from C to D, distance 500 feet, cost $11,000 and the lowering and enlargement of the Lawrence street sewer from D to B, distance 1500 feet, cost $14,000. Total cost, $25,000.

One Means Waste of $35,000, the Other a Public Necessity

The committee on sewers is considering a plan for the construction of a sewer that would drain the American Hide & Leather company's plant, and at the same time offer an outlet for the sewerage of a portion of Wiggville.

It will be remembered that at a public hearing the American Hide & Leather company promised to build a sewer from its plant across the Concord river to connect with the intercepting sewer on Lawrence street. It would appear that the company at the present time favors a different method of solving the problem. It is proposed to have the city build the sewer and assume all responsibility, while the company would contribute $1800 in lieu of the accommodation of such sewer. In case the city fails to build the sewer connecting the company's plant with the Lawrence street sewer, the company proposes on its own account to carry the sewer across the river in a cutty sewer above the water. A great many people think that this would not carry out the original idea of building a sewer across the Concord river from Lawrence street at Watson, to the Hide & Leather company's plant, thence along the railroad tracks to a point at the center of Lawrence street near the cemetery gate.

From the American Hide & Leather company's plant to the cemetery gate there are no buildings on either side of the street. About 3500 feet of this sewer would be on private land and might be subject to rental.

The Alternative Plan

By a different plan the same point at the cemetery gate, and the same level may be reached by building a new sewer from that point to Moore street, and then lowering and enlarging the sewer already laid in Lawrence street from Moore street to South Whipple street. This sewer must be enlarged in any case to accommodate the demands of the district, and it would serve the same purpose as the sewer on the east bank of the Concord for draining Wiggville. Then the American Hide & Leather company could build its own connecting sewer across the Concord as proposed.

This was favored by City Engineer Powers when in office as in a letter dated October 14, 1908, he wrote the state board of health recommending it as a means of improving the sewerage of Lawrence street and also draining Wiggville. In that letter he said:

"Raising the grade of the streets will make possible another way of disposing of the sewage in Wiggville. That is, by substituting a 36 inch brick sewer for the present pipe sewer in Lawrence street, but at a sewer grade, from the city water brick sewer, an opposite South Whipple street to Moore street, then southerly to Concord river; then southerly to Concord river by a siphon, using 21 inch iron pipe; then changing to 24 inch clay pipe, to Billerica street. The estimated cost of this work is $34,000, of which amount $20,000 would be used in improving the sewer system, as the pipe sewer in Lawrence street is too small and has already given us much trouble."

In reply to this proposition the state board of health said:

"Having considered the plans and estimates of cost now presented, the board is of the opinion that the best practicable plan for disposing of the sewage of Wiggville and South Lowell will be to discharge it into the main sewerage system of the city of Lowell at the corner of Lawrence and South Whipple streets."

The expense of lowering and enlarging the sewer from South Whipple street to Moore street, a distance of 1500 feet, would be $11,000, and the cost of a new sewer from Moore street to the cemetery gate, a distance of 500 feet, would be $11,000. This plan was adopted in 1908, and it is the purpose of the other and more expensive plan, and at the same time replace the old sewer in Lawrence street which is not adequate to meet the present needs and which must be replaced in the near future and now, placed in the near future and now, there it appears that common sense and a regard for the city's interests in the matter of expenditure would dictate the adoption of this plan and the rejection of the other.

The American Hide & Leather company would then build a sewer across the Concord to connect with the trunk sewer at the junction of Lawrence and Watson streets and thus the whole problem would be solved without building a sewer on the property of the Boston & Maine and other private ground where land damages would undoubtedly be demanded.

Alderman Daly Favors Sewer

Alderman Daly, who from the start has been strongly in favor of the Wiggville sewer, was seen by a representative of The Sun today, and said:

"I want to say to begin with that I am in favor of a sewer to drain Wiggville and more than that I am in favor of having it started as soon as it is possible. I am like-wise in favor of having the sewer take the most logical and economical course, namely, along Lawrence street in the path of the present sewer. My reason for wishing a sewer along Lawrence street is on account of its easy access and the opportunity to care for the present business and tenement property on both sides of the street, not only for present needs but also for whatever improvement which would have to be reckoned with in the future. Furthermore, it would not be a very sound business policy to have the sewer which at present drains that section remain in use and build another sewer along a section of which I dare say no living prophet can be found who is so optimistic in his forecast as to see a remote possibility of it ever being used, for any purpose only the benefit which would be derived by the corporation of operations on the north of South Lowell."

"I am, mind you, deeply concerned in that great local industry, the American Hide & Leather Co., and I feel if any act of mine was necessary to show my appreciation of it without endangering the interest of the taxpayers I would gladly do all in my power toward maintaining that interest. But this has to be faced in a business manner, where the greatest good to the greatest number figures and figures very largely. I am, therefore, not in favor of the sewer taking any course other than the one now used, and if it is not sufficient to care for the sewage of our annexed section, in its present condition, then we can easily remedy that by lowering and enlarging it to meet the grade of that section of Wiggville which is as I understand too low at the present grade. We will be free in this course of any entangling alliance with private corporations such as all our other sewerage ways enjoy, and there will be no question of yearly allowances or suits for damages which is not only possible but very probable."

Alderman Daly further stated that he communicated with the state board of health some time ago in relation to the Wiggville sewer and his conclusions are based largely on the reply that he received from that body and which has already appeared in The Sun. He also said that the American Hide & Leather company officials had promised that if the city would allow them to build their beam house they would stand the expense of a sewer across the Concord river and therefore he believed they should be made live up to their promise. Mr. Daly has had several interviews with City Engineer Kearney in relation to this sewer problem, and undoubtedly when the matter comes before the board of aldermen, the ward nine aldermen will be armed with facts and figures that will interest the taxpayers.

City Engineer

City Engineer Kearney has made a thorough examination of both propositions and is ready to carry out the orders of the city council but he believes with Engineer Powers that plan 2 offers the better and less expensive solution of the problem.

The Number is Expected to be Increased Today

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—The test of the strike of the shipmen which was inaugurated on the Hamilton line Saturday was expected today. Saturday was a half holiday in most of the slums and it was not possible to determine to what extent the strike order was obeyed. Julius Kruttschnitt, vice president and director of maintenance of the Union and Southern Pacific lines, expressed the opinion that less than 25 per cent of the shipmen had gone out.

W. L. Park, vice president and general manager of the Illinois Central, claimed that less than one-half of the 2000 men on his line had obeyed the order.

DRUNKEN OFFENDERS

Occupied Court's Attention Today

Saturday and yesterday were two very busy days for the members of the police department, and 24 unfortunate ones fell in the clutches of the law. Of this number, nine were released yesterday morning and this morning by the probation officer, who is always willing to tender a helping hand to one who is stricken by misfortune. Four others of the first offense class were released with the minimum fine of $2.

Edgar O. Van Valkenburg, who last Saturday was sentenced to four months to the common jail after being found guilty of larceny, and who appeared, was in again this morning, but this time to withdraw his appeal. This was granted and the sentence was affirmed.

John McDonald, alias John A. Smith, alias Fraser, a parole man from the state farm, was returned to the same institution, where he will devote his time to the study of sobriety.

Phoebe Houle, according to the testimony offered by Patrolman Sheridan, was arrested in a room at 52 Elliot street last Saturday night and was sentenced to the reformatory for women, after she had pleaded guilty to committing adultery with drunkenness. Phoebe did not like the nature of the sentence and she appealed. She was held in the sum of $200 to make her appearance before the superior court.

John Hiallar pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness, but sentence in this case was deferred till tomorrow, as John is the party who was conducting the place where Phoebe was arrested, and a complaint charging him conducting a disorderly house will probably be sworn out against him.

Leonard B. Morse, also for drunkenness, will spend the coming three months in the common jail, while James Hildard will serve four months at the same institution. Michael Griffin was sentenced to three months in jail and Lillian A. Bernard to two months.

John A. McKenzie pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness, but his case was continued for a day. Michael J. Burke, William B. Currier and Eugene Ducharme, three second offenders, were fined $5 each, while Peter Olsen, a Sunday drunk, was fined $5.

Frank Hornum found guilty of carrying a dangerous weapon, was fined $5, while Herbert Cummings for the same offense had his case continued for one day.

John Hulstrom was found guilty of neglect of his wife and he was ordered to pay $10 a week for the support of his better half.

THE LOCAL HEBREWS

Observed the Day of Atonement Today

Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, the day of the long fast, the most sacred and most generally observed of all Jewish holidays, was ushered in on Sunday evening and ends with the appearance of the stars tonight.

The Day of Atonement is the tenth of the pentateuchal feasts which begin with the Hebrew New Year. On this day there is a total abstinence from food and drink. The devout spend the entire day in their houses of worship in prayer and fast. In the synagogues, some of which are opened for the entire 24 hours, the services began Sunday at 5 o'clock. These that closed were again opened at daylight today and from that time until sunset prayers were read continually.

The Day of Atonement services are begun with the Kol Nidre. This soft stirring melody is one of the oldest known and in some of the reformed temples is set for organs and even orchestras. This part of the service and the memorial service are two of the most solemn features in the ritual of the day. It is on Yom Kippur that the oldest members of the orthodox congregations say their prayers in their shrines.

Locally the Day of Atonement does not differ from the celebration elsewhere, but one recognizes that fact that something of great importance is going on, for on the streets where the Jewish business men hold forth everything is hushed and business is at a standstill. The temples of the reformed and synagogues of the orthodox are alike crowded by immense congregations largely augmented over those generally seen there.

VOTING ON CITY CHARTER

WATERVILLE, Me., Oct. 2.—A special election to consider the adoption of a proposed new city charter which provides for a commission form of government with three councilors, one of whom is elected each year, was held in this city today. The proposed charter carries with it the principles of the initiative, referendum and recall. The plan was proposed by Mayor William Patterson, former City Clerk Clair and others.

STRUCK BY A TRAIN

Elderly Woman Had a Narrow Escape From Death

Mrs. Mary A. Watson, an elderly woman, narrowly escaped death this afternoon when she was struck by a passenger train at the School street crossing. She received severe cuts about the head and feet and was removed to St. John's hospital, where it is hoped she will recover.

The School street crossing is a very busy spot these days, for a large shift of men is engaged in building a road over the crossing. The railroad crossing has been fenced around, but despite this fact, the woman walked around the fence at 1:46 o'clock this afternoon and started to cross the tracks.

She apparently did not see an approaching passenger train and she was struck by the locomotive and thrown several feet to one side of the rails. The ambulance was called and she was removed to St. John's hospital, where the doctors after a close examination found that besides her bruises the woman was suffering from a skull fracture which made her condition still worse. Her injuries, however, are not of a serious nature.

MAN KICKED TO DEATH

WEXFORD, Oct. 2.—The bruise-covered body of Nicholas Cassett, an Italian, was found by the police today in his home on Barrows street and almost immediately the authorities began a search for his brother, Peter, aged 39, who is charged by the police with murder. Nicholas Cassett was 28 years old. Yesterday, it is alleged, the brothers had a violent fight and the police claim that Nicholas was beaten and kicked to death by Peter.

According to the police, the Cassett brothers have borne bad reputations, and a paper found in Nicholas' pocket indicated that he had been released on probation recently from the state farm at Bridgewater. Both men were employed in a local shoe factory.

CREW OF 20 MEN DROWNED

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The British steamer Hatfield, from Tuelva, Spain, for Rotterdam, was in collision today with the British steamer Glasgow, from Rotterdam and Dundee, and sunk. All the members of the crew, numbering about 20 men, were drowned.

A SWEEPING INJUNCTION

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 2.—A temporary injunction, sweeping in its provisions and application to the entire state of Mississippi, was issued here today by Federal Judge Niles against the unions on strike on the Illinois Central railroad.

WHEN NEIGHBORS MEET

MRS. CHRISTIAN HILL.—Wasn't this a poor drying day? It rained so hard this morning. I have deferred my washing to tomorrow.

MRS. MAY STREET.—My washer-woman didn't show up, but even though she had, and if the sun had been out, too, I couldn't have hung out my washing, because I am in need of a new clothes line. I intended to buy one last week, but somehow I put it off.

MRS. CHRISTIAN HILL.—Don't you know, C. B. Colburn Co., of Market street, sell soft finish, cotton clothes line. It is solid braided. The quarter-inch is 25c a pound and averages sixty feet to a pound. Besides that, they sell the best Manila hemp clothes line, averaging forty-five feet to a pound, and they get 12c a pound for it. You should buy your clothes line at Colburn's.

MRS. MAY STREET.—I believe I shall buy it at Colburn's, because I bought a hank of window sash cord there, and have found it to be exceptionally durable.
